Voted, To adopt and publish in the Minutes the plan relative to systematic benevolent operations, recommended to this body the last year.

Voted to adjourn to half-past nine o'clock to-morrow (Thursday) morning.

Wednesday evening, by direction of the Association, a sermon was preached in behalf of Home Missions, by Rev. Mr. Mann.

Thursday morning, June 24. The Association met pursuant to adjournment; the roll was called, and the meeting opened with prayer by the Moderator. The Minutes of the preceding day were read.

The Committee to whom was referred the communication from the General Association of Connecticut presented the following resolution, which was adopted, as amended.

Resolved, That we approve of the publication of the Cambridge Platform, in its simple form, in the volume about to be published by that Body, consisting of the Saybrook Platform, with Notes, and a Digest of Notes and Usages; and that this resolution be communicated to the Committee of the Connecticut Association.

The Committee on the subject of Temperance reported the following resolution, which was adopted.

We have heard with great satisfaction of the progress of Temperance among inebriates, and of the interest awakened among children by the formation of Juvenile Associations; and believing that the traffic and manufacture of alcoholic drinks must cease, when drunkards are reformed, and the children and youths organized into Temperance Societies: Therefore,

Resolved, That we highly approve of these modes of promoting the cause of Temperance, and would recommend the formation of the young into such societies; and the procuring lectures from reformed drunkards.

The following resolution submitted by the Committee on the 10th Rule, was adopted: —

Resolved, That the Delegates of this Association be requested to procure the following addition to the 10th Rule of the General Association of Massachusetts; to wit,

“But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.”

Rev. Dr. Emerson, Rev. Messrs. Durfee and Cobb, were appointed a committee to consider what action (if any) this Association should take on the subject of slavery. This committee presented their report, which was recommitted; and the Rev. Dr. Osgood, and the Rev. Messrs. Prime and Brown, were added to the Committee.

The Committee on the subject of Sabbath Mails presented their report, which was amended and adopted, as follows: —

Whereas, we believe the Sabbath to be an institution of Divine appointment, the desecration of which is offensive to God, and destructive in its tendency of the liberty and prosperity of the nation, no less than of the individual: Therefore,

Resolved, That we regard with apprehension and alarm the extensive profanation of this sacred institution in our land, and especially the sanction given to this violation of God's law by the government of the United States, in the continued conveyance of Sabbath Mails, and the employment of many thousands of people in work of neither necessity nor mercy. And we would call on the friends of the Sabbath and of our country, to engage in fervent and persevering prayer to God, that he would incline the hearts of our rulers to use the authority committed to them for the removal of an evil so deeply to be deplored.

Voted, That a copy of the above resolution be forwarded to the Post Master General, by the Moderator, signed by him and the Scribe.

Rev. Mr. Riddel was heard in behalf of the American Education Society.

Rev. Mr. Bingham presented the claims of Foreign Missions; and the following resolution offered by him, and seconded by Rev. Dr. Snell, was adopted:—

Whereas, God has made ample provision for the salvation of the world, and has commanded those who know and love him to make this provision known to all men, and has put into the hands of his people of the present generation the means of giving the gospel to the unevangelized of all nations, and requires and reasonably expects them to do this before the mass of the unevangelized of the present generation shall be called with themselves to his bar, and, whereas, the most inviting openings which he is making for missionary efforts in the four quarters of the globe, and the recent wonderful displays of his grace in connection with the dissemination of the Scriptures and the preaching of the Gospel, especially in the isles of the sea, and the promised glorious ministrations of his spirit in connection with his appointed means, all demand our adoring gratitude, raise the hope and courage of the friends of Christ, and strongly impel them to the most vigorous and timely efforts to save the lost now within our reach: Therefore,

Resolved, That we heartily recommend to every Pastor and every Church in our connection that they abound in sympathies, in prayers, and in unwonted efforts for the conversion of the world; and that every Church should not only be emphatically an Aaron and Hur Society for upholding the hands of Christ's heralds to the heathen, but at this interesting and most favorable crisis should increase as far as possible their contributions to the missionary cause for securing this grand object to which the exalted Saviour who bled for it, and all Heaven are now looking with intense desire and holy expectation.

The cause of Home Missions, and the claims of the American Home Missionary Society, were presented by Rev. Milton Badger.

Rev. Asa Bullard was heard in behalf of the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society.

The Committee on the subject of Slavery made the following report which was adopted : —

Whereas, this Association having repeatedly expressed their views respecting the moral character of slavery, and the evils arising out of it, believe that a friendly correspondence with some ecclesiastical body, in some one of the Slave States, might possibly have a favorable influence upon emancipation : Therefore,

Resolved, That a Committee of five be appointed to open such correspondence ; and, if practicable, report to this Association at the next meeting.

Voted, That Rev. Messrs. Josiah Clark, Durfee, Sessions, Orin Fowler, and Rev. Dr. Ide, be appointed a Committee to carry into effect the preceding resolution ; and that this Committee have liberty to appoint their own Chairman.

The Committee appointed to prepare a Narrative of the State of Religion, presented their report which was accepted, and placed in the hands of the Publishing Committee to be printed under their direction.

Voted, That the thanks of this Association be presented to Rev. Messrs. Knapp and Davis, and the people of their charge, who have extended to us their hospitalities, for their christian kindness ; and also to the choir of singers who have aided our devotions by their acceptable performance.

Adjourned till 2 o'clock, P. M.

Thursday, 2 o'clock, P. M. The Association met according to adjournment, and attended to the public religious services usually connected with the last Session of this Body. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Kidder, of Vermont. Rev. Alvin Cobb preached the Associational Sermon from James i, 18. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was then administered, in which exercise Rev. Messrs. Bingham and Allen made addresses and offered prayer.

Voted, That these Minutes be adopted as the Minutes of the Association.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

A review of the past year imposes upon us the duty of a devout acknowledgment of the goodness of God. The churches of Christ in this ancient Commonwealth, which have so long enjoyed the protection of God's Providence, and shared in the refreshing influences of his grace, have now renewed occasion to speak of the faithfulness of their glorious head. Not that they have been without trials and rebukes consequent upon sin. A few of the District Associations speak of criminal indifference to the honor of Christ; of the absence of the reviving power of the Holy Ghost, and of instances of decay in the spirit of godliness. In some churches there have been strifes, and some have been invaded by errors and false doctrines, drawing away the unstable; and some speak with grief of the neglect of christian ordinances; the desecration of the Sabbath by the public conveyance of mails, and by travelling. In all these things we see occasion for humiliation and penitence.

Yet, that the Lord has been very merciful to these churches, a brief reference to the Associational Reports will clearly show:—

The Berkshire Association report, that "two of their number, Rev. Joseph L. Mills of Becket, and Rev. Edwin W. Dwight of Stockbridge, have closed their labors on earth, and gone to receive their reward at the hand of their Divine Master. But amid such afflictive visitations, they say, "We have still abundant reasons to rejoice in the mercy of God, that he has not forgotten to be gracious, and has not withheld the influences of his Spirit necessary to give success to the preaching of the Gospel." Some of the churches have been blessed with revivals of religion, especially Lee, Richmond, and the congregation at Housatonic-Ville. "Williams College has likewise shared to some extent in the special blessings of Heaven, and is steadily increasing in influence and prosperity."

The Hampshire Association say, "In reviewing the dealings of God with his heritage in our county the past year, while we find occasion to be deeply humbled, in view of the remissness of the Lord's professed followers, we have cause for thankfulness that the Lord has visited several of the churches and congregations with more than ordinary blessings." During the year one of their number, Rev. Vincent Gould of South Hampton, has been removed by death. Amherst College, though "embarrassed for the want of funds," is still reported as in a flourishing condition. The Institution numbers 157 students, of whom more than 90 are professedly the servants of Christ. The Mount Holyoke Female Seminary is in a prosperous condition. A revival has been in progress during the year, and nearly all of the 113 members of the Institution are hopefully pious.

The Hampden Association report, that "peace and union" and increased attention to the means of grace are manifest in their churches. North Wilbraham, Southwick, 1st Parish in West Springfield, and 1st Parish in Springfield, have been specially visited by the Holy Spirit, while eight or nine other places have been marked by uncommon religious interest.

The Franklin Association report, an interesting revival in the Church in Bernardston, as the fruits of which 30 have been added to that small Church; also several cases of conversion in Shelburne, and a good degree of harmony among all their ministers and churches.

All the churches of the Brookfield Association are now supplied with Pastors, excepting one. The monthly concert of prayer is observed in all the churches, and the spirit of benevolence is on the increase. Though unable to report powerful revivals, they speak of the year as "crowned with distinguished blessings."

The Report of the Harmony Association speaks with devout gratitude of several interesting revivals, especially in Milbury, Grafton, Sutton, and Upton. Of the 45 received into the Church in Sutton, 34 are under 25 years of age, and 19 are young men. The number received to the Church in Upton is 82. Many others indulge hope, and the special interest continues. The venerable Pastor of this Church speaks of it as a joyful and marvellous work of grace.

The Worcester Central Association speak of more than usual prosperity. "Most of the churches have been blessed, in a greater or less degree, with the special influences of the Holy Spirit;" particularly Oxford, Leicester, and Holden. Mention is made of "increased numbers" and an "improved state of piety" in nearly all their churches.

In the Worcester North Association, "the word of God is proclaimed in all their churches, with some tokens of the Divine presence and blessing." The congregations in Athol, Petersham, and Templeton, are enlarged and considerable additions made to several churches.

In the Middlesex Union Association the churches most favored, are those in Leominster, Lunenburg, Groton, Harvard, Bolton, and Westford. To the last, sixty-four have been added as the fruits of a precious <sup>rev.</sup> revival.

Framingham and Sudbury in the Middlesex South Association have been visited by the Holy Spirit, and considerable numbers gathered into the churches.

In the Woburn Association, West Reading, Stoneham, and Woburn, are spoken of as revived. In Woburn more than one hundred have been received to the Church.

The Andover Association report 540 additions to their churches during the year. The churches in Lowell, North Reading, and Andover South Parish, are those most favored. The Theological Seminary is in a healthful and prosperous condition. Number of students 150. A missionary spirit is still cherished in the Institution. Several have consecrated themselves to the work of God in foreign lands.

The Essex North Association speak of the past year as one of peculiar prosperity. West Amesbury, West Bradford, (including the Female Academy in that place,) and Centre Church in Haverhill, are particularly specified as favored of God in regard to Divine influence.

The Essex South Association report all their 25 churches as supplied with Pastors, excepting one, the church in Topsfield, which has recently become destitute. Nearly all are highly prosperous, and have received additions to their numbers. Thirty-eight have been added to the South Church in Salem. Rockport, Lynn, and North Danvers, have also been revived.

The North and South Suffolk Associations embracing the Evangelical Churches of Boston and the immediate vicinity, report the addition of about 700 to the churches during the year; chiefly the fruits of an interesting revival, which commenced in nearly all of them in the beginning of 1840. A revived state of feeling continued through the year. They speak of a "good degree of union, and on the part of ministers and people, a growing attachment to the ordinary means of grace, and a more confident reliance upon them, as the means to be used for the conversion of sinners and the edification of believers."

The Norfolk Association report great unanimity and harmony as prevailing among all their ministers and churches: They say, that "the way of the Lord is evidently preparing among them, for greater things than they have yet seen." Some of the churches have been highly favored during the past year.

The Taunton Association speak of occasion to praise God for spiritual blessings. Many congregations have had reason to exclaim, "What hath God wrought!"

Sixty-five have been added to the church in Fall River, — the fruits of a precious revival during the year.

The Report of the Old Colony Association speaks of a good work of Divine grace in New Bedford, Middleboro, and Centre Church in Rochester; and of more than usual attention in Fairhaven and Mattapoisett. The Vineyard Sound Association report a revival of religion in Falmouth, bringing between 20 and 30 into the church, a large proportion of whom are heads of families.

We this year greet the Mendon Association as a constituent member of our Body, and look forward with confident anticipation of mutual good, from the union which has now been effected. From that Association of course we this year receive no particular report.

We are happy also in being able to speak of a growing interest in the various benevolent and philanthropic movements of the present day, designed to meliorate the condition of society, and communicate the blessings of the Gospel to the whole world.

Nearly every Associational Report speaks of a general and lively interest in Sabbath Schools and Bible Classes, of an increasing liberality in aiding benevolent objects even under the heavy pecuniary pressure of the times; of a growing zeal in promoting attendance upon public worship; of hopeful indications in the temperance cause, chiefly growing out of the zealous co-operation of reformed inebriates, who have become apostles in this work of reform ; and of a commendable attention to the religious training of the young, and to the cause of education generally.

We rejoice in being able to speak of the great goodness of God to those foreign Ecclesiastical Bodies with whom we are in friendly correspondence.

From the Presbyterian Church in the United States we have received warm assurances of their christian regard. They speak of harmony in their borders ; of old churches revived ; of new churches formed ; of large additions to the number of communicants ; of a growing interest in their Boards of Domestic and Foreign Missions ; of education and of publication.

The General Conference of Maine, have this year favored us with no communication concerning the state of religion within their bounds.

From the General Association of New Hampshire we are happy to receive the assurances of prosperity. They speak to the praise of God's goodness of increasing harmony ; of revivals of religion ; of a strengthening attachment to permanency in the pastoral relation ; of an enlarging liberality in contributing to benevolent objects ; of the observance of the monthly concert of prayer ; of advancement in the temperance cause ; of Sabbath Schools and Maternal Associations, and education generally, as exciting much interest.

The Convention of Vermont report 202 churches, 97 settled Pastors, and 45 stated supplies. Their churches embrace 23,000 members. More than 1000 have been added the last year, making the net increase about 500. Several of these churches have enjoyed precious revivals of religion.

The Consociation of Rhode Island, is composed of 14 churches, among whom there prevails perfect harmony, — one mind and heart, — in striving together for the promotion of truth ; and the Lord is prospering them.

The General Association of New York, embraces eight local associations and 130 churches. Amid many severe trials arising from local causes, they yet make mention of the Lord's fostering care and protection, and express the hope that those things which have hitherto marred their beauty and strength, may be speedily removed. They earnestly solicit the friendly co-operation of the Congregational Bodies in New England.

From the General Association of Connecticut the most cheering tidings have been brought to us. To them the last has been emphatically a year of the right hand of the Most High. Nearly every town on the Connecticut River, from its mouth to the northern limit of the State, has been refreshed by the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. Yale College has richly shared in the blessing; and from 70 to 80 of the students have been brought, as is hoped, to consecrate their talents and lives to the service of Christ.

In view of all this, may we not say, "The Lord loveth Zion. He hath made her his habitation. Her name is graven upon his hands, and her memorial is ever before him. For my brethren and companion's sake I will now say, peace be within thee. Because of the house of the Lord our God I will seek thy good."

PASTORAL LETTER.

BRETHREN, BELOVED IN THE LORD, —

For many years past we have assumed the responsibility of annually addressing you upon subjects, which, in our apprehension, stand intimately connected with your spiritual prosperity and the glory of God our Savior.

You have been invited to look back to our Pilgrim Fathers and see how they labored, and prayed, and suffered, to establish churches and obtain liberty for themselves and their posterity to worship God without molestation in their own way. You have been invited to consider the great doctrine they embraced, and defended, and taught, and loved, which gave firmness to their resolution, and strength and perseverance in executing their high purposes amidst toils and perils. You have, moreover, been referred for an example worthy of imitation, to their devotedness to God, both hearty and consistent, and their reliance on Christ crucified for remission and everlasting life, “both unconditional and supreme.”

We would now invite you to look to our pious ancestors and see the zeal with which they entered upon the duty of religiously training their children, and the diligence and ardor with which they prosecuted this work both difficult and indispensable. When they sought an asylum from oppression, they sought it not for themselves only, but for their posterity. When laying the foundations broad and deep of this new and now rising empire, they looked not so much on their own things, as on the things of Christ and of generations unborn. The provision they early made for the intellectual culture and religious training of their children and their children's children, speak in praise both of their wisdom and piety. To this, under God, we are to attribute the vast amount of good that falls to our lot; and which may, dear brethren, by your watchfulness and fidelity, be the inheritance of your beloved offspring.

Our Puritan Fathers adopted for their own and cherished as their life, the worthy resolution of Joshua, "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." In some happy measure they carried this pious resolution into effect, which proved them to be neither insincere nor fickle-minded.

You remember what the Lord said of Abraham: he "shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him: For I know him, that he will command his children and his household after him; and they shall keep the way of the Lord, to do justice and judgment." And we presume you have not overlooked what the Apostle wrote to the Ephesian christians in respect to the religious training of their children. "Bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." These things were written, not for their sakes only to whom they were addressed, but also for our admonition upon whom the ends of the world are come.

Consider then, beloved brethren, what is embraced in religiously educating your offspring as subjects of God's moral government, training in this state of mercy for a world of eternal retribution.

In discharging parental duty, you will dedicate your children to God in the sacred ordinance of his own appointment. He has committed them to your hands with the solemn charge, "take these children and train them up for me." And in performing this work, are you not, first of all, to set them apart to be the Lord's? The ready response from all pious parents will be, "Yes, this is our first duty to our offspring, and in heart we do consecrate them to God." Why not, then, we may inquire, put upon them the token of consecration which Divine wisdom and grace have appointed? — that token of the gracious covenant which God has established with his people?

Though under different dispensations, the true church is one; built upon the same foundation, and to whom belongs the all-comprehensive promise of the covenant of grace. "I will be your God, and ye shall be my people." This was the covenant established with Abraham, the father of all who believe. They are the children of God and constitute one church — one spiritual family, by faith in Christ Jesus. “If ye be Christ’s, then are ye Abraham’s seed, and heirs according to the promise.” Those who, after the advent of the Son of God, believe on him, are heirs to the same rich blessings promised to Abraham, with whom the covenant of grace was first sealed. And, as he stood at the head of the church, now for the first time in visible form, and would have his children pious and separated from the world, God commanded him to put upon himself and upon his household the appointed token of separation, which sealed the covenant into which he had now entered.

When our Lord appeared in his public ministry and was going about doing good, he rebuked his disciples for discouraging believing parents from bringing their little children to him that he might lay his hands on them and pray. This transaction and the reason he assigned why they should be brought to him, viz. : “For of such is the kingdom of Heaven,” fully answer some fond objections of those who deny their children the token of dedication. And, brethren, this is not all the ground on which we stand in consecrating our offspring to God. For when our Lord had ascended to his Father, and the christian dispensation was fully introduced by substituting the Lord’s Supper for the Passover ; the first, for the seventh day Sabbath ; and baptism for circumcision as the seal of the righteousness of faith and token of the covenant, the Apostle called upon the Assembly to repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins ; “For the promise is unto you and your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.” Under the new dispensation then, “the promise is to you and your children,” as it was under the old ; and not only to the Jews, but also unto all that are afar off among the Gentiles, even as many as the Lord our God shall call to his kingdom. The promise is to them and their children. You will not then consider it an unmeaning, or unscriptural, or unauthorised transaction, while in heart you dedicate your children to God, to put upon them the token of God’s gracious covenant, as he commanded it to be done at the first.

Do any of you, dear brethren, desire more light upon this subject to make the path of duty plain ? You will find it by looking at some of the particular transactions of the Apostles in their ministry. When Lydia was converted under Paul’s preaching, he baptized her, and also her household. And when the jailer believed on Christ he was baptized and all his straightway. Why should not christians at this day follow their example, and believing parents set apart their households for God by putting upon them the token of his gracious covenant, and not account the children of the church unclean? And is it not a departure from the example of primitive christians, while it seems to be slighting the covenant into which God proposed to take believers and their seed?

Christians at this day ought not to be ignorant of the fact, and that you, dear brethren, may know it, we assure you upon the authority of the most credible and well-informed writers of the first four hundred years of the christian era, that the practice of baptizing the children of the church “ was not instituted by councils; but received from Christ and his Apostles—that it was practised by the whole church and was ever in use.” And we would further remind you, of the fact, that from the close of the fourth century to the beginning of the twelfth, a period of more than 700 years, there were no churches so far as is known, that did not practice infant baptism. The first permanent body of professed christians that denied baptism to their children arose in Europe in the fifteenth century. And you are aware that any practice in the church whose origin can be traced to any particular time since the Apostles is not, and cannot be of apostolic authority. Yet the denial of baptism to the children of the church can be traced to the fifteenth century as the time of its origin, and to Europe as the place. Whereas, the origin of infant baptism cannot be found short of the first century, when the practice of the Apostles was well known throughout the whole church.

Who is not acquainted with the fact, that for many years after our Puritan Fathers came to this country, believing parents in these colonies almost, if not entirely without exception, dedicated their offspring to God in christian baptism? And what, dear brethren, has been the influence of the almost universal practice of infant baptism in all the New-England colonies, except Rhode-Island? Does not the effect evidently speak in high commendation of the practice, and call upon you carefully to follow our pious ancestors in putting the token of the covenant upon your dear children, whom you have promised to train for God?

In view of all the considerations we have stated, how can any of you who profess subjection to the Lord Jesus Christ, and would have your offspring separate from the world, deny them the privilege of standing in an interesting and peculiar relation to the church and the God of our fathers? If you are Christ's then are you Abraham's seed; but do you follow Abraham's example, if you deny to your household the token of the covenant? The Apostles on the faith of parents, baptized their household; but if you withhold your household, how are you in subjection to the authority of Christ who gave the Apostles their commission? The time was, when all professed christians in this section of our country, and especially, in those portions of it most distinguished for piety, and order, and steady habits, without one exception, set apart their children for God in the ordinance of baptism. They looked upon them as consecrated to God the Savior, and by this transaction were often reminded of their vows and obligation to bring them up in his fear. And would you be accounted worthy to be reckoned among the descendants of the Pilgrims, imitate their christian example and set apart your household to be holy to God by placing upon them the token of the everlasting covenant into which he condescends to receive his people and their seed.

Do any of you, brethren, neglect this duty to your offspring, because you do not perceive the use of it? We may ask in reply, must we perceive the particular use of what God requires, before it becomes our duty to yield obedience to his command? Did Abraham understand the particular use of sacrificing his son Isaac? And yet like a willing subject he obeyed without hesitation. Be it remembered, however, that God has established no useless institutions — none which can safely be neglected — none but what if duly observed, will contribute to the growth of the church and the salvation of men. And to what communities will you look to find the youth most generally and faithfully educated for Heaven, and where the church is most prosperous? To those from which infant baptism is excluded? Look around the land and see, and tell us your honest conviction. There is opportunity to compare even contiguous states as well as smaller communities, and learn the general influence and operation of the practice of infant dedication, and of its neglect. You may, indeed, find good christians and some flourishing churches who neglect this sacred institution. But then such churches are almost uniformly found surrounded with others who baptize their children. Should the churches that baptize their children become extinct, those which neglect this duty would inevitably decay amidst such a population as New-England. They must receive accessions from the baptized children of other churches, or they will languish.

If these things be so, and we believe that none can gainsay them, you will, brethren, be more fully convinced than ever, of the importance of the duty, and the solemn obligation lying upon you, to set your household apart for God in an ordinance of his own appointment. By placing upon them the token of dedication you tell the world, that you mean they shall be the children of Abraham's God. His willingness to take your offspring into a covenant relation to himself and his direction to put the token of this covenant upon them, while it should excite you to the solemn duty of their consecration, ought to fill your hearts with admiration and grateful praise. You will then feel it a duty, dangerous to neglect — a privilege, which none can innocently despise. If the angel of the Lord would slay Moses because he had been dissuaded by his unbelieving wife from putting the token of the covenant upon his children; how shall christians in neglecting the same duty be clear of blame? God pronounced the neglect a breach of covenant. Wherefore beloved brethren, treat your children as proper subjects of baptism, and as beings whose apostate condition demands of you the diligent use of all the facilities in your hands for their sanctification that they perish not with the ungodly.

You will not, however, imagine, brethren, that your work is done, when you have given up your offspring to God. In this transaction you recognize your obligation to train them for him, and express your purpose, that as far as in you lies, they shall be God's people. This is but the beginning of your work, which is to be carried out by your continued efforts corresponding with the solemn act of dedication. You will then instruct them into the great principles and duties of christianity. However useful may be the instructions of the Sabbath School, they do not, and ought not to be made by any christian parent, to supersede religious instruction from his own mouth. Your children will probably know but very little about the fundamental truths of the gospel, unless you teach them yourselves, as our pious ancestors taught their children — “what be the first principles of the oracles of God.” We would press upon your attention this great duty, that your children may know and be established in the truth, and by the truth be made free. You may find no better compend of christian doctrine to aid you in this work than the Assembly's Shorter Catechism, which was so generally and successfully used by our pious fathers. Trust not to others to indoctrinate your children without looking to it yourselves and exercising over the whole concern, a wise and faithful supervision. God has put this great work into your own hands, and you cannot throw off the responsibility upon others, nor neglect the duty, but at an awful risk on the part of your offspring. God appointed a law in Israel that they should make known his wonders and his truth to their children; that the generations to come might know them, and declare them to their children, that they might set their hope in God and keep his commandments.

Nor does your duty, brethren, stop here. Both by your instructions and your example, let your children know, that, according to the command of God, there is a Sabbath of holy rest. Let them understand how sacred and precious the Sabbath is — how intimately connected with their own best good and the nation's prosperity, and that the Lord made it for man. Provide for them proper instruction in the sanctuary, and thither lead them from Sabbath to Sabbath, that they may learn to worship God where he so often manifests his glory, and by the victories of his grace makes Zion more glorious than the mountains of prey.

By publicly devoting your children to God, you virtually ask for them the prayer of the saints. And saints will pray for baptized children, training in the bosom of the church to be the sons and daughters of God Almighty. But, brethren, your own dwellings must be so many temples consecrated to God — your households so many little worshipping assemblies, in the midst of which you must minister as God's priests. While you are encouraged to hope, in answer to prayer, for spiritual blessings upon your offspring, you will find it comparatively easy, by offering the morning and evening sacrifice, to restrain, and govern, and order your households after you to keep the way of the Lord. But if like Eli, you neglect to restrain your children and have them in due subjection, you have reason to fear that by their violence they will cover you with shame, while they bring upon themselves the curse of God.

The work to which we are inviting your attention and which we would excite you to perform, you cannot commence too early, nor prosecute with too much energy and perseverance. It is a great work and of inconceivable importance. If the children of the church do not rise up in their father's stead, who shall stand up in their room, when they lie down in their beds of dust. Were religious trainings to cease in christian families, the church would soon become extinct and lands of gospel light be filled with practical infidelity and atheism.

Then, brethren, awake to the pleasant, but all-important duty of piously educating your children, that religion, pure and undefiled, may be perpetuated in your posterity to the end of time. Let your love to them prompt you to your whole duty, beginning with their consecration to God who claims them for his own. If it be in your hearts to serve the Lord with your household, he will make you glad. His work will appear to his servants and His glory to their children, and the beauty of the Lord our God will be upon them. And instead of the fathers shall be your children who shall become kings and and priests unto God in all the land.

RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

1. The Association, by which the General Association of Massachusetts was originally organized, agreed to admit, and this Association continue to admit, as articles of faith, the doctrines of Christianity, as they are generally expressed in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism;—and the above-mentioned doctrines, understood by us to be distinctly those, which from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel, are considered as the basis of our union.

2. This General Association is founded on the principles of Congregationalism, and wholly disclaims ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the churches, or the opinions of individuals. Its object is to promote brotherly harmony and intercourse among the ministers of Christ;—to obtain religious information relative to the state of their churches, and of the Christian church in this country, and throughout the world;—and to cooperate with one another, and with other ecclesiastical bodies in the most eligible measures for advancing the cause of truth and holiness.

3. Each District Association in Massachusetts, consenting to the principles of this Union, as stated in the first article, may appoint two delegates annually, to compose this General Association: and it is recommended, that one be appointed, who attended the preceding year.

4. The time of the annual meeting of this Association, shall be on the fourth Tuesday of June, at five o'clock, P. M., at such place, as shall have been duly notified.

5. Seven members, delegated from the particular Associations of Massachusetts, shall be requisite to form a quorum for transacting any business; but for opening and adjourning the meeting, a less number shall be competent.

6. The secretary and the minister of the church, where the Association meet, shall have seats, and act as members; the Associations to which they belong retaining the right to elect their number of Delegates in addition.

7. The minister of the church in the place where the Association meets, or the Secretary, may call the Association to order and preside in the meeting until the Association shall be properly organized.

8. The certificates of the delegates present shall be read by the Secretary or by a temporary Scribe, and the Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator, a Scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant Scribe by ballot. The Rules of the Association shall also be read, and the Moderator shall open the business with prayer.

9. At the opening of the session on each subsequent day, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order; direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

10. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, shall be appointed by nomination, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

11. Every motion on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing, and no motion shall be open to discussion, until it be seconded.

12. The Moderator may speak to points of order, in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

13. On questions of order, adjournment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, no member shall speak more than once. Nor on any question shall a member speak more than twice, without leave of the Association.

14. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question; viz. Shall the main question be now put.

15. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

16. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members to call him to order.

17. The discussions in the Association, and the whole deportment of the members shall be in accordance with decorum, with due respect to the chair, and with courtesy to each other.

18. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

19. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer by the Moderator, or such other member as he shall appoint.

20. The principles of the connections formed with the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, the General Associations of Connecticut and New Hampshire, the General Convention of Congregational and Presbyterian Ministers in Vermont, and the Evangelical Consociation of Rhode-Island, are, that this General Association, and each ecclesiastical body connected with it, shall annually appoint, each two Delegates to the other, who shall be admitted into each body, to the same right of sitting, debating, and voting with their own members respectively.

21. Gentlemen, who are admitted as honorary members, shall be allowed full liberty to take part in all deliberations; though they are not considered as entitled to vote; and it is expected they will give notice to the body, if they find it necessary to withdraw previous to the close of the session. The approbation of the Committee of Arrangements shall be obtained, before a gentleman shall be proposed to sit as an honorary member.

22. The Delegates, who the preceding year attended the meetings of foreign bodies, shall, ex officio, have seats as honorary members of the General Association.

23. A Committee of three shall be annually appointed, to submit to the General Association at the next meeting, a Pastoral Address, to excite the attention of ministers and Christians, to faithful discipline in the churches, the instruction of the rising generation, the sanctification of the Sabbath, and other subjects relating to the general interests of religion. The Address being approved by the General Association, shall be signed by the Moderator, and printed with the minutes. This Committee shall be chosen from the several Associations in rotation.

24. The Associational Sermon shall be delivered at two o'clock, Thursday, P. M., after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper shall be administered. The narratives given by the Delegates of the several Associations concerning the state of religion and the churches, shall be given on Wednesday afternoon, and shall be presented in writing, with a view to obtain an accurate account of the principal facts, not however to prevent any more particular details which the Delegates may think expedient to add, or the Association to request. The returns, with respect to the number in the churches, etc., shall be made out according to a printed schedule of this body, and according to the numbers on the first of January past.

25. A Committee shall be appointed to receive the narratives and statements, and shall condense them into one narrative, to be submitted to the General Association and published. The written narratives shall be deposited with the Secretary.

26. A Committee shall be appointed to nominate Delegates to foreign bodies, which delegates shall, as far as practicable, be selected from the District Associations in rotation. The brethren chosen substitutes in the delegations to the several bodies in our connection, shall, at our next session be considered as Delegates to the respective bodies, if they shall not previously have taken their seats there, through the failure of their principals.

27. The Secretary shall be chosen for three years, from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made. He shall, ex officio, be the Treasurer of the General Association; and shall be allowed his own travelling expenses in attending the meetings of this Association. A Committee shall be appointed annually, to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the members of the several Associations connected with this body. The Secretary shall be authorised to pay such expenses as are allowed by this Association.

28. It shall be the duty of the Delegates of the District Associations, to pay the amount of the Assessments due from their respective Associations for the past year, whether collected by them or not.

29. A Publishing Committee shall be annually appointed, to make such extracts from the minutes of the meeting, as in their judgment it will be proper to publish; procure to be printed such number of copies with the Pastoral Address and Narrative of the State of Religion, as will give one copy to each minister of the Associations represented in this body; and such a number of copies for other bodies connected with this Association, as shall be mutually agreed upon. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to receive the publications from foreign bodies, and distribute them among the several Associations, in proportion to the tax paid by them respectively. One copy of each publication, received by the General Association, or printed by its order, shall be kept in the archives.

30. An Agent shall be appointed in Boston to transmit the Extracts of the Minutes of this General Association to other ecclesiastical bodies, and to receive their Extracts or other publications, and transmit them to the several District Associations represented in this body. And notice of his appointment and place of business, shall be inserted in the printed Extracts. He shall be entitled to a suitable compensation.

31. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to communicate proper information to the Agent in Boston, and to the Publishing Committee, for their direction.

32. Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and request some District Association to appoint a preacher to deliver the Associational Sermon. And the church of the place of meeting is desired to make preparations to celebrate the Lord's Supper during the session.

33. A Vote or Resolve to establish, alter, or annul a standing rule of this body, shall be read twice on different days, and may be debated at each reading. At the first reading the question shall be, Shall it be read the second time?

B Y · L A W S .

1. An annual sermon shall be preached before the Association, on the subject of Home Missions, and a collection taken. The preacher shall be appointed by this body.

2. No report of the state of religion shall be read in public, unless it be approved by the Association from which it comes, or by the Committee of Arrangements of the General Association.

3. It is recommended to the several District Associations, to have their narratives on the state of religion, condensed, so as not to exceed five minutes in the time of reading.

4. The printed Minutes of this Association, shall be sufficient testimonials of the appointment of Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

5. It shall be the duty of each Primary Delegate to any foreign body, to notify the Secretary of this Association, at, or before, the opening of the annual meeting next after his appointment, of his attendance upon the duty assigned him; and until such notification be made, or an acceptable reason be assigned for his non-attendance, he shall be ineligible as a Delegate to any foreign body.

6. It shall be the duty of each Delegate to any foreign body appointed as a Substitute, to notify the Secretary of this Association, at, or before, the opening of its annual meeting next after his appointment, of his attendance, or non-attendance as such Delegate, and until such notification be made, he shall be ineligible to the same body.

7. The Minutes of this Association shall be sent to the individual members of the Associations connected with this body by mail, and the Chairman of the Committee of Publication, shall furnish a list of the names required to the Agents of the Association.

8. The Minutes of this body, forwarded to the General Association of Connecticut, shall be, according to their request, sent by mail, under the direction of the Publishing Committee.

9. The names of all the members of the Associations belonging to this body, whether with or without charge, shall be inserted in the published returns.

10. Every church without a pastor, by paying twenty-five cents, annually, to the Treasurer of the General Association, through the Treasurer of the local Association, with which said church is connected, shall be entitled to receive the Minutes of the General Association, to be forwarded in the same way as minutes are forwarded to members of the Association.

SYSTEMATIC CONTRIBUTIONS.

THE following plan for systematic contributions in Massachusetts to the various objects of benevolence here specified, was recommended by the General Association of the State, at their meeting in Ipswich, June 24th, 1840, and has been extensively adopted by the local Associations and Conferences. The necessity for some uniform system has long been felt, and it is hoped this will meet the approbation of all.

The following Committees were appointed: —

Rev. Dr. Snell, and Rev. Messrs. Allen and Brigham, Committee on Elections.

Rev. Dr. Codman, and Rev. Messrs. Aiken and Kittredge, Committee of Arrangements.

Rev. Messrs. Fisher and Sanford, Committee to audit Accounts.

Rev. Dr. Alden, and Rev. Messrs. Maltby and Mitchell, Committee of Nominations.

Rev. Mr. Hooker, Rev. Dr. Snell, and Rev. Messrs. Allen, Clark, and Woodbury, Committee to nominate Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

Voted, To refer the certificates of membership of delegates from Hampshire East Association to the Committee on Elections.

Messrs. Crocker & Brewster, Boston, were appointed Agents to print and circulate the Minutes.

Adjourned, after prayer, till 8 o'clock, to-morrow morning.

Wednesday Morning. Met at 8 o'clock, according to adjournment. The roll was called. The Moderator led in prayer, and the minutes of the last session were read.

Voted, that the Hampshire East Association be admitted to this Association, and that its members enjoy all the privileges of this body.

Rev. George A. Oviatt was present as delegate from the Hampshire East Association.

The Committee of Arrangements recommended that the following be adopted as the 21st rule of this Association :

“ The principle of the connection formed with the Massachusetts Missionary Society, is, that said Society may annually appoint two delegates to this body, who shall be admitted to equal privileges with the members from the District Associations.”

A communication was read from Rev. Morris E. White, Delegate to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, stating that he attended the last meeting of that body, and was received with great kindness and respect.

A communication was read from the Congregational Union of England and Wales, inviting a continued fraternal correspondence with this body. Rev. Dr. Snell, and Rev. Messrs. Nelson and Aiken were appointed a committee to reply.

The Committee appointed by the last meeting of the General Association to correspond with religious bodies at the South on the general subject of slavery, reported in part. They had transmitted some thirty letters to different Presbyterians at the South, and had received various replies, portions of which were read.

The following resolution was adopted :

Resolved, That the thanks of this Body be presented to the Committee of Correspondence with ecclesiastical bodies in the slave States on the subject of Slavery, for their attention to the subject of their appointment, and for the interesting and important information elicited by their correspondence, as presented in their report in part on the business assigned them.

The Committee of Arrangements reported the following Resolutions, which were unanimously adopted :

1. Resolved, That we gratefully acknowledge the goodness of God, in the origin and progress of the temperance reformation ; and in the blessings which, through its means, He has conferred upon men ; and we earnestly recommend that it continue to receive the influence of the example and efforts of all friends of humanity, till intoxication, and the use, as a beverage, of intoxicating liquor, shall have ceased, throughout the earth.

2. Resolved, That, as the Sabbath is an institution of Divine appointment; and the observance of it is essential to the social, civil and religious interests of men, we recommend that increased efforts be made throughout the community, to induce all persons to abstain from worldly business and amusement, and to attend the public worship of God on that day.

3. Resolved, That, as the Bible is all given by inspiration of God, and is suited to render men perfect, and to furnish them thoroughly for every good work, it is recommended that efforts be made, as extensively as possible, to induce each person, who is destitute, and can read, to furnish himself with a copy of it; to read some portion of it daily; and to seek the teaching of the Holy Spirit, that he may understand, believe, and obey it; and thus experience the benefit which it was designed to impart.

Rev. John Ferguson was appointed on the Committee of Correspondence on the subject of Slavery, in place of Rev. Mr. Durfee, resigned.

Rev. Dr. Ide, and Rev. Messrs. Brainerd, Paine, Merrill, Page, and Boardman, were appointed a Committee on the state of religion.

Rev. Messrs. Blanchard, Adams, and Towne were appointed a Committee of Publication.

The Pastoral Letter was read by Rev. John Mitchell, and recommitted for revision.

Adjourned till 2 o'clock, P. M.

Wednesday, 2 o'clock, P. M. The Association met according to adjournment. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Adams, of R. I.

Attended to the narratives of the state of religion in the several District Associations. Reports were also presented from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, by Rev. Mr. Boardman; from the Constitutional General Assembly, by Rev. Mr. Brainerd; from the General Association of Connecticut, by Rev. Dr. Cogswell; from the General Convention of Vermont, by Rev. Thomas A. Merrill; from the Evangelical Consociation of Rhode Island, by Rev. Charles S. Adams; from the General Conference of Maine, by Rev. Eli Thurston.

The following Resolution was adopted, as reported by the Committee of Arrangements:

Resolved, As the two hundredth anniversary of the meeting of the Assembly of Divines at Westminster, which formed the Larger and Shorter Catechisms, occurs on July 1, 1843, that it be recommended to the Ministers connected with this Body, to preach, about that time, to their people on the general subject of catechetical instruction; having special reference to the usages of our fathers in relation to this matter, and to the advantages resulting from this method of introducing religious truth into the youthful mind.

Voted, That Rev. Messrs. Theophilus Packard, Jr., Tyler Thatcher, and Amariah Chandler, be a Committee to prepare the Pastoral Address for next year.

Voted, That the Woburn Association be requested to appoint the preacher for the next year.

Rev. Drs. Snell and Codman, and Rev. J. S. Clarke were appointed a Committee to designate the place of the next meeting.

Voted, That the Committee of Nomination recommend a second preacher before the Massachusetts Missionary Society for next year.

Adjourned to meet at 8 o'clock, Thursday morning.

A sermon in behalf of the Massachusetts Missionary Society was preached in the evening, by Rev. Tertius S. Clarke.

Thursday, 8 o'clock. The Association met according to adjournment. The roll was called, and the meeting was opened with prayer by the Moderator.

The Committee for nominating Delegates to Foreign Bodies reported the following :

To the General Association of New York.

Rev. Aaron Picket,	}	Primaries.
Rev. Emerson Davis.
Rev. George Allen,	}	Substitutes.
Rev. Sereno D. Clark,

The Committee for designating the place for the next meeting of the Association, recommended that it be held within the limits of the Franklin Association, and in the town of Sunderland. Their report was adopted.

The Secretary presented the account of the Publishing Agents of the Association, which was allowed.

Voted, That the subject of Printing the Minutes be referred to the Publishing Committee.

The Committee on Correspondence with ecclesiastical bodies at the South on Slavery, presented a bill of $16 for necessary expenses, which was allowed.

The Nominating Committee recommended Rev. Mr. Maltby, as the second preacher for the Massachusetts Missionary Society, at the next meeting of this Body, and he was appointed.

The following Resolution was adopted :

Resolved, That a Committee of three be appointed to take into consideration the policy and efforts of the Papal Church in relation to the different parts of this country, and to our missions in the unenlightened portions of the world; and to report, at the next meeting of the Association, whether this body ought to do any thing to expose and arrest the progress of that great enemy of the Protestant faith.

The rule submitted yesterday by the Committee of Arrangements was read a second time, and adopted as the 21st rule.

The Rev. Mr. Hooker, Delegate to the General Association of Connecticut, reported his attendance, and his fraternal reception by that body.

The Committee of Arrangements recommended that one hour and a half be devoted to hearing the claims of the enterprises of Christian benevolence; the speakers to be restricted to ten minutes each.

The Bible cause was then presented and advocated by Rev. Sylvester Holmes.

The following Preamble and Resolution submitted by him were adopted:

While no one of the leading benevolent Societies, so happily characterizing our times, may or ought to be made pre-eminent, in comparison with other kindred institutions, and no true and enlightened friend or representative of these Societies will make such invidious comparisons, yet it may occur, and most certainly has, that some of these organs of the American Church may in some portions of our Zion not receive their due proportion in the daily ministrations of the saints. Therefore,

Resolved, That it be affectionately and earnestly recommended to the churches in connection with this body, that they take up subscriptions or contributions, at least once in each year, to aid the American Bible Society, in its noble enterprise of supplying the country and the world with the Bible, without note or comment.

The subject of Home Missions was presented by the Rev. J. S. Clark; the American Education Society by Rev. S. H. Riddel; the American Sunday School Union, by Rev. Martin Moore.

The Rev. Mr. Bullard was heard in behalf of the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society, and the following Resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That this Association regard the Massachusetts

Sabbath School Society, through its publications and various other instrumentalities, as an efficient auxiliary in promoting the interests of our churches, and we cheerfully commend it to their sympathy, prayers and support.

Resolved, That this Association recommend the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society as an economical, and in all respects unexceptionable medium through which the charities of our churches and Sabbath Schools may be contributed to aid in promoting the cause of Sabbath Schools throughout the land.

The Rev. Mr. Perry spoke in behalf of the Massachusetts Temperance Union. The following Resolution was adopted :

Resolved, That the Massachusetts Temperance Union holds an important place in the field of moral improvement, and has by its operation recommended itself to the confidence and patronage of a Christian community.

The Rev. Mr. Beckwith advocated the cause of peace, and the following Resolutions were adopted :

Resolved, That, since the gospel is a sovereign remedy for all moral evils to which it is rightly applied, the continuance of the custom of war throughout Christendom is strong presumptive evidence, that the gospel has not yet been rightly applied in its full power to this custom by the mass of any Christian community.

Resolved, That the cause of peace, aiming at the abolition of war by the gospel, and depending, under God, mainly on his ministers and churches, has strong claims to their support, as a movement of great importance, not only to the general interests of mankind, but especially to the success of the various enterprizes of Christian benevolence and reform now in progress ; and we therefore renew the recommendation of this Association in past years, that ministers preach on this subject as on other parts of the gospel, and the churches hold an annual, if not a more frequent concert of prayer for the universal prevalence of peace.

The Rev. Mr. Vail was heard in behalf of Amherst College, and the following Resolution was adopted :

Resolved, In view of the great and laudable design of the founders of Amherst and Williams Colleges, and the extensive good they have been the instruments of accomplishing in advancing the interests of sound learning and evangelical religion,—

That this Body does cordially approve of the efforts which the Trustees of these important institutions are now making to increase their pecuniary resources, and will be ready to co-operate in any suitable measures for this end.

The Auditing Committee reported as follows :

The Auditing Committee report that they have examined the Treasurer's Account, and find it correct, and that there is a balance in the Treasury of $17 84. No assessment has been received from the Vineyard Sound Association. When paid, it will go to meet the general expenses of this Association. The Committee recommend an assessment of fifty cents upon each member of the several district associations, as necessary to meet the expenses of this body.

Rev. Messrs. Nehemiah Adams, George Allen, and William A. Stearns, were appointed a committee on the subject of Popery.

The Committee on the state of religion presented their report, which was accepted.

The Pastoral Letter was presented as modified by the Committee, and was adopted and directed to be published.

Voted, That the thanks of this body be presented to Rev. Mr. Kittredge and the people of his charge, for their hospitalities and Christian kindness, also to the choir of singers who have aided our devotions by their acceptable performances ; and that Rev. Mr. Kittredge be requested to communicate this vote to his people.

Adjourned till 2 o'clock, P. M.

Thursday, 2 o'clock, P. M. The Association met according to adjournment, and attended to the public religious services which usually close the session of this Body. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Whitney ; Rev. George Fisher preached the Associational Sermon from Ecc. vii. 10. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was then administered, the exercises of which were conducted by Rev. Drs. Codman and Merrill, and Rev. Messrs. Boardman and Perkins, and the Nestorian Bishop, Mar Yohannan.

Voted, to accept these Minutes as the Minutes of the Association.

After uniting in prayer with the Rev. Dr. Cogswell, the Association was dissolved.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

The past year has been one of peculiar interest to the Christian. The hand of God has been made manifest, and the great designs of his heart revealed by dispensations of his providence and grace that are worthy of our most serious regard. While we have felt his chastising hand in our commercial embarrassments, in the divisions which have distracted our national councils, and in the awful judgments which have occasionally fallen upon individuals and communities, we have enjoyed an unusual share of the richest of all his gifts, the special effusions of the Holy Spirit. Never since the days of Edwards have revivals been more numerous and powerful in this Commonwealth than in the past year, and at no period of our history have they progressed with greater stillness and solemnity, or been more signally marked as the effects of the Spirit of God. The ordinary means of grace, used in the ordinary way, have in thousands of instances been made the wisdom of God and the power of God to the salvation of souls. The churches of Christ connected with this body, have peculiar reasons for gratitude to Heaven for the displays of divine mercy which they have witnessed the past year. Though in many instances the District Associations complain of the prevalence of a worldly spirit, the profanation of the Sabbath, and its kindred vices, yet not one has failed to report a revival in a number of the churches within its limits.

We find among the facts brought before us by our brethren, many of a solemn as well as joyful interest. Afflictive dispensations of divine providence have been frequently mingled with the effusions of the Spirit which excite joy and gratitude in every pious heart.

The Berkshire Association report that one laborer, who had just entered upon his work, has been called to his reward; the Rev. John Goddard of Egremont.

They report likewise revivals in several towns. In Williamstown, about forty have been examined for admission to the church. In the college there has been a pleasing attention to religion; more than thirty have professed conversion. In Pittsfield, thirty-three have been added to the church. In South Tyringham, thirty-three; in Sheffield, twenty; in Lee, sixty. In South Adams eleven have been added to the church as the first fruits of efforts to establish the gospel on Congregational principles in the place. God has much blessed the churches and the congregations the past year, and is blessing them still.

The Hampshire Association says, Of those who have labored as pastors within their present limits, twenty-one have been called to give up their account within ten years; three within the past year, viz: Rev. Messrs. Drury of West Hampton, Rose of Chesterfield, and Goodwin of Williamsburg.

There has been an interesting revival in South Hampton; fifty-one have been added to the church, and others hopefully renewed have not yet united. The other places particularly favored, are Whately, Hubbardsville, North Hampton, and East Hampton.

Williston Seminary, at East Hampton, has shared in the revival.

The Hampshire East Association say, that while but few of their churches have enjoyed what may be termed seasons of great revival of religion, yet many of them have been blessed with pleasing indications of God's special presence. In Greenwich, thirty or forty have been added to the church. Rev. Nathan Perkins, of Amherst, has been called to his rest the past year. Amherst College is now visited with the influences of the Holy Spirit, and its prospects appear more flattering than for seasons past.

Mount Holyoke Seminary is in a flourishing condition. About forty have recently been hopefully converted in this institution.

The Hampden Association speak of prevailing harmony among pastors, and tranquillity among the churches. Likewise of revivals in West Granville, Chicopee Falls, Feeding Hills, Cabotville, Monson, and some other places.

In Westfield as many as one hundred have been hopefully brought out of darkness into marvellous light.

The Franklin Association has been visited by the Holy Spirit, and numbers have been hopefully converted. The Rev. Samuel H. Emerson of Heath has been removed by death.

The Brookfield Association mentions the death of an aged father in the ministry, Rev. Otis Lane, formerly pastor in Stockbridge.

Many churches have been revived, especially those in Oakham, South Brookfield, Sturbridge and Southbridge.

In the Harmony Association, Blackstone, fifty conversions. Mendon and Milbury are spoken of as revived.

In Hopkinton and Grafton a work of unusual power has been experienced. The former place numbers 70, the latter more than 50, among the subjects of renewing grace. In Westboro' about 20 have indulged hope.

The Worcester Central Association speak of harmony and general prosperity. Many churches have enjoyed precious seasons of reviving, viz. the three churches in Worcester, the churches in East Douglass, in West Boylston, and in Rutland. Leicester Academy has been visited by the Holy Spirit, in his merciful visitations. The Rev. John Boardman, of East Douglass, has been called to his rest.

In the Worcester North Association, the Lord has visited some of the churches with the influences of his Spirit. The church in Phillipston has been favored with an interesting work of grace; 36 have been added to the church, and a goodly number will probably soon be received as the fruits of this revival.

The church in Royalston has also received a blessing; 24 have been received into the church; twice that number have expressed hope. And other towns have been more or less blessed by the influences of the Spirit of God.

The Mendon Association report that more than ordinary religious excitement has prevailed in several of the churches and parishes, and a number have been brought, as they trust, into the Redeemer's kingdom,—particularly in Medway, Wrentham, and Foxborough.

The Middlesex Union Association report interesting revivals in Townsend, Pepperell, Groton, and Acton. Large numbers have expressed hope.

The Middlesex South Association have been bereaved of a dearly beloved member, Rev. George Champion.

Revivals are reported in Concord ; 20 or 30 hopeful conversions. In Lincoln, the first ever known in that place, about 30 hopefully converted. In Holliston, about 25 express hope in Christ as the fruits of a revival in that place. In Southborough more than 50, it is thought, have been brought into the kingdom of Christ. In West Needham there has been a revival of great interest ; about 60 conversions are reported. Also in Sherburne, Berlin, and Unionville, revivals are in progress.

The Woburn Association report : The churches within our bounds have not been altogether unblest. In Stoneham 20 or 30 have expressed hope in Christ, several heads of families ; three or four were open Universalists, and one an infidel. In Tewksbury, Woburn, and Bedford, there are precious revivals in progress. In Bedford there have been indications of the Divine presence for more than a year ; 53 have united with the church, mostly by profession. Persons of all ages have expressed hope. Universalists, Unitarians, and infidels have been reached.

The Andover Association is spoken of as in a harmonious and prosperous condition. Some churches have enjoyed precious revivals. The churches in Lowell and vicinity have been most largely blessed. The Theological Seminary continues its course of undiminished usefulness and prosperity.

The Essex North Association speak of an increased spirit of benevolence, and general harmony and prosperity. The churches in Bellville Parish, Newbury, and at Amesbury Mills, have enjoyed copious effusions of the Holy Spirit. The work was characterized by great stillness and power. Infidels and errorists have yielded to its influence.

The Essex South Association. Indications of the presence of the Holy Spirit have appeared in Salem, Beverly, and North Danvers. In Wenham a revival of considerable interest commenced in October last among the young men in the Sabbath School, soon extended to others. Sixty have been numbered among the inquirers, and more than forty have, as they trust, found the Saviour. The work is still in progress.

The North Suffolk Association. Since the extraordinary concert of prayer for the pouring out of the Holy Spirit on the churches in February, religion has been greatly revived. Nearly all the churches have experienced a gracious visitation :

in one instance, 150 have been hopefully converted. Within the bounds of this Association probably the number who have expressed hope will not fall short of 800. Indeed the present year has, thus far, been one of great power, for which the Association desire to render thanksgiving to God.

The Suffolk South Association. The churches of this Association are happily united in the faith. The special influences of the Holy Spirit have been richly enjoyed by nearly all; and, what is worthy of remark, the windows of heaven began to be opened soon after the extraordinary efforts of those churches to relieve the embarrassments of our benevolent societies. "He that watereth shall be watered also himself."

The Norfolk Association report that the Lord has done great things for them. Of the 23 churches connected with that Association, nearly all have shared, and some of them very largely in the special outpourings of the Spirit. As the fruits of these divine influences, a large number of persons, of different classes and ages, have, as we have reason to believe, passed from death unto life. Some congregations have greatly increased in numbers, so that the places of public worship have already become too strait for them.

The Taunton Association. Religion is in a very encouraging state in most of the churches. The church in North Middleborough has received afresh that quickening spirit which has so happily animated them in former years. In Taunton many have recently been setting their faces toward Zion. In Raynham many have acknowledged themselves decided for Christ. Pawtucket has enjoyed an interesting work of grace, and more than 50 have expressed hope.

In the Pilgrim Association there have been some interesting revivals during the past winter. In Plimton a revival is now in progress, greater in extent than has ever been known in the place. One in Kingston, as the result of which 41 have been added to the church. Also in Plymouth and South Marshfield there has been more than usual religious interest.

The Brewster Association. The past winter has been a season of great prosperity to the cause of Christ. In South Dennis the number of hopeful converts is about 25. In Harwick 58 have united with the church. Eighteen have been added to the church in Chatham. In Orleans the number of conversions is about 100. In Wellfleet, 58; Truro, 40; other towns have received a blessing.

Within the bounds of the Old Colony Association nearly all the churches have been blessed with the special presence of the Holy Spirit. As the result of a powerful work in New Bedford, a large number have been added to the Trinitarian Church in that place. In many places revivals still continue.

The Vineyard Sound Association. Revivals of unusual interest and power have prevailed in Sandwich, Centerville, and Falmouth. In Falmouth, there have been between 30 and 40 cases of hopeful conversion, embracing a number of heads of families. Most of the converts are the baptized children of the church. Revivals have exerted a happy influence on seamen. Several captains and officers of vessels have recently decided for Christ.

A new impulse has been given to the cause of temperance the past year. God has smiled upon those who have long labored in this cause, by making their efforts preparatory to an extraordinary movement among the inebriates themselves. New laborers have been brought into the fields, whose participation and experience in the evils of intemperance have prepared them to excite an interest and exert an influence upon their companions which no other men could do. An admirable instance this of the well-known purpose of God to bring to the aid of his faithful servants the efficient exertions of those who become anxious to promote the cause which they once attempted to destroy.

This Association is gratified to learn that there is no abatement in the interest felt in Sabbath Schools and Bible classes, and that these have in so many instances been the means of hopeful conversions. It is no less pleasing to know that amidst all the pecuniary embarrassments of the times, the religious charities of the churches are not all restrained, but rather enlarged. In several instances, it is known that the amount given for benevolent objects the past year is nearly double that given for the same objects any preceding year.

It is in our estimation a token for good that there is among the ministers and churches in our connection an increasing sense of the importance of doctrinal instruction, and that the revivals reported appear in so great a degree to be the result of the operation of truth upon the conscience and the heart, without the extraneous influence of other exciting causes. We are glad to see a growing interest in the positive institutions of religion, and especially in the important rite of infant baptism. A determination to contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints on these subjects is worthy of all praise, and affords pleasing evidence of a disposition in the community to return to the good old paths of our Pilgrim fathers.

It gives us great pleasure to learn that essentially the same grace which God has given us has been conferred on those ecclesiastical bodies with which we are connected.

The General Association reciprocate with pleasure the fraternal feeling expressed by the delegate from the Constitutional General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, and are happy to learn the prosperity of the churches which compose that body. The report speaks of numerous revivals of a healthful and delightful character.

The Lane Seminary, Auburn, and New York Seminaries, and the Western Reserve College, are represented as in a flourishing condition. There are more than 200 young men in these institutions preparing for the ministry. This Body have learned with much pleasure, through the Delegate from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, not only that the various benevolent institutions of that church,—her Boards of Domestic and Foreign Missions, of Education, and of Publication, are in a flourishing state ; but also that a large number of the congregations connected with the Assembly have enjoyed precious revivals of religion within the past year ; revivals characterized by the same general features as those with which our churches have been so abundantly blessed.

The Association were also informed that the General Assembly have taken efficient measures for opposing the rapid and alarming progress of Poperly in our country,—a work in which they invite the cordial co-operation of all other evangelical Protestant denominations, and the importance of which is deeply felt by this Association.

The General Convention of Congregational ministers and churches in Vermont, reports 203 churches and 103 settled ministers. Fifty-one churches have been aided by the Vermont Missionary Society. Many others are very small, and in consequence of the sparseness of the population, or the prevalence of other denominations, have no prospect for many years of becoming so strengthened as to enjoy the stated administration of the word and ordinances. Several revivals have prevailed. But special divine influences have been unusually withheld from that section, which has so often been signally blessed. Many valuable interests, however, have been greatly advanced, and the cause of temperance, or total abstinence from intoxicating liquors, has prevailed far beyond all former years.

The Consociation of Rhode Island report 16 Congregational churches; 15 of which are connected with the General Consociation, 13 have settled pastors, 1 a stated supply, and 2 are destitute.

The whole number of church members is 2,599. Added the last year 420. Interesting revivals have been enjoyed in the churches in High street in Providence, Bristol, North Scituate. Coventry and Slatersville Congregational Churches are increasing not only in numbers, but in strength and influence.

From the General Conference of Maine were reported about 200 churches, with nearly 150 pastors and missionaries. Connected with these churches are not far from 18,000 communicants. The past has been a year of unwonted spiritual prosperity among these churches. Almost every county in the State has been refreshed with showers of divine grace, of more or less copiousness and power. In one county, 12; in another, 9 churches have thus been visited. In all, between 50 and 60 congregations have shared in these revivals. It is difficult at present to ascertain the number of hopeful conversions, as but few of their fruits have yet been gathered into the churches. These revivals have been characterized by a remarkable absence of all avowed and direct opposition. While the great enemy of God and man has not relinquished his hostile design against the church, he has evidently changed his mode of attack.

They have also been characterized by the absence of undue excitement and enthusiasm. They have been seasons of deep, sober thought, and the prospect of the churches at the present time may be regarded as more auspicious and cheering than at any former period.

In view of the great things which have been brought to our ears during the session of this body, we surely have reason to exclaim, What has God wrought? The language in which the devout Psalmist expressed his gratitude, is that which ought to be appropriate to the feelings of each of us on this occasion: "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name. Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits."

PASTORAL LETTER.

BELOVED BRETHREN,—

The interest ever felt by us in the churches, is never livelier than on these annual occasions, when we come together to hear reports concerning their condition, and to consult and pray for their common welfare. We have been accustomed to express this interest in an annual epistle, comprising such suggestions as propriety and “the signs of the times” seemed to dictate. In the present instance, while there are many subjects of great and general interest, on which we might wish to address you if time and space permitted, we shall confine ourselves to one. And that is, the importance of your possessing and maintaining a thorough acquaintance with the essential principles of our faith and practice.

The desirableness of such knowledge in all our members,—the importance of it to every religious interest, whether personal or general, is too obvious, and, we trust, too well understood by you, both as Christians and as Congregationalists, to need to be demonstrated, and it is rather for the purpose of putting you in remembrance, than for the purpose of demonstration, that we call your attention to it. In an age like this, so active, rather than contemplative, it is easy to perceive a peculiar necessity for sound doctrinal knowledge, and at the same time peculiar danger of doctrinal deficiency. And in this remark may be found our apology (if apology be necessary) for the subject of this epistle.

Our New England fathers sought to make intelligent Christians. This was the great end of their family and pulpit instructions, and of the books they wrote. And we have a higher authority and a better precedent than theirs in the apostolic churches. There is reason to believe that the primitive Christians were far superior to those of the present day—they were at least required to be so—in their knowledge of revealed truth. We may infer this from the exhortations and intimations we meet with to this effect in the epistles,—as, for example, such as these: “Rooted and built up in him, and established in the faith as ye have been taught.” “Be not children in understanding; howbeit in malice be ye children, but in understanding be men.” Wherefore I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of these things, though ye know them, and are established in the present truth.” To those Christians the writings of the apostles were immediately addressed; and they were expected to hear and understand them, with the close reasonings and thorough system of theology which they contained. It was the practice of the churches succeeding the age of the apostles, if not of the apostolic churches themselves, as a general thing, to detain converts in a course of catechetical instruction previous to their admission to full communion, rather than encumber the churches with incompetent members. And we find Paul complaining of some, who appear to have been for a considerable time professors, on account of their dwarfishness and slowness in Christian knowledge. “For when for the time (says he) ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you which be the first principles of the oracles of God, and are become such as have need of milk and not of strong meat.” And he exhorts them to go on to perfection in knowledge. And it would seem from a passage in the first Epistle of Peter iii. 15, that that apostle expected disciples, as such, to be able to state and defend the truths and claims of the Christian system at all points, and on all occasions. Who can show that the ability to do this is less requisite now than it was in the days of the apostles?

As it regards personal religion, a knowledge of the truth is of course equally important always: for how can we be sanctified and blessed by truth, except we understand it? And as it concerns your usefulness to others,—not to say your safety and your credit, as believers in such a world as this,—how various and constant is the demand for the knowledge of which we are speaking! In your ordinary relations as Christian friends and neighbors, and as champions for the truth, you will daily have occasion for its employment. There will be serious inquirers after truth coming to you for information,—to solve their difficulties, and enlighten them on points of doctrine or of practice, in regard to which they are dark. There will be young converts seeking instruction, and awakened sinners asking what they must do to be saved. As heads of families, many questions of a religious kind will be proposed to you by your children and dependents. There are around you, also, various denominations whose peculiar tenets will be always more or less under discussion; and endeavors will be made to unsettle and draw away from you your fellow-worshippers, and perhaps the members of your own households. And you will need the knowledge requisite to meet the points at issue, both for the sake of your own satisfaction and stability in the premises, and for the discharge of duty to your friends and fellow-men. And in a world filled with misbelievers and opposers, you will often meet with such, and will find them disposed to question and dispute with you; and it will be incumbent on you, as an obvious duty towards them, as well as in justice to yourselves, and to your Master's cause, to state and vindicate your own views of doctrine, and to reason with and reprove them concerning the fallacy and wickedness of theirs. In fine, you will meet with many cases where knowledge is to be imparted, and truth defended; and where it will devolve on you to do it, or it will not be done. You will meet with many opportunities for instruction and conviction, which the pulpit cannot reach; where no one, able and disposed to discharge the duty, will be present except yourselves; and where it will often be manifest that, if knowledge is power, the want of it is weakness.

And then, as it concerns the right direction of our zeal, the wisdom of our measures, the order and beauty of our worship, our mutual edification in social meetings, and in other forms of Christian intercourse, and the largeness of our philanthropy,—how desirable and necessary is sound knowledge!

Now we would, brethren, that not only every member of our own denomination, but every member of the Christian family on earth, might be of this intelligent sort. And the church will never be prepared to answer fully the ends of her existence so long as such is not the fact.

As it regards our own communion, we believe it to be at least not behind others in this particular. It is, and ever has been distinguished for its intelligence, both religious and literary. But we have expressed an apprehension—which suffer us to repeat—that there is some danger, arising from the times, of our degenerating in this attribute. The present age is much and justly eulogized for its philanthropy and its active zeal. We are thought to be much in advance of our fathers, and in some respects we are so; but in respect to a sound theology widely diffused among the people, if we compare the present with the earlier days of New England, we shall find ourselves deficient. The age is not characterized by the depth of its theology, or the profoundness of its philosophy. Nor is it favorable to such a condition of the mind. With its diversified means of occupying the attention, as an age of various and stimulated action, it offers more for the excitement and diversion of the mind, than for its deep and patient meditation. See how the mass of the existing mind, religious and irreligious, is actually occupied,—with politics and morals,—with talkers and projectors,—with lecturers and tract-writers,—with innumerable periodicals,—with new religions and new apocryphas, and prophets, and new Utopias, or schemes and models of social organization—with wide schisms; in a word, with many “inventions,” as well as with some of the most truly noble and godlike undertakings that the world has seen!

Now if the obvious and necessary tendency of these things be to make us lean and superficial in our knowledge of fundamental truths, it behooves us to see and remedy the evil. We who preach, must, if need be, make our sermons more didactic, devoting a larger portion of them to doctrinal discussion, and fewer to ethics and exhortation. And our hearers must be willing to give their patient, and perhaps laborious attention to such discussions; to patient reading, also, and to patient thinking. And heads of families must see that their children are properly indoctrinated.

We do not suppose, indeed, that every Christian is to become a finished theologian; but certainly it is desirable and practicable that every Christian should understand the essential points of his own belief, together with the arguments by which they are supported. A man is expected to do this, be his religion what it may, whether orthodox or heterodox. He is bound to do it for the credit of his own understanding, and in proof of the reality and sincerity of his professions; for it seems absurd, and makes his honesty questionable, to profess a religion of which the professor himself is essentially ignorant,— of which he knows so imperfectly that he cannot state or defend it, or tell us what or wherefore he believes!

There is one item of religious knowledge involved in the general subject of this epistle, to which we wish in few words, before we close, particularly to call your attention; though we expressed ourselves at large upon it in our last communication. We refer to the ordinance of baptism. It is not without having given the most careful attention to the subject that we say that on no subject are we more entirely and satisfactorily settled than in the sentiments held by us and by Pedobaptists generally, (embracing the mass of Christendom,) in relation to that ordinance, both as to mode and subjects. We are desirous that our brethren generally should be possessed of enlightened and just views on this subject, not merely for their defence against the arts or persuasions of a different creed, but because we regard it as a most important branch of the Christian system, and as deeply affecting the duty and comfort of believers.

We regard the mode as less important, but we are not indifferent as to the mode. We believe the one practised by us to be the true and scriptural one. We think, however, that too much importance may be given to the mode. We can never believe that the mere manner of the rite, rather than the meaning and the subjects of it, is the essential thing to be respected; or that it should ever be thought worthy to disturb the harmony, or impassionate the zeal of churches. Were we even better satisfied as to the true mode than we are, we should still want a revelation from heaven before we should feel ourselves required or authorized to construct on that foundation a separating wall between brethren.

But in reference to the subjects of the ordinance, it especially concerns you to be well grounded; inasmuch as that matter touches vitally your covenant relations. Which of you can read the provision of that sacred and enduring covenant which God was pleased to enter into with “the father of all them that believe,” and with his seed after him,* and observe the great importance attached to it by the parties, and the perpetual remembrance of it on God’s part, and then read what Paul says of believers in Christ being heirs to that covenant,† without feeling that it still is, as it originally was, an instrument of inestimable value? Which of you, if he may be an heir to it, with his children, would willingly deny himself or them the privilege? What Christian parent, believing himself to be recognized in it, would willingly dispense with the promises, the aids, the consolations connected with it? And yet, to deny the propriety of household or infant baptism, is to disown that covenant as applicable to believers, and thus to lose its benefits to ourselves and to our offspring.

It has been mentioned at this meeting that more than twenty pastors, in connection with a single association, have died within about ten years,—some of them in the beginning, and a large proportion of them in the midst of their ministerial life and usefulness, and several others have been forced to relinquish their work by loss of health. Brethren, what is the cause of this? Why this great mortality? The question is worthy to be pondered by the churches. Have not these pastors, in many cases, fallen victims to cares and labors from which they might have been spared; and does not the fact furnish another argument for that knowledge, on the part of the churches, of which we have been speaking? Were the spirit and measures of our churches controlled always by the spirit of a sound mind—their zeal directed by knowledge—would not the pastors be relieved from the heavier portion of those burthens which now oppress their minds, impair their health, and in many instances abridge their lives?

Remarks on the general state of Religion in the Parish.

[ ] It is expected that each member of the particular Associations in Massachusetts will make returns agreeably to this form, to his Association at its meeting next preceding each annual meeting of the General Association, and that the Delegates from each Association will combine all the returns to his Association into one to be presented to the General Association, adding up and stating the whole amount in each column, and making the return, in all respects, as complete as possible.

RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

1. The Association, by which the General Association of Massachusetts was originally organized, agreed to admit, and this Association continue to admit, as articles of faith, the doctrines of Christianity, as they are generally expressed in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism;—and the above-mentioned doctrines, understood by us to be distinctly those, which from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel, are considered as the basis of our union.

2. This General Association is founded on the principles of Congregationalism, and wholly disclaims ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the churches, or the opinions of individuals. Its object is to promote brotherly harmony and intercourse among the ministers of Christ;—to obtain religious information relative to the state of their churches, and of the Christian church in this country, and throughout the world;—and to cooperate with one another, and with other ecclesiastical bodies in the most eligible measures for advancing the cause of truth and holiness.

3. Each District Association in Massachusetts, consenting to the principles of this Union, as stated in the first article, may appoint two delegates annually, to compose this General Association: and it is recommended, that one be appointed, who attended the preceding year.

4. The time of the annual meeting of this Association, shall be on the fourth Tuesday of June, at five o'clock, P. M., at such place, as shall have been duly notified.

5. Seven members, delegated from the particular Associations of Massachusetts, shall be requisite to form a quorum for transacting any business; but for opening and adjourning the meeting, a less number shall be competent.

6. The secretary and the minister of the church, where the Association meet, shall have seats, and act as members; the Associations to which they belong retaining the right to elect their number of Delegates in addition.

7. The minister of the church in the place where the Association meets, or the Secretary, may call the Association to order and preside in the meeting until the Association shall be properly organized.

8. The certificates of the delegates present shall be read by the Secretary or by a temporary Scribe, and the Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator, a Scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant Scribe by ballot. The Rules of the Association shall also be read, and the Moderator shall open the business with prayer.

9. At the opening of the session on each subsequent day, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order; direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

10. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, shall be appointed by nomination, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

11. Every motion on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing, and no motion shall be open to discussion, until it be seconded.

12. The Moderator may speak to points of order, in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

13. On questions of order, adjournment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, no member shall speak more than once. Nor on any question shall a member speak more than twice, without leave of the Association.

14. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question; viz. Shall the main question be now put.

15. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

16. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members to call him to order.

17. The discussions in the Association, and the whole department of the members shall be in accordance with decorum, with due respect to the chair, and with courtesy to each other.

18. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

19. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer by the Moderator, or such other member as he shall appoint.

20. The principles of the connections formed with the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, the General Associations of Connecticut and New Hampshire, the General Convention of Congregational and Presbyterian Ministers in Vermont, and the Evangelical Consociation of Rhode-Island, are, that this General Association, and each ecclesiastical body connected with it, shall annually appoint, each two Delegates to the other, who shall be admitted into each body, to the same right of sitting, debating, and voting with their own members respectively.

21. The principle of the connection formed with the Massachusetts Missionary Society, is, that said Society may annually appoint two dellegates to this body, who shall be admitted to equal privileges with the members from the District Associations.

22. Gentlemen, who are admitted as honorary members, shall be allowed full liberty to take part in all deliberations; though they are not considered as entitled to vote; and it is expected they will give notice to the body, if they find it necessary to withdraw previous to the close of the session. The approbation of the Committee of Arrangements shall be obtained, before a gentleman shall be proposed to sit as an honorary member.

23. The Delegates, who the preceding year attended the meetings of foreign bodies, shall, ex officio, have seats as honorary members of the General Association.

24. A Committee of three shall be annually appointed, to submit to the General Association at the next meeting, a Pastoral Address, to excite the attention of ministers and Christians, to faithful discipline in the churches, the instruction of the rising generation, the sanctification of the Sabbath, and other subjects relating to the general interests of religion. The Address being approved by the General Association, shall be signed by the Moderator, and printed with the minutes. This Committee shall be chosen from the several Associations in rotation.

25. The Associational Sermon shall be delivered at two o'clock, Thursday, P. M., after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper shall be administered. The narratives given by the Delegates of the several Associations concerning the state of religion and the churches, shall be given on Wednesday afternoon, and shall be presented in writing, with a view to obtain an accurate account of the principal facts, not however to prevent any more particular details which the Delegates may think expedient to add, or the Association to request. The returns, with respect to the number in the churches, etc., shall be made out according to a printed schedule of this body, and according to the numbers on the first of January past.

26. A Committee shall be appointed to receive the narratives and statements, and shall condense them into one narrative, to be submitted to the General Association and published. The written narratives shall be deposited with the Secretary.

27. A Committee shall be appointed to nominate Delegates to foreign bodies, which delegates shall, as far as practicable, be selected from the District Associations in rotation. The brethren chosen substitutes in the delegations to the several bodies in our connection, shall, at our next session be considered as Delegates to the respective bodies, if they shall not previously have taken their seats there, through the failure of their principals.

28. The Secretary shall be chosen for three years, from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made. He shall, ex officio, be the Treasurer of the General Association; and shall be allowed his own travelling expenses in attending the meetings of this Association. A Committee shall be appointed annually, to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the members of the several Associations connected with this body. The Secretary shall be authorised to pay such expenses as are allowed by this Association.

29. It shall be the duty of the Delegates of the District Associations, to pay the amount of the Assessments due from their respective Associations for the past year, whether collected by them or not.

30. A Publishing Committee shall be annually appointed, to make such extracts from the minutes of the meeting, as in their judgment it will be proper to publish ; procure to be printed such number of copies with the Pastoral Address and Narrative of the State of Religion, as will give one copy to each minister of the Associations represented in this body ; and such a number of copies for other bodies connected with this Association, as shall be mutually agreed upon. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to receive the publications from foreign bodies, and distribute them among the several Associations, in proportion to the tax paid by them respectively. One copy of each publication, received by the General Association, or printed by its order, shall be kept in the archives.

31. An Agent shall be appointed in Boston to transmit the Extracts of the Minutes of this General Association to other ecclesiastical bodies, and to receive their Extracts or other publications, and transmit them to the several District Associations represented in this body. And notice of his appointment and place of business, shall be inserted in the printed Extracts. He shall be entitled to a suitable compensation.

32. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to communicate proper information to the Agent in Boston, and to the Publishing Committee, for their direction.

33. Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and request some District Association to appoint a preacher to deliver the Associational Sermon. And the church of the place of meeting is desired to make preparations to celebrate the Lord's Supper during the session.

34. A Vote or Resolve to establish, alter, or annul a standing rule of this body, shall be read twice on different days, and may be debated at each reading. At the first reading the question shall be, Shall it be read the second time ?

B Y . L A W S .

1. An annual sermon shall be preached before the Association, on the subject of Home Missions, and a collection taken. The preacher shall be appointed by this body.

2. No report of the state of religion shall be read in public, unless it be approved by the Association from which it comes, or by the Committee of Arrangements of the General Association.

3. It is recommended to the several District Associations, to have their narratives on the state of religion, condensed, so as not to exceed five minutes in the time of reading.

4. The printed Minutes of this Association, shall be sufficient testimonials of the appointment of Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

5. It shall be the duty of each Primary Delegate to any foreign body, to notify the Secretary of this Association, at, or before, the opening of the annual meeting next after his appointment, of his attendance upon the duty assigned him ; and until such notification be made, or an acceptable reason be assigned for his non-attendance, he shall be ineligible as a Delegate to any foreign body.

6. It shall be the duty of each Delegate to any foreign body appointed as a Substitute, to notify the Secretary of this Association, at, or before, the opening of its annual meeting next after his appointment, of his attendance, or non-attendance as such Delegate, and until such notification be made, he shall be ineligible to the same body.

7. The Minutes of this Association shall be sent to the individual members of the Associations connected with this body by mail, and the Chairman of the Committee of Publication, shall furnish a list of the names required to the Agents of the Association.

8. The Minutes of this body, forwarded to the General Association of Connecticut, shall be, according to their request, sent by mail, under the direction of the Publishing Committee.

9. The names of all the members of the Associations belonging to this body, whether with or without charge, shall be inserted in the published returns.

10. Every church without a pastor, by paying twenty-five cents, annually, to the Treasurer of the General Association, through the Treasurer of the local Association, with which said church is connected, shall be entitled to receive the Minutes of the General Association, to be forwarded in the same way as minutes are forwarded to members of the Association.

The following Remonstrance was received from the Old Colony Association :

To the General Association of Massachusetts—

The Old Colony Association, believing that American slavery is not a subject which comes within the cognizance of the General Association, that all action of the Association tends only to evil among ourselves as well as among our brethren at the South, beg leave respectfully and earnestly to remonstrate against any action on the part of the Association, in reference to the subject of American slavery.

This remonstrance was passed by a unanimous vote.

WILLIAM GOULD, Moderator.

ANDREW BIGELOW, Scribe.

South Dartmouth, Oct. 25, 1842.

Whereupon, Resolved, That the General Association of Massachusetts can, by no means, reciprocate the sentiments in the Remonstrance of the Old Colony Association on the subject of slavery, and, that, instead of silence or inaction, on the subject of American Slavery, we deem it our duty and privilege as ministers and christians, to speak freely, openly, with earnestness and in kindness, and to act in the same spirit, for the relief of our oppressed and suffering countrymen and christian brethren.

Voted to adjourn to meet in this place at 2 o'clock, P. M.

Wednesday, 2 o'clock, P. M. The Association met, agreebly to adjournment. Prayer was offered by Rev. Justin Edwards, D. D.

Rev. R. B. Hall appeared from Pilgrim Association, and took his seat.

Attended to the Narratives of the state of religion in the several District Associations. Narratives were also presented by delegates from the State of Vermont, by Rev. N. Bishop ; from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, by Rev. Daniel V. McLean ; from the Constitutional General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, by Rev. E. Beecher, D. D. ; from the General Association of Connecticut, by Rev. Thomas Boutelle ; from the General Association of New Hampshire, by Rev. Winthrop Fifield ; from Evangelical Congregational Consociation of Rhode Island, by Rev. A. Goldsmith ; from the General Association in Michigan, by Rev. J. D. Pierce.

After prayer, adjourned to meet on Thursday morning at 8 o'clock.

A sermon from Matt. xi. 5, in behalf of the Massachusetts Missionary Society, was preached in the evening by Rev. Erastus Maltby.

Thursday morning, 8 o'clock. The Association met according to adjournment. The roll was called, and the meeting was opened with prayer by the Moderator.

The Minutes of yesterday were read.

Voted, That the Essex North Association appoint a preacher for next year.

Dr. Snell, Rev. Daniel Fitz and Rev. John Haven, were appointed a Committee to designate a place for the meeting of the Association next year.

Rev. Messrs. Chipman, J. S. Clark and Butler, were appointed a Committee to nominate first and second preachers before the Massachusetts Missionary Society.

Rev. T. Snell, D. D., was chosen Secretary of this Association for the three years ensuing.

Rev. R. S. Storrs, D. D., Rev. Calvin Hitchcock, D. D., and Rev. James W. Ward, were appointed a Committee to prepare a Pastoral Address for next year.

The Committee on Church Psalmody reported: whereupon, Voted, that a Committee be appointed, whose duty it shall be to report on the subject at the next Association. The following members were appointed on this Committee, viz. Rev. Messrs. Nehemiah Adams, Emerson Davis and J. A. Albro.

The next General Association was appointed to be at Woburn.

Rev. B. B. Edwards was appointed first preacher before the Massachusetts Missionary Society, and Rev. James W. Ward, substitute.

Voted, that five minutes be allowed to each agent who may wish to address the Association in behalf of the benevolent societies which they respectively represent.

The Committee on the subject of Slavery made an extended Report; which was not read, but referred to the next meeting of the Association.

The Committee to whom was referred the communication from Essex North Association, on the subject of uniting the General Association with the Pastoral Association, made a report, which was adopted; and the following Committee were appointed to consider the subject, to communicate with the several District Associations and report to the next meeting of the Association, viz: Rev. Messrs. J. F. Stearns, N. Munroe, M. A. H. Niles, J. H. Towne, R. A. Miller.

The Pastoral Address was read by Rev. Theodore Packard, Jr.

Voted, That this Address be referred to the Committee of Publication, to be published with such verbal alterations as they deem proper.

The following resolutions on Slavery were presented and adopted:

Resolved, That we remark with pleasure the increased attention among our pastors and churches, and in our country generally, regarding the condition and claims of our enslaved countrymen and their oppressors.

Resolved, That we receive, with gratitude to God, intelligence that millions of slaves in British India have been, peaceably, so uplifted from their deep degradation that they are now practically regarded as men.

Resolved, That we express the ardent desire and hope, that the ministers and churches of Christ everywhere, will put forth every appropriate christian effort to effect the termination of slavery in all lands.

The Committee of Arrangements presented the following Preamble and Resolution: Whereas the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society, in all its operations, is acting as an auxiliary to the pastors and churches in this State, therefore,

Resolved, That they be permitted to be represented in this body by two clerical delegates, like the Massachusetts Missionary Society, whereupon, Voted, That this subject be referred to the Committee on the communication from Essex North Association.

Rev. Aretas Kent, of Galena, Ill., addressed the Association in behalf of the churches of the West.

The subject of the American Education Society was presented by Rev. Joseph Emerson; the American Tract Society, by Rev. O. Eastman; the American Sunday School Union, by Rev. T. M. Smith; the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society, by Rev. A. Bullard; the American Home Missionary Society, by Rev. Henry Little. The cause of promoting the better observance of the Sabbath, by Rev. Justin Edwards, D. D.

The following Resolutions were then adopted, viz:

1. Resolved, That as but six days in a week have been made for secular business, and no more have ever been given to men for that purpose, if they take more, it is without right, in opposition to the revealed will of God, and in violation of his law, the penalty of which will show that "the way of transgressors is hard."

2. Resolved, That as the Sabbath was made for man, and the observance of it is essential to the highest social, civil, and religious interests of men, it is not only the duty, but the right and the privilege of all men to remember it and keep it holy.

3. Resolved, That the loading and unloading of vessels, the sailing of vessels from the harbor, the running of stage coaches, rail cars, and canal boats, and the travelling in them, the visiting of post offices, reading rooms, and other places for secular reading, business or amusement, are not only unnecessary, but are violations of the law of God, and ought to be abandoned throughout the community.

4. Resolved, That all pastors of churches be, and they hereby are, respectfully requested fully to instruct their people as to the duty and utility of keeping the Sabbath; and to be especially careful to add to their instructions the influence of a uniformly consistent example.

5. Resolved, That it be recommended to all families to supply themselves with some good Sabbath manual, that the rising generation may all understand the reason for the universal and perpetual observance of the christian Sabbath; and the teachers of Sabbath Schools are requested to exhibit this subject with plainness and frequency to their pupils.

6. Resolved, That all persons who are acquainted with facts which illustrate the duty and ability of observing the Sabbath, and the evils of violating it, are requested to cause them to be published and circulated as extensively as possible, that the voice of God, in his providence, as well as in his word, with regard to this subject, may be heard by the people.

7. Resolved, That such is the fundamental importance of the christian Sabbath, and such its influence upon all the great interests of men, that its due observance ought to receive the earnest attention, the present prayers, and the hearty, active, and persevering co-operation of all friends of God and man throughout the world.

8. Resolved, That should the friends of the Sabbath, in any place, judge that it will tend to promote the due observance of that day, among themselves, to form a local Sabbath Union; and should no other form be deemed more suitable for that purpose, it is respectfully suggested to them, to adopt the following, viz :

“As the Sabbath was made for man, and the observance of it is essential to the highest social, civil, and religious interests of men, we hereby agree that we will endeavor, by example and other kind moral influence, to persuade all persons to abstain from worldly business, travelling and amusement, and to attend the public worship of God on that day.”

The consequences of forming such associations, composed of all heads of families and such members as are disposed to join them, may be expected to be,—

1. That the Sabbath will be better observed than it was before;

2. A larger number will attend public worship ;

3. The way will be opened, should families be found who have not heretofore attended public worship, to attempt, by united example and kind moral influence, to induce them to perform that duty, and thus promote their own good, the good of their children, and of the community.

Rev. Dr. Scudder, the missionary to Madras, addressed the Association.

The Auditing Committee reported that they have examined the Treasurer's account and find it correct, and that there is a balance in the treasury of $26 69. No assessment has been received, either from the Worcester Central or the Suffolk North Associations. The Committee recommended that an assessment of fifty cents be made on each member of the several District Associations, as necessary to meet the annual expenses of this body. This report was adopted.

Rev. Joseph S. Clark and Rev. D. V. McLean had leave of absence.

The Committee on the Narratives of the State of Religion, presented their report, which, being amended, was adopted.

A letter was received from Rev. J. Fisk, delegate to the Constitutional General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, stating that he attended the meeting of that body and was fraternally received.

Voted, That the sincere thanks of this Association be tendered to Rev. Mr. Cary and his beloved flock for their christian hospitality, also to the choir for their acceptable performances, and Mr. Cary be desired to communicate this vote to his people.

Rev. Messrs. Holman, Danforth, Rice, Hunt, Dowse, Trask and Davis, had leave of absence.

The following Committee were appointed to report on the subject of the Papal Church at the next Association, viz. Rev. William Allen, D. D., Rev. George Allen and Rev. B. B. Edwards.

After prayer by the Moderator, adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock, P. M.

Thursday, 2 o'clock, P. M. The Association met agreeably to adjournment, and attended to the usual public religious services at the close of the session. Prayer was offered by Rev. A. R. Baker; Rev. Joseph Bennet preached the Associational Sermon from Gen. xvii. 9; Acts iii. 25; Gal. iii. 29.

The sacrament of the Lord's supper was then administered, the exercises of which were conducted by Rev. S. Nott, Jr., and Rev. J. Edwards, D. D.

Voted, that these be approved as the Minutes of the Association.

Prayer was offered by Dr. Snell, and the doxology was sung.

Voted, that the Association be dissolved.

It has been said that the best times to live in are the worst to write about. Such has been the period, some of whose features we are now called to describe. The current of the divine blessing has flowed steadily and tranquilly through our churches during the past year, enriching the soil and invigorating the plants; but giving no peculiar signs of its presence, other than the precious fruit it has created.

The narratives from the District Associations exhibit,

1. The condition of the community which surrounds the church. The pastors, from their watch-towers, have here marked two features as chiefly deserving their attention—the incursions of error and the triumphs of temperance. Concerning the first of these, while it is painful to reflect what treasures of shame and regret, and gloomy doubt, many are laying up for themselves, by giving heed to seducing spirits, it is, at the same time, cheering to learn that these muddy waves have for the most part dashed harmlessly against the walls of our Zion. There have always been delusions, and some have always been given up to them; perhaps never fewer than at the present period. The progress of the temperance reformation is most cheering. It has now reached the point so long desired, when the guardians of the public welfare, in every county of our State, except one, (which cannot long fail to follow the wise example,) have declared that the good of society does not require the sale of poisonous beverages, and that the murderous traffic must no longer have the solemn sanctions of the law.

2. The blessings of Divine grace which have crowned the year. It is always a most delightful task to observe and record the operations of the Holy Spirit. And our meaning in the remark, that the year was distinguished by nothing striking must now be explained and qualified. It has been a memorable year; memorable for the number of souls converted to God; memorable for the purity and power of its revivals; but at the same time, the coming of the Spirit has been so silent and confessedly unobtrusive, so entirely in connection with the labors of pastors and churches, each in its own sphere, so unlike many of the mighty movements of the Providence and Spirit of God, in which he has suffered the stir and strife, and folly of human passions, to mingle with and mar his own blessed work, that he who looks only on the outward appearance would perhaps regard it as a period of little interest. Almost every Association makes mention of the special manifestation of divine grace within its borders. Many record the manner of the Spirit's influence as being like the descent of a dove—so gentle, so quiet; while his baptism was one of power. And among the most interesting facts recorded, are the revivals in our literary institutions. Amherst College has again been blessed; Mount Holyoke Seminary has, during the past as in former years, witnessed the special manifestation of divine favor; out of sixty unconverted pupils only six remaining, to human view, unregenerated. One important point was alluded to; but the very fact that it was alluded to in but one report, shows that there is yet a very defective appreciation of the Abrahamic covenant. One pastor took the pains to collect the statistics of the case; and he states that, among a large number of conversions, three fourths were of persons who had received the seal of the covenant in their infancy. The church must give more heed to this great subject. God is ever faithful to his promise, and he that observes the ways of God shall know of it. Only one pastor has alluded to the conversion of Roman Catholics; but this is a subject in which, as Christians and Americans, we have a very deep interest.

3. The labors and enterprises of the church. These may be regarded as having reference to herself or to the world around her. Within her own domestic circle, our church has exhibited an increased and well-directed activity. The preaching of the gospel; the faithful and serious administration of the ordinances ; the religious instruction of the young in Sabbath school, Bible and Catechetical classes, have been enjoyed like the early and latter rain, like the regular shining of the sun and the moon, like the varying round of the seasons. And it is with pleasure that we have marked the christian union of mothers to secure maternal counsel and prayers in their responsible relations. One report speaks of the increased love of the Bible. This is a sign we desire to see characterizing all our churches. Another speaks of an increased spirit of prayer. This is to us among the most cheering of the glad tidings reported.

The benevolent spirit appears to be advancing steadily, although far too slowly. The various institutions of benevolence are receiving an increased support from our churches. And we trust it will be found that if our Foreign Missionary Society is to be embarrassed, it will not be because Massachusetts has abated her zeal ; although we may regret that her zeal and liberality have not been more abundant. The monthly concert of prayer appears to be attended with a growing interest. The interests of our own unevangelized people are more fully appreciated. The Sabbatical institution is receiving a new degree of attention. The voice of our churches is heard steadily and solemnly pleading with God and man in behalf of Africa's injured sons. The report from our beloved Theological School is the most cheering we have heard for years.

4. The condition of the churches. So great is their external prosperity, so manifold the blessing of God upon them, that we cannot fail to make mention of his loving kindness, and admire his power and grace. The tendency to disturb the relations between the pastor and people is rapidly diminishing. Almost every flock has a pastor—the man of its choice. And who can contemplate the relation without gratitude to the Great Head of the church !

In giving a more particular notice, we commence with the Berkshire Association. The condition of this large Association is represented as very favorable—having settled pastors in nearly all of its thirty-one churches. In fifteen of these, revivals of religion, marked with features of uncommon interest, have been enjoyed. The feeble church in South Adams has tripled its numbers during the year.

In Hampshire Association the manifestations of the Spirit's influence have been witnessed to a high degree. In East Hampton, a part of the very town in which the great revival, in the time of President Edwards, commenced, a precious season of refreshing has been enjoyed. In Middlefield almost all the population, of adult age, have been hopefully converted.

Hampshire East Association speaks of the special triumphs of grace in its churches, and of pulpits replenished by pastors, with only one or two remaining exceptions.

The Hampden Association reports interesting revivals in Ludlow, Chickopee, Cabotville, North Wilbraham, East Longmeadow, Monson, Blandford, Fourth Church in Springfield, West Springfield, and Agawam.

Within the limits of the Franklin Association, interesting revivals have been enjoyed in Conway, Sunderland, Ervingville, Erving, West Hawley and Charlemont. Fifty have united with the church in Conway, a large portion of whom are heads of families.

The Brookfield Association report that the church in New Braintree has been much revived and blessed, as also the church in Oakham. Other churches have enjoyed gentle showers of grace. An aged disciple has left them for his reward and rest—the Rev. D. Tomlinson of Oakham.

In the Harmony Association, a spirit of love prevails. They do not forget the import of the name by which they are called. Many of their churches have been revived and materially enlarged, especially in Grafton, Webster and East Douglas.

The Worcester Central Association has shared in the general blessing; ten of their churches having received an accession of 468 members during the year.

The report of the Worcester North Association has an encouraging tone, speaking of refreshing influences enjoyed, of old walls rebuilt, of error waning, of temperance triumphing, and of the Bible gaining a new and deeper hold on the affections of many. Revivals in Ashburnham, Athol and South Royalston—in the last place 90 conversions.

The churches in Middlesex Union have been greatly blessed during the past year. Stillness has characterized the work of the Spirit. As a result of the revival a year ago, more than 80 have joined the church in Townsend. Upwards of 70 have been added to the church in Acton. In Leominster, 25 hopeful converts are reported; in Ashley, 20; in Dunstable, 20; in Fitchburg, 120.

The Middlesex South Association congratulate themselves on being spared from the blighting effects of the delusions which have troubled many parts of the community. They observe a progress of christian principle in their churches. They lament, however, the want of greater manifestations of divine power to accompany their regularly administered ordinances. Interesting revivals have been enjoyed in several of the churches.

The Woburn Association has been blessed with reviving influences, and reports the condition of its churches as highly encouraging.

The Andover Association reports every church but one in its bounds as supplied with stated preaching. Some powerful revivals have been enjoyed. Those in Lowell, North Chelmsford and West Dracut, have resulted in large accessions to the visible church.

The churches in Essex North Association, after passing through severe trials, in some instances, have in general had rest and a good degree of outward prosperity. A pleasing work of grace is in progress in Linebrook.

Essex South reports that during the past winter, many of the churches have been blessed with a season of religious interest. A larger proportion of the converts are adults and married men. In the church in Wenham the special interest has continued more than a year. And the churches which have not been specially blessed, are in a healthy and vigorous state.

The Suffolk North Association reports no revivals, but a general state of progress and vigorous action in the churches. Death has removed one of the most esteemed brethren in that section of our Zion—the Rev. Daniel Crosby of Charlestown.

Suffolk South reports substantially the same state of things with Suffolk North.

The Norfolk Association speaks of the happy state of religious feeling in the different churches connected with that body. There is a stronger attachment between pastors and people, and increased attendance on the means of grace, together with a strengthened love for the doctrines and order of the churches planted by the Puritans.

The churches connected with the Taunton Association have all been more or less blessed with the effusions of the spirit. Extensive revivals have been enjoyed in Norton, Attleborough, 2d parish, Pawtucket, Taunton, Raynham, Berkeley and Dighton.

Mendon Association is described as in a flourishing condition, paying increased attention to scriptural instruction, and feeling a new interest in the cause of domestic missions. In Foxboro' there has been a revival and thirty hopeful conversions.

The Old Colony Association states, that the reports from its churches are in general favorable, but remarks a great deficiency in the estimate generally set upon the dedication of the seed of the church to their covenant God.

The Brewster Association expresses much gratitude to God for the signal displays of his grace to their churches; as nearly all of them have been visited with a season of refreshing during the past year. The Rev. Solomon Hardy of Eastham has rested from his labors.

In the Vineyard Sound Association revivals have been enjoyed in Falmouth, North Falmouth, Sandwich and Monument. A large number of the converts are among the most active and influential youth; many of them also are heads of families.

The Pilgrim Association give, in the general, a favorable account of the condition of their churches, and make grateful mention of a peculiar display of divine grace in the parish of Monument in the ancient town of Plymouth.

The delegate from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, (old school) reported that God had in a very gracious manner visited the churches under its care during the past year. Powerful revivals of religion have been experienced in more than fifty Presbyteries, extending to more than 400 churches. The several Boards of benevolence under the direction of that Assembly are represented as being in a more flourishing condition than at any former period. The cause of foreign missions is taking a stronger hold upon the affections of the people; and the Board is sustaining missions in Texas, among the Indians of this continent, and in Western Africa, India and China. Their Board of Domestic Missions supported the last year, nearly 300 missionaries in 23 States, under whose labors upwards of 4000 souls have been hopefully converted, 50 new congregations organized, and about 70 new churches erected. Their Board of Publication have issued twenty-one volumes of standard works on doctrinal and practical religion. The Union Theological Seminary in Virginia, the Western Theological Seminary of Alleghany, and the Princeton Seminary, are reported as being in an uncommonly prosperous condition, containing together about 165 candidates for the sacred ministry.

The delegate from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, (new school) gave cheering accounts of numerous and powerful revivals in all the Presbyteries during the past three years, and of a great increase in their numbers, unity and strength; also of increased attention to the great benevolent enterprises of the age. Facts were also detailed, showing clearly the importance of extending more abundant aid to the feeble churches of the West, in their conflicts with the gigantic forms of error by which they are surrounded. There is demanded, not only an increased supply of ministers from the East, but the more firm establishment of literary and theological institutions for the education of a permanent ministry on their own soil.

From the General Association of Connecticut we have received intelligence both interesting and cheering. Their churches, embracing one eighth of the entire population of the State, are enjoying harmony and prosperity. Their interest in behalf of the great benevolent enterprises of the day, and especially in behalf of the enslaved, is increasing. During the year, God has shed down his Spirit in a signal manner upon many of their churches, and brought multitudes into his kingdom.

The General Convention of Vermont, report 204 churches, 93 settled pastors, 56 stated supplies, 44 destitute churches, and 24,445 church members. Of these, 1,680 have been received the past year—the fruits of the precious revivals with which God has blessed many of their churches.

From the General Association of New Hampshire, we have received report, that though there have been on the whole but little special interest, revivals have occurred in more than 20 towns, characterized apparently by great purity, and that about 1,000 souls have been added by profession to the churches, and 500 by letter the past year. The cause of benevolence in its various forms—Sabbath schools, temperance, and the claims of the slave—have received increasing attention.

The Evangelical Consociation of Rhode Island report 17 churches and 8 pastors, as comprised within their limits. General harmony is now restored to the churches which were disturbed by the recent political troubles of their State.

There is manifestly an increased interest in favor of the principles of pure Congregationalism.

A favorable report of the state of the churches in Michigan was also presented to the Association ; reiterating at the same time the appeal for aid in strengthening the churches yet in their infancy.

We deem it worthy of special notice, in this narrative, that in nearly all of the reports from the District Associations, it has been mentioned that the chief instrumentality which has been employed in the precious revivals that have been enjoyed, was the regular preaching of pastors, and other ordinary means of grace.

This brief survey of the fields under the cultivation of the General Association of Massachusetts and of those under the care of affiliated bodies, may surely excite fervent gratitude to the Great Head of the church, and a quickened sense of her responsibility, in a world where so much is yet to be done, and where, in humble reliance on abounding grace, so much may be speedily accomplished.

PASTORAL ADDRESS.

BELOVED BRETHREN :

Our sacred office requires us to address you weekly in our individual pastoral capacity. Our hearts incline us to address you annually in our capacity as an associated body of gospel ministers. Each Sabbath we individually ask your devout attention to the messages we bring you from God. Each year we unitedly offer you our sympathies, our counsels, and our instructions. Our four hundred voices we would now unite in one, and send our christian salutation to the sixty or seventy thousand disciples of our Divine Master, over whom we are placed as pastors and teachers. Never will any of our number have the privilege of meeting you all in temples here below ; and never will any of your number see and hear us all, while we sojourn upon earth. In the joyful anticipation of uniting with you in the church triumphant in heaven, we would embrace the present occasion to aid and encourage you to press on toward the crown of life. To several distinct yet harmonious points, that bear upon the future prosperity of our beloved Zion, we would now invite your attention.

1. Faithfully sustain the cause of christian benevolence. The principle and spirit and practice of doing good to all men as we have opportunity, are essential to constitute a consistent christian character, to secure the highest degree of spirituality to the church and to evangelize the world. Then adopt and cherish the principles of gospel benevolence. You are stewards under the Divine proprietor. All the substance entrusted to your care belongs to him. In the disposal of it, compliance with his directions is the only lawful rule. As we would that others should do to us, even so ought we to do to them. Cultivate the spirit of benevolence. Contemplate the guilt and wretchedness and exposure to eternal ruin, of the vast multitudes shrouded in moral darkness. Let your works testify to the correctness and efficiency of your principles of benevolence, and also to the strength and increase of your benevolent emotions. Wait not to be urged to the privilege of being honest to your Master, and of sharing in the superior blessedness of being benefactors to a world perishing in wickedness. Let the favorable prospects for taking possession of the earth in the name of Zion's King, be interpreted as Heaven's voice to us, "Put ye in the sickle, for the harvest is ripe." Do any say, they are unable to reach the harvest-field, or to use the sickle if they were there? Then let them furnish bread and water to the reapers. Such abundant light has been shed upon the church concerning her duty to the heathen world, that we never expect to see her advance far in holiness, without a corresponding advancement in her prayers and efforts to reclaim the benighted myriads of our race to Christ. From regard then to the authority of your Divine Master; from regard to the eternal salvation of perishing multitudes, and from regard to your own spiritual prosperity, engage heartily and efficiently in the glorious enterprise of furnishing the gospel to every creature.

2. Sacredly observe and endeavor to protect the christian Sabbath. We have beheld with deep sorrow and alarm, the increasing desecration of this holy day. It was once hallowed throughout our borders, by the people and by the government, by the pious and by the worldly. But the love of gain and worldly pleasure, have requited God for giving us six days for labor and business, by taking the last remaining day, which he had reserved for the special worship of himself, and appropriating it to secular and selfish purposes. To a lamentable degree does this practice, so dishonest and ungrateful towards God, prevail in our nation, and even in our Commonwealth. So intimately connected is the due observance of this day with the highest temporal welfare of the whole community, and with the greatest spiritual prosperity of the church, that we feel impelled, as patriots and as Christians, to summon you to embark with us, in rescuing from profanation the holy day of our Master's resurrection, and in restoring to the Almighty that which so many have sacrilegiously taken from him. To accomplish this object, let the example of the church and of the ministry be pure. Let us carefully and conscientiously hallow all the hours of the Sabbath. Allow neither business, nor visiting, nor travelling, nor worldly conversation, to rob God of any portion of holy time. Never permit the property he has committed to you, to be employed in any way whereby it shall come in conflict with this sacred institution of his appointment. Thus doing, you would be guilty of putting one of Jehovah's blessings in battle array against another—of sending property into the field to war against the Sabbath. Not only scrupulously guard your families against the positive violation of this day, but faithfully enjoin upon them its religious observance. With an earnestness corresponding to the vast interests involved in the preservation of the christian Sabbath, let your example, your influence, and your prayers, be directed to the noble object of promoting its sanctification. The recent indications of an increased interest, and the present special efforts of a distinguished and able member of our own body, in behalf of this object, encourage our hope, that Jehovah is about to turn the hearts of the American community to the more faithful observance of this Divine institution.

3. Highly value and earnestly maintain the system of Congregationalism. Proselytism we neither recommend nor approve. Let us carefully guard against all intrusion upon our christian brethren of other evangelical denominations. Resist the temptation to follow any unworthy example, of demolishing one portion of the spiritual temple to obtain stones to build up another portion of the same edifice. If the servants of our common Master will but scale the wall and work, never pull them down, unless they ask your hand to help them to descend and occupy another portion of the rising walls. But we may lawfully defend our own system of ecclesiastical polity. We claim only the right common to all christian sects, of maintaining that our church organization is in accordance with scriptural instructions and examples. The simplicity and republican character that distinguish it; its peculiar adaptedness to all the various conditions of mankind, and the signal success with which God has been pleased to favor it, may justly attach you to the Congregational order. In cultivating and strengthening this attachment on the ground of these considerations, we apprehend you need feel no danger. For the firm and permanent maintenance of the Congregational system, depend not upon any exclusive or superior mode of observing outward religious rites, nor upon the influence of hierarchy, nor upon denominational prejudice, nor upon worldly policy, nor upon any external artificial support. Let your dependence be upon the enlightened, genuine, deep piety of Christians, and the consecrated talents and faithful labors of ministers as the instrumental agency, and upon the Holy Spirit, as the efficient and almighty agent. Let a spirit of brotherly love bind you to each other, and prevent the need of all artificial bonds of union. Let a tender concern for the honor of Christ and the prosperity of his cause, be the noble safeguard against all ecclesiastical disorder, disunion and defection, and against all obliquity of christian character.

For whatever reason God has been pleased to preserve our order hitherto, to such a degree, from the present popular delusion, respecting the speedy, personal advent of Christ upon earth, we are justly summoned to return our humble and hearty thanks to Divine Providence, for such a gracious interposition. "Not unto us, O Lord, not unto us, but unto thy name give glory, for thy mercy and for thy truth's sake." Beloved brethren, ponder and observe the appropriate instruction of God's word, "That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive." Never patronise error because it is intermingled with great and glorious truths. Let your time and talents be employed in faithful, scriptural efforts to prepare the way for the universal reign of Christ upon earth.

4. Support wholesome christian discipline in the church. The imperfect sanctification of Christians in the present life, leaves them liable to such degrees of defection from duty, that the Divine Head of the church has enacted laws for the treatment of the offending members of his visible kingdom. The low degree of piety, that too often prevails, prepares the way for some of Christ's real disciples to fall into grievous offences and dangerous heresy, and also operates to expose occasionally the true character of hypocrites. Towards both classes of offenders, it becomes the solemn duty of the church to exercise the discipline prescribed in the gospel. On this subject, it is your first and constant duty to endeavor to prevent all occasion for such discipline. In this connection, two considerations deserve special notice: first, the church ought to cherish such a spirit of holy consecration to God, and practice such a measure of christian self-denial in his service, that there will be little danger of any application from the unregenerate for admission to her communion, and that her true and sanctified members may be far removed from all disposition even to parley with temptation; and, secondly, all the professed disciples of our Lord should vigilantly watch over each other, and reprove, rebuke, and exhort, in the earliest stages of religious declension. It is not common, for the consistent, devoted Christian suddenly to fall into gross offences. He usually backslides till he gets far down the mount and then falls. Be it your wise precaution, to endeavor to save your brethren before they fall. Seasonable, faithful, and kind admonition might prevent much dishonor to religion, and save the church no small amount of painful duty. In the performance of this duty we are constrained to believe, that most Christians are exceedingly deficient. When church discipline is demanded, suffer not party spirit, nor the influence of friendship and wealth and station, to prevent your mild and firm administration of it in all cases, according to the rules of the gospel. Gross impiety in the church will operate to grieve away the Holy Spirit. Keep pure the temple of the Lord, whose temple ye are, that the Holy One may dwell in you, and comfort, and strengthen, and enlarge you.

5. Let the religious and doctrinal instruction of your families hold a high place in the rank of christian duties. Occasionally have our annual addresses alluded to this particular branch of duty. But we think it scarcely possible to estimate it too highly, or to commend it too frequently or too earnestly to your practical regard. God has strictly enjoined this duty. "And ye shall teach them your children, speaking of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, when thou liest down, and when thou risest up." Christian parents, be persuaded thoroughly to indoctrinate your families into the fundamental truths of the gospel. Of great value to the successful prosecution of this object, will you find a regular, systematic plan of imparting instruction, and also some plain, able, and faithful compend of the doctrines of the Bible. Some portion of the Sabbath is a most appropriate season for such an exercise. In connection with your daily domestic devotions, it might justly claim a share of your time and attention. Probably no better com-

pend for this purpose can be found than the Shorter Catechism, prepared by that distinguished body of one hundred and twenty divines, who assembled in Westminster Abbey by order of the English Parliament, to effect a reform in the English church. Two hundred years ago the present week, that learned and pious assembly entered upon the important work assigned them. Among the valuable services, which they rendered to the cause of truth and piety, during the five years and a half, in which they held their eleven hundred and sixty-three sessions, was the preparation of this Catechism for the instruction of children and families in the doctrines of the christian religion. The following extract from an able and interesting history of this assembly of divines, we commend to your serious and careful consideration: "It has often been said by judicious men, that a better summary of the orthodox faith could not be penned, than the Shorter Catechism of the Westminster Assembly of divines. It has been the vehicle of conveying to the minds of millions, for two hundred years nearly, a concise but comprehensive view of the doctrines of the Reformation. Though often committed and repeated by many, who never seriously consider the truths which it contains, yet it is exceedingly important to have such a form of sound words lodged in the memory; especially if committed, as it should be, in connection with some of the clearest and strongest proof-texts, on which the doctrine of each answer is founded, that all may understand, that their faith should rest on the word of God and not on the authority of men. But where this catechism is judiciously used by parents and pastors, the truths contained in it will be doctrinally understood; and even if the catechumen should lead a life, not conformable to the precepts here inculcated, yet at a future day these neglected and resisted truths may be the means of the sinner's conviction, and a most important light to guide him to salvation, under the influence of the Holy Spirit."

Before we close, we would record a few brief items of statistical information in relation to the ministry and the church. Nineteen years ago, the present month, the General Association met within the limits of this District Association, where we are now convened. Of all the present pastors of our four hundred churches, only about forty are now pastors of the same churches in which they then officiated in this capacity. Great the change! In the year 1841, two hundred and eighty of the churches admitted to their communion about twenty-four hundred members—more than seventeen hundred of whom, or nearly three fourths, were baptized in infancy. Abundant encouragement to observe the covenant of Jehovah! In the same year, in the same number of churches, about sixteen hundred were baptized in infancy. In the same year, there were about seventy thousand members of Sabbath schools and Bible classes in our congregations. And in the same year, christian friends, about one thousand of your number entered eternity. Verily their death should enforce upon our hearts the solemn admonition of the Bible: “Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave whither thou goest.”

In conclusion, we would mingle our joyful and devout thanksgivings with yours, that the promise of the Divine Redeemer has been so gloriously fulfilled the year past, in sending the Comforter to convince so many of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment. Ye who have been thus highly favored, grieve not the Holy Spirit to depart from you. And let all our christian brethren, so sincerely and importunately and faithfully invite the Divine Sanctifier into their families and neighborhoods, and religious assemblies, that on our next annual meeting, we and you may have occasion to renew, and increase, and prolong our hallelujahs to Almighty God, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, for the return of Pentecostal times.

Remarks on the general state of Religion in the Parish.

It is expected that each member of the particular Associations in Massachusetts will make returns agreeably to this form, to his Association at its meeting, next preceding each annual meeting of the General Association, and that the Delegates from each Association will combine all the returns to his Association into one, to be presented to the General Association, adding up and stating the whole amount in each column, and making the return, in all respects, as complete as possible.

RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

1. The Association, by which the General Association of Massachusetts was originally organized, agreed to admit, and this Association continue to admit, as articles of faith, the doctrines of Christianity, as they are generally expressed in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism; and the above-mentioned doctrines, understood by us to be distinctly those, which from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel, are considered as the basis of our union.

2. This General Association is founded on the principles of Congregationalism, and wholly disclaims ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the churches, or the opinions of individuals. Its object is to promote brotherly harmony and intercourse among the ministers of Christ;—to obtain religious information relative to the state of their churches, and of the Christian church in this country, and throughout the world;—and to co-operate with one another, and with other ecclesiastical bodies in the most eligible measures for advancing the cause of truth and holiness.

3. Each District Association in Massachusetts, consenting to the principles of this Union, as stated in the first article, may appoint two delegates annually, to compose this General Association: and it is recommended, that one be appointed, who attended the preceding year.

4. The time of the annual meeting of this Association, shall be on the fourth Tuesday of June, at five o'clock, P. M., at such place, as shall have been duly notified.

5. Seven members, delegated from the particular Associations of Massachusetts, shall be requisite to form a quorum for transacting any business; but for opening and adjourning the meeting, a less number shall be competent.

6. The secretary and the minister of the church, where the Association meet, shall have seats, and act as members; the Associations to which they belong retaining the right to elect their number of Delegates in addition.

7. The minister of the church in the place where the Association meets, or the secretary, may call the Association to order and preside in the meeting until the Association shall be properly organized.

8. The certificates of the delegates present shall be read by the Secretary or by a temporary Scribe, and the Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator, a Scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant Scribe by ballot. The Rules of the Association shall also be read, and the Moderator shall open the business with prayer.

9. At the opening of the session on each subsequent day, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned shall immediately call the members to order; direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

10. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, shall be appointed by nomination, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

11. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing, and no motion shall be open to discussion, until it be seconded.

12. The Moderator may speak to points of order, in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

13. On questions of order, adjournment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, no member shall speak more than once. Nor on any question shall a member speak more than twice, without leave of the Association.

14. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question; viz. Shall the main question be now put.

15. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

16. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members to call him to order.

17. The discussions in the Association, and the whole deportment of the members shall be in accordance with decorum, with due respect to the chair, and with courtesy to each other.

18. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

19. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer by the Moderator, or such other member as he shall appoint.

20. The principles of the connections formed with the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, the General Associations of Connecticut and New Hampshire, the General Convention of Congregational and Presbyterian Ministers in Vermont, and the Evangelical Consociation of Rhode-Island, are, that this General Association, and each ecclesiastical body connected with it, shall annually appoint, each two Delegates to the other, who shall be admitted into each body, to the same right of sitting, debating, and voting with their own members respectively.

21. The principle of the connection formed with the Massachusetts Missionary Society, is, that said Society may annually appoint two delegates to this body, who shall be admitted to equal privileges with the members from the District Associations.

22. Gentlemen, who are admitted as honorary members, shall be allowed full liberty to take part in all deliberations; though they are not considered as entitled to vote; and it is expected they will give notice to the body, if they find it necessary to withdraw previous to the close of the session. The approbation of the Committee of Arrangements shall be obtained, before a gentleman shall be proposed to sit as an honorary member.

23. The Delegates, who the preceding year attended the meetings of foreign bodies, shall, ex officio, have seats as honorary members of the General Association.

24. A Committee of three shall be annually appointed, to submit to the General Association at the next meeting, a Pastoral Address, to excite the attention of ministers and Christians, to faithful discipline in the churches, the instruction of the rising generation, the sanctification of the Sabbath, and other subjects relating to the general interests of religion. The address being approved by the General Association, shall be signed by the Moderator, and printed with the minutes. This Committee shall be chosen from the several Associations in rotation.

25. The Associational Sermon shall be delivered at two o'clock, Thursday, P. M., after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper shall be administered. The narratives given by the Delegates of the several Associations concerning the state of religion and the churches, shall be given on Wednesday afternoon, and shall be presented in writing, with a view to obtain an accurate account of the principal facts, not however to prevent any more particular details which the Delegates may think expedient to add, or the Association to request. The returns, with respect to the number in the churches, etc., shall be made out according to a printed schedule of this body, and according to the numbers on the first of January past.

26. A Committee shall be appointed to receive the narratives and statements, and shall condense them into one narrative, to be submitted to the General Association and published. The written narratives shall be deposited with the Secretary.

27. A Committee shall be appointed to nominate Delegates to foreign bodies, which delegates shall, as far as practicable, be selected from the District Associations in rotation. The brethren chosen substitutes in the delegations to the several bodies in our connection, shall, at our next session be considered as Delegates to the respective bodies, if they shall not previously have taken their seats there, through the failure of their principals.

28. The Secretary shall be chosen for three years, from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made. He shall, ex officio, be the Treasurer of the General Association; and shall be allowed his own travelling expenses in attending the meetings of this Association. A Committee shall be appointed annually, to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the members of the several Associations connected with this body. The Secretary shall be authorized to pay such expenses as are allowed by this Association.

29. It shall be the duty of the Delegates of the District Associations, to pay the amount of the Assessments due from their respective Associations for the past year, whether collected by them or not.

30. A Publishing Committee shall be annually appointed, to make such extracts from the minutes of the meeting, as in their judgment it will be proper to publish; procure to be printed such number of copies with the Pastoral Address and Narrative of the State of Religion, as will give one copy to each minister of the Associations represented in this body; and such a number of copies for other bodies connected with this Association, as shall be mutually agreed upon. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to receive the publications from foreign bodies, and distribute them among the several Associations, in proportion to the tax paid by them respectively. One copy of each publication, received by the General Association, or printed by its order, shall be kept in the archives.

31. An Agent shall be appointed in Boston to transmit the Extracts of the Minutes of this General Association to other ecclesiastical bodies, and to receive their Extracts or other publications, and transmit them to the several District Associations represented in this body. And notice of his appointment and place of business, shall be inserted in the printed Extracts. He shall be entitled to a suitable compensation.

32. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to communicate proper information to the Agent in Boston, and to the Publishing Committee, for their direction.

33. Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and request some District Association to appoint a preacher to deliver the Associational Sermon. And the church of the place of meeting is desired to make preparations to celebrate the Lord's Supper during the session.

34. A Vote or Resolve to establish, alter, or annul a standing rule of this body, shall be read twice on different days, and may be debated at each reading. At the first reading the question shall be, Shall it be read the second time?

BY-LAWS.

1. An annual sermon shall be preached before the Association, on the subject of Home Missions, and a collection taken. The preacher shall be appointed by this body.

2. No report of the state of religion shall be read in public, unless it be approved by the Association from which it comes, or by the Committee of Arrangements of the General Association.

3. It is recommended to the several District Associations, to have their narratives on the state of religion, condensed, so as not to exceed five minutes in the time of reading.

4. The printed Minutes of this Association, shall be sufficient testimonials of the appointment of Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

5. It shall be the duty of each Primary Delegate to any foreign body, to notify the Secretary of this Association, at, or before, the opening of the annual meeting next after his appointment, of his attendance upon the duty assigned him; and until such notification be made, or an acceptable reason be assigned for his non-attendance, he shall be ineligible as a Delegate to any foreign body.

6. It shall be the duty of each Delegate to any foreign body appointed as a Substitute, to notify the Secretary of this Association, at, or before, the opening of its annual meeting next after his appointment, of his attendance, or non-attendance as such Delegate, and until such notification be made, he shall be ineligible to the same body.

7. The Minutes of this Association shall be sent to the individual members of the Associations connected with this body by mail, and the Chairman of the Committee of Publication, shall furnish a list of the names required to the Agents of the Association.

8. The Minutes of this body, forwarded to the General Association of Connecticut, shall be, according to their request, sent by mail, under the direction of the Publishing Committee.

9. The names of all the members of the Associations belonging to this body, whether with or without charge, shall be inserted in the published returns.

10. Every church without a pastor, by paying twenty-five cents, annually, to the Treasurer of the General Association, through the Treasurer of the local Association, with which said church is connected, shall be entitled to receive the Minutes of the General Association, to be forwarded in the same way as minutes are forwarded to members of the Association.

Wednesday morning, 8 o'clock. The Association met according to adjournment. The meeting was opened with prayer by the Moderator.

The Committee of Arrangements reported in part.

The Rev. Dr. Baird, Secretary of the Foreign Evangelical Society, delivered an instructive address, touching the objects of that society.

Whereupon, the Rev. Mr. Fowler offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted :

Resolved, That in view of the facts presented, this Association is impressed with the deep and solemn conviction, that the diffusion of the principles of true religion in Romish countries is destined, under God, to exert a mighty influence for the benefit of those countries and the conversion of the world.

Resolved, That we believe the churches within the bounds of this Association will be aiding a great and good work, by contributing of their substance to this cause.

The report of the Committee appointed by this body several years since, to correspond with Ecclesiastical Bodies at the South on the subject of slavery, was read by the Rev. Mr. Sessions of that committee.

Whereupon, Rev. Mr. Peckham moved the acceptance of the Report, which was carried.

A protracted and animated debate ensued on the subject of printing the report, but without coming to any decisive result.

Voted to adjourn to meet at 2 o'clock, P. M.

Wednesday, 2 o'clock, P. M. Met according to adjournment.

The Committee to whom was referred the request of the Congregational and Presbyterian Convention of Wisconsin, reported, that they have examined the Constitution and Articles of Faith of said body, and recommend, that this General Association comply with their request for fraternal intercourse and correspondence.

Voted, That the report be adopted: and the Secretary was appointed to carry on the correspondence.

The Committee appointed last year to prepare the Pastoral Letter, reported, and the Letter presented by them was read by one of the committee, and on motion it was accepted, adopted, and committed to the hands of the publishing committee.

The Committee on uniting this Association with the Pastoral Association, reported, and the report was accepted, and recommitted to the same committee.

The Committee on allowing the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society to send a delegation to this Association made the following report, which was adopted:

The Committee to whom was referred the subject of the admission of the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society to a representation in this Association, beg leave to report:

That the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society, occupying as it does an important ground which is not and cannot be fully reached by any other existing organization, deserves in a peculiar manner the patronage and co-operation of the congregational ministers and churches of this state. Yet your committee are of opinion, that to admit it to that intimate connection with this body which is contemplated by the resolutions offered at the last annual meeting would be to afford a precedent of very wide and undesirable application, and on the whole is not expedient.

The Committee for auditing the Treasurer's account, reported, that they find it correctly cast and properly vouched; that there is in the treasury $76,64. The committee recommend a tax of twenty-five cents on the members of the several Associations for the year to come.

A communication was read from Rev. Dr. Edwards on the observance of the Sabbath.

The Committee to whom was referred the subject of Church Psalmody, reported in substance, that no action is expedient on the subject.

A Committee was appointed to consider the subject of sending a delegation to the Congregational Union of England and Wales, consisting of Messrs. Perry, Snell, and Fisk.

Rev. Mr. Fowler had leave of absence after eleven o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Fowler, N. Adams, and Towne, were appointed a Committee of Publication.

Rev. Mr. Wood of East Hampshire Association, read a communication, submitting certain questions of church government to the Association. The subject was referred to a committee of three, to report next year.

Committee appointed, Dr. Emerson, Dr. Hitchcock, and Mr. Cooke.

Rev. Mr. Bushnell was appointed an Assistant Scribe, pro. tem.

The subject of printing the report on the correspondence with Ecclesiastical Bodies at the South was resumed. After some further debate, the following resolution, presented by Dr. Osgood, was passed:

Resolved, That the report of the Committee of correspondence with Ecclesiastical Bodies on the subject of slavery, be published under the direction of the committee and at their discretion.

Rev. George C. Beckwith was allowed to speak ten minutes on the subject of peace.

The same length of time was allotted to other speakers on benevolent objects.

The claims of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions were presented by the Rev. Mr. Bingham of the Sandwich Islands.

The Association listened to the Rev. Mr. Albro, with reference to the claims of the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society.

The following resolution was then adopted, viz :

Resolved, That this Association continue to regard the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society with special favor, as an important auxiliary in providing a sound religious literature for the children and youth of our congregations, and in the work of the moral and religious training of the young, and we recommend to our churches, that they continue to extend to this institution their sympathy, prayers, and co-operation, and to make it the organ of disbursing their charities to destitute Sabbath Schools.

Rev. Harvey Wilbur spoke in behalf of Pastoral Bible Classes.

Whereupon, the following resolutions were adopted, viz :

1. That the past smiles of heaven on Pastors' Bible classes should encourage renewed and persevering efforts within the limits of this Association to increase their numbers and their prosperity.

2. That a Committee of three pastors be chosen to promote this object, and report to the next meeting of this Association. Committee, Messrs. Kirk, Budington, and Bennett.

The Committee to whom the subject was referred, reported in favor of appointing a delegation to the Congregational Union of England and Wales.

Rev. G. B. Perry and Dr. Burgess were appointed delegates.

The claims of the West Indian Missions were presented by Rev. Mr. Hovey.

Resolved, That the sincere thanks of this Association be returned to the Rev. Mr. Bennett and his people, for their generous and christian hospitality. Also, to the Choir for their acceptable services; and that the Rev. Mr. Bennett be requested to communicate this vote to his people.

Voted to adjourn to 2 o'clock, P. M., to attend the public religious services at that time. Prayer was offered by the Moderator.

Thursday, 2 o'clock, P. M. The Association met agreeably to adjournment, to attend the public religious services. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Stearns. Rev. D. T. Kimball preached the Associational Sermon. The sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered, the exercises of which were conducted by Rev. J. Leavitt and Rev. John Gridley.

Voted, To leave the narrative of the state of religion without reading in the hands of the committee who prepared it, and with the Publishing Committee to be published at their discretion.

Voted, That the above be approved as the Minutes of the Association.

Prayer was offered by the Moderator.

Voted, That the Association be dissolved.

CALVIN HITCHCOCK, Moderator.

CYRUS MANN, Scribe.

ORIN FOWLER, Assistant Scribe.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

IN presenting the narrative of the state of religion in our churches, we should rejoice to say that the ways of God towards them have been like the morning spread upon the mountains, shining with increased brightness unto the perfect day. But while we can with confidence make mention of the loving kindness of the Lord, in granting us great prosperity and peace in our churches during the past year, we are compelled to speak of some of those evils, as still existing, which have troubled the churches in years past, and which must have prevented the progress of truth in those sections where they have prevailed. Ever since the introduction of the gospel dispensation, there has been a disposition in some of the professed disciples of Jesus to be carried about by diverse and strange doctrines. We are indeed to expect that where the Son of man sows much good seed, Satan will scatter among it some tares. The duty of the faithful husbandman is to watch the springing of these tares, and carefully keep them down, lest the good seed should be impeded in its progress towards perfection. If in this imperfect state, we are not to expect the entire purity of the church, we ought fervently to desire it, to pray for it, and to seek it. Some may think that it is impolitic to speak of existing evils in the churches; that the narrative which we present should not excite a single painful emotion; that it should only present a bright and beautiful prospect calculated to comfort and cheer the people of God. But if there are heresies among us, how shall men shun them if they are not mentioned. We are not to be startled nor discouraged at the existence of evils in the visible church. While the watchmen of Zion should not sound a needless alarm, they ought unquestionably to warn men of any dangers which they may perceive or apprehend. It cannot be concealed that in some sections of our Commonwealth there has existed a spirit of insubordination among some of the members of our churches which has led them to despise those who were over them in the Lord, because they could not yield to their dictation in some reformations in morals, and go forward with violence rather than with moderation. This spirit, however, we are happy to say, is spending itself in a harmless manner. Those who were most filled with it have principally withdrawn, and left the churches in peace, while many others who were at first carried away with their dissimulations have seen their errors and have returned to the performance of their duty as christian brethren in the family of Christ. Another evil which is intimately connected with that which has been mentioned, and which probably is its legitimate offspring, is the withholding the means which are requisite to support the institutions of the gospel from those pastors who do not come up to their notions upon subjects which they deem to be all important, and also from that missionary organization which is engaged to send the gospel to the heathen. It is to be regretted that in some instances members of churches have done this, and have thus lent their influence to weaken the church, and destroy its efficient action against the kingdom of Satan. And here again we are happy to say that a better feeling begins to prevail; some of this evil does not exist to so great an extent as it did one year ago. The churches have not during the past year manifested so much readiness to dismiss their pastors as they have done, and there seems to be a growing desire for the good old practice of their pilgrim fathers.

There is one more evil which we will mention, which is brought before us in the reports of one or two of the district Associations—it is a preference of stated supplies, to stated pastors. But the churches will soon be convinced of the inexpediency of this course. The spiritually minded will perceive that under such a practice they must inevitably lose all vitality, and have only a name to live, while they are dead.

We have glanced at a few of the evils which exist in some sections of our Commonwealth, and which we fully believe will ere long be removed. And how many tokens of God's special kindness to our churches have we to bring forward by way of contrast? Peace has been extended to us as a river. The churches have been gathering in and enjoying the fruits of those revivals which they experienced a year ago. The multitudes who were converted to God in these times of refreshing have thus far proved steadfast and unmoveable; they have walked in the fear of the Lord and in the comfort of the Holy Ghost. They have contributed to the strength of the church and to make her "terrible as an army with banners." From every section of the Commonwealth most animating intelligence comes up respecting the progress of temperance. The cause is gaining ground rapidly, and the friends manifest the best feelings towards each other and a disposition to merge all minor considerations in pushing forward the work to its final consummation. In many places, where moral suasion has been exhausted to induce those engaged in the sale of intoxicating drink to abandon the traffic, but without success, prosecutions have been instituted, and have been successful. With the entire voice of the moral and religious portion of the community on their side, and with the aid of a wise and wholesome law, under the administration of virtuous magistrates, the friends of temperance will certainly accomplish the desire of their hearts. The institutions of benevolence generally are in a prosperous condition; there is an increasing feeling among the members of our churches, favorable to the objects which are pursued by these organizations. The aid which has been asked for the colleges and theological seminaries of the West, has either been already granted, or a favorable response has been given to their requests, which will be carried out in due time. The present and increasing wants of the millions of our countrymen now filling the great valley of the Mississippi, produce a strong feeling in the hearts of Christians in this section of the land, and we trust will lead them to contribute of their abundance to give them the bread of life; to furnish them with an evangelical ministry; to establish and succor those institutions which have made our own New England the glory of all lands. They need this aid to make them the joy of many generations;—without it the Man of Sin will take possession of this fair and rich portion of our land, and will hold it in his own grasp, to the unspeakable detriment of our own republican institutions and the interests of protestant religion.

The monthly concert of prayer is observed in all our churches, and awakens increasing interest in the cause of missions. In most of our churches, the Sabbath school is kept up during the year, where it is practicable. The churches are fully sensible that those plants must be nourished here, which are to make glad the city of our God. The Sabbath is better regarded in many sections of our State than it was a year ago. The transportation of the mail upon our Western Rail-Road has been discontinued, and the fact ought to cheer us on to make further efforts to induce our rulers to forego the desecration of that holy day by any national acts. The cause of the slave is striking a deeper cord every day, in the heart of the Christian and the philanthropist, and producing a feeling which will ere long absorb every selfish interest, and lead to his emancipation.

The churches of this body have not been able to bring up a report of so many revivals within their bounds as they reported at the last meeting. Nevertheless, God has not in this respect forsaken his heritage. He has granted special showers of grace to several churches in our connection, which we must notice more briefly than would be gratifying to the feelings of Christians.

In Hampden West Association, the churches in Tolland, East Granville, Feeding Hills, and Agawam (in West Springfield,) have experienced seasons of refreshing, and a considerable number have been gathered into the fold of Christ.

In Hampden East Association, the three congregational churches in the centre of Springfield have been favored with a pleasing revival during the early part of the last winter. Also the churches in Longmeadow have witnessed a more than common interest, and a considerable number have been converted. These revivals were characterized by great order and stillness. They were the result of the regular dispensation of the word by the stated pastors, with the steady co-operation of the members of their churches.

Franklin Association report that 248 members were added to their twenty-five churches in 1843. These were a part of the fruits of the revivals with which their churches were favored. The deleterious influence produced by those who maintained that the second advent of Christ was to happen in 1843, is said to be passing away; though some, it is to be feared, are now asking, by way of contempt, "Where is the promise of his coming?" and are hardening their hearts against his claims to their obedience.

Worcester North Association has eleven churches, and seven pastors have been dismissed within four years. This indicates a state of instability greatly to be deplored, and the result, it is believed, is mainly to be traced to the dissemination of the sentiments of those who maintained that Christ was to appear immediately. We might naturally suppose that those who believed in that sentiment would be steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, and that they would rejoice to leave the world in the unity of the Spirit, and in the bonds of peace, and not endeavor to sow discord among brethren.

Middlesex Union Association report that 150 have been added to their churches during the year 1843; that their churches are quiet and walk orderly, though four vacancies have occurred during the year. The vacant churches manifest a strong attachment for the institutions of the gospel, and it is presumed they will soon be supplied with stated pastors.

Woburn Association reports no general revivals within their bounds. They are enjoying great spiritual prosperity; the churches are harmonious, and are carrying out the great principles of the gospel in a vigorous and happy manner. The first church in Woburn has been often blessed by the divine Spirit, and a few souls have been gathered in during the past year.

The churches in the Brewster and Vineyard Sound Associations have been thoroughly sifted by the efforts of errorists; but they appear generally to have stood the shock, and to have gained strength in the conflict. The churches are now in a good condition and are moving forward in order and harmony. They have experienced the truth of the promise, "I will sift the house of Israel as corn is sifted in a sieve, but not one grain shall fall to the earth."

From the delegates of other States in fraternal connection with this Association, we have encouraging reports touching the general prosperity of the churches within their bounds. They are much of the same general character as the reports from our own Commonwealth.

The General Association of New Hampshire report, that they have in their connection 168 Congregational and six or eight Presbyterian churches. These churches contain 21,580 members. The churches not included in the last return would probably increase the number to 22,000. The number of stated pastors is 150, and thirty employed as stated supplies. The influence of the New Hampshire Missionary Society has been most salutary in raising and sustaining churches, which without their aid must have presented nothing but a moral waste. Several of these feeble churches have been favored with revivals, and have increased more rapidly than older and established churches. The additions to the whole churches in the state in the year previous to the last returns, was 1,800, of whom 449, equal to one fourth of the whole, were made to the churches aided by the Missionary Society, while their numbers previous to the addition was less than one eighth. The churches have not been blessed during the past year with any copious showers of divine grace, but considerable accessions have been made to the churches in different sections of the State. The influences of a pernicious character which have been directed against the peace and prosperity of the churches, by errorists of various descriptions, have not resulted as these errorists expected, and the churches on the whole are in a prosperous condition, and are prosecuting the work which their divine Master has given them to do, with commendable zeal. All the benevolent institutions are patronized by the members of the churches. Temperance has taken a strong hold of the affections of Christians, and the use of alcoholic drinks is fast passing away.

The General Convention of Vermont state that there are connected with that body twelve Associations, 201 churches, ninety-four settled pastors, sixty-one stated supplies, forty-one destitute churches, forty-four ministers who have no pastoral charges, but who are mostly engaged in useful employments: whole number of members 21,193; added during the last year 605 by profession, 384 by letter. No general or extensive revivals have been experienced by any of the churches. The cause of temperance is on the advance, and the benevolent associations of the day are cherished by the churches.

From the General Conference of Maine an interesting verbal report was made, but no statistics of the churches furnished. The churches are not troubled with any pernicious errors, but are moving on harmoniously in the work of the Lord, and are enjoying the happy fruits of revivals in former years. The churches in Maine have great efficiency, and have taken a high stand in reference to those subjects which interest all the evangelical churches of our country. Bowdoin College and the Theological Seminary at Bangor are in a flourishing condition.

Information of the same general interest as above mentioned was received from the Evangelical Consociation of Rhode Island. The political troubles which agitated their State have subsided, and the churches are harmonious, and the members are kindly affectioned towards one another. The University at Providence is flourishing. Pure religion is evidently on the advance in the churches connected with the Consociation, and Congregational principles are gaining among the people at large.

The General Association of Connecticut report that they have in their connection thirteen District Associations, in which are 250 churches, 211 pastors and stated supplies, and a sufficient number of unsettled ministers to supply the vacant churches. There have been no general or extensive revivals during the last year in any of the churches, though some mercy drops have fallen upon several churches. An interesting work of grace has been experienced in Yale College in March and April, and twenty or more have been converted to the Lord.

From the Association of Congregational Ministers in the State of New York, we learn that a favorable impulse has been given to the cause of Congregational church polity within their limits, and that although their churches are few and feeble when compared with the great Presbyterian denomination, yet they are gradually extending their interests in a kind and quiet manner. Many of the descendants of the Pilgrims, who have settled in Northern and Western New York are disposed to cherish the sentiments of church order, under which their fathers lived, believing that they are more conformed to the simplicity of apostolic times.

In view of those statements, on which this brief narrative is given, the churches of Massachusetts and those in fraternal connection with this Association have cause to thank God and take courage. The Great Head of the church is evidently doing a great and good work through their instrumentality. They may confidently rely on his continued assistance. It is for his glory they work. For such an object it behooves them to work while the day lasts. Every year closes the period of labor for some faithful servant. Some have entered into their rest since we last met, and others will be called before we shall meet again. The great Master says to all be faithful unto death and I will give you the crown of life.

PASTORAL ADDRESS.

THE General Association of Massachusetts, being once more assembled under the loving kindness of God our Father and our Lord Jesus Christ, tender to the Congregational churches their kind salutations and christian regards. Solicitous as heretofore, for your highest spiritual prosperity, and aware that a calm and settled conviction of mind in regard to denominational preference is essential to that prosperity, we beg leave to call your attention to some of the traits in the Congregational system of our Fathers which render it efficient in the promotion of good.

In this system the voluntary principle has its free and full development. All covenant obligations are voluntary. We do not consider the children of believers whom we dedicate to God by baptism, as members of the Church, in any such sense as to subject them to discipline or censure until they voluntarily take the vows of God upon them. We censure immorality or unbelief in them, in no other way than that in which we treat the same vices in the children of unbelievers. To one and all we simply apply, as forcibly as we are able, the motives of the Bible, to induce them voluntarily to "subscribe with their hands unto the Lord and surname themselves by the name of Israel." Like the civil state, we leave them free to make their own election, either in placing themselves under the institutions of their fathers, or in forming new relations. We take them not by guile, in infancy, and introduce them to a state religion, an established church, and then, if they depart from her standards, thunder forth an excommunication against them.

According to this system, the formation of a church is the voluntary act of a competent number of believers. Whenever, and wherever, such a number of believers is found, it is their privilege and their duty to form themselves into a visible church, and to have all the rights, and exercise all the functions necessary to their highest perfection and their perpetuity. This seems to have been the primitive practice. In no other way can we account for the formation of many of the first churches, as the church at Rome, and at many other places.

The voluntary principle is fully recognized in the election and appointment of Pastors or Bishops. Without the voice of believers, expressed in a voluntary election, the Apostles would not institute even a deacon to take charge of matters temporal; how certain it is then that there was no other way for the institution of a Bishop or Pastor. In primitive times, there never was, there never could be, a Bishop without a church, without the voluntary act of a church to give him being. Such is God's condescension, and such his determination to take away all excuse for impenitence, that he calls upon men to choose the Ambassador whom he shall send to them on the great concern of reconciliation. This throws the greatest number possible of every community under a religious teacher of their own choice; an arrangement conducive in the highest degree to the edification of the people.

The alliance between a christian church and a Parish among us, is altogether voluntary; a circumstance tending greatly to promote christian courtesy and kindness between the parties, and to prepare the minds of unbelievers, in the best possible way, to feel the influence of christian effort and example. Such a preparation for revivals of religion seems to us to have originated with him who would have all men to be saved and come to the knowledge of the truth.

The pecuniary support afforded to a Minister is based on the voluntary principle. With few exceptions, in which our churches and parishes have funds, furnished by the generosity of our fathers, nothing reaches the hand of a minister to procure bread for himself and his children, but what has come warm from the hand of a voluntary parishioner. This voluntary principle prevails in the location, erection, and repairs of houses of worship, and of every thing pertaining to the institutions of the gospel.

One of the pre-eminently good effects of this voluntary principle is its tendency to secure the highest degree of brotherly love. The Congregational Church is best defined as a visible manifestation of this love. It simply shews that a certain number of human beings think, believe, and feel alike, on the subject of the religion of the gospel, and this evinces their love of truth, an agreement in the truth being the band that holds them together. Congregationalism is a machine which cannot be constructed or moved or continued, without brotherly love. When this spirit is gone, it becomes a dead carcass, and our fathers had no plan to prevent its early sepulture. We aim not to bind together the elements of a moral tempest. This may explain the fact, that no where on earth, is there found so much of the spirit of brotherly affection as in the Congregational churches.

This voluntary principle is adapted to raise and sustain a high standard of excellence in the Ministry. According to this system every minister must sustain himself in the estimation of a church and parish, by his virtues, his piety, his abilities, his learning, his industry; the influence he exerts; or he must fall. Such a system has no place for idle ministers or for wicked ones, none for sinecures or for absenters, none for the proud and domineering, or for the vacillating and cowardly. Its ministers must of necessity be independent men. They have the good opinion of their people to make them so. They have, therefore, less of the fear of man before them than they could have in any other circumstances. Any wise man would set a higher value on the good will of a respectable church and society, as a basis which should enable him to stand firm in rebuking vice and error, than for the salary of the Bishop of London, paid by the king. As a matter of fact, the consciences of wicked men are not so faithfully dealt with by the ministry in any part of the earth as in the Congregational churches of New England. The reason is that the ministers are the friends of the people, and the people the friends of the ministers; and faithful are the wounds of a friend. On the subject of the tendency of Congregationalism to raise and sustain an efficient ministry, the institutions of Harvard and Yale, and Andover, with their younger sisters, and the noble band of truth-bearing successors to the Apostles whom they have sent forth, are living epistles, known and read of all men. Such are the outworkings of the voluntary system, in its influence on the ministry.

The system is not less beneficial in its tendency to raise up intelligent members of the churches. No one, according to our views and principles, becomes a true believer without the vigorous exercise of his reasoning powers. A mere traditional or historical faith is estimated as of little value. That the church holds this or that to be true is no sufficient reason for his believing it. Every one is required to give a reason, and an intelligent one, for his belief in the being of God, in the inspiration of the Scriptures, and in the several doctrines held by the churches. Taking nothing for granted, he is required to plant himself on a basis of evidence on which he can stand alone, unseduced amid the horrors of surrounding apostacy. Until this point is secured we do not consider him a Christian on the voluntary principle.

In the same way we treat every man in regard to his experience of the power of godliness. Professing repentance, he is required to give a reason of the hope that is in him, which shall be intelligent and satisfactory. He must learn to think for himself, before he can be admitted to a church as a voluntary disciple.

Once admitted to the church, he is called to take part in deliberation and action of the most important character. All matters pertaining to the sanctuary and its worship, to doctrines and practice, to the institution and support of the ministry, the reception and discipline of members, are considered and decided in the body of the whole church. No important question is decided by one man, or by three or five, but only by the church. In her are discussed and decided all important questions respecting the efforts of benevolence for the conversion of the world. It is a school of mutual instruction, in which the wisdom of age and experience are imparted to the junior members, and the feebleness of age is strengthened by the ardor and vigor of the young. In regard to the general intelligence of church-members the Congregational system, not only yields to none other, but justly challenges the admiration of all.

The kind of activity to which the Congregational Church calls her members evinces the wisdom and energy of the system. No man is appointed to any service but by the voluntary action of the church, and no man engages in any service in which he is not voluntary. In consequence of these principles, few cases occur, in which a church-member renders himself or his cause ridiculous by attempting to do what he cannot do respectably. This principle prevents the encroachment of one upon the province of another, and rules out to a great extent all unreasonable assumptions and prejudices. The machine goes forward with the least possible amount of friction. And if our brethren are less boisterous in their manner of doing good, and less fluent in words, than some others, they yield to none in solid judgment, and permanent life. Our organization secures the greatest amount of good unbalanced by accomplished evil of any known system, a good which resembles the sober hue of massive gold, rather than the splendid dazzlings of a baser metal. Witness the multiplied institutions for the promotion of learning and benevolence, originated and sustained by the congregational brethren of the New England churches. Congregationalism has never been the nursery of pseudo-prophets, or extravagant dreamers, or apostates.

The Congregational system is to be admired for its security against oppression. It was the first institution in the world which effectually secured the rights of the individual. M. De Tocqueville, in his late work on our country, declares that there is a radical deficiency in the political institutions of America, because we have no defence against the arbitrary decisions of the majority. If this sagacious foreigner had studied the constitution of the Congregational Church, which is the true mother church of the country, he would have discovered in her principles and practice respecting councils, a provision which meets the very case of which he complains. No majority in any church can, in any case, inflict a lasting injury on any individual member; because he has the right and the power to appeal to a body of intelligent ministers and laymen, so far as may be, impartial and unbiassed; like a jury undrilled for the occasion, and in every case of palpable wrong can obtain effectual relief. This tribunal is always at hand and can be easily summoned wherever there are churches.

The Congregational system is admirable in its methods of disposing of offences and promoting peace. If a whole church, with or without a Pastor, becomes corrupt in doctrine or practice, the voluntary action of Congregationalists, in letting them alone, is the true scriptural remedy, and the only one that is effectual. Simply to withdraw is the only penalty sanctioned by the Savior, and the only one which never fails in efficiency; because it never awakens sympathy towards the wrong-doer. If offences arise with a minister, or between one man and another, the system of our fathers provides for the disposal of the case in the most quiet way possible. Only a very small circle of the churches can be agitated with the case. The whole land, from side to side, was never made to ring with a case of offence in the hands of intelligent Congregationalists. Their system provides for a speedy decision of all cases of difficulty. It leaves not the individual, nor the community, nor the cause of Christ, under protracted affliction, waiting for the decision of large bodies of men. Our advisory tribunals are far more efficient in securing peace than any others; because, being composed of a small number of select individuals, the public see no such infinitesimal subdivision of responsibility, as to leave the impression that they may have acted from indifference, without thorough investigation, or without good and sufficient reasons. Except the decisions of a jury, there are none on earth which stand so firmly as those of Congregational Councils in their advisory results. Imperfections, and liabilities to wrong decision belong to all things human; but it is claimed that fewer of these are found among Congregationalists than among any other Christians.

The system of our fathers encourages a remarkable freedom in the investigation of truth. It is free from any bigotted attachment to forms and standards. It is a fundamental principle with Congregationalists that no human system is perfect. They hold that the gospel is intended to secure improvement. "Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain be brought low, and every rough place shall be made smooth." When digging their deep wells in pursuit of truth, searching for her as for hid treasure, they fear no thundering rebuke from the canons, no withering frown from the rubrics, no hampering of their arms or their souls from the forms or standards. When engaged in controversy, if they are defeated and overcome, still the victory is theirs; because the aim of the system is to remove as much error as possible from themselves and others, and establish as much truth as possible. Their joy in the detection of error in themselves far exceeds the shame of having fallen into it. New England ever has been, and while Congregationalism prevails, ever must be, the land of free inquiry, and unfettered investigation. She has no hope of soon arriving at Hercules' pillars and writing ne plus ultra upon her standards.

The Congregational system is remarkable for the facility with which she can consecrate her energy to the conversion of the world. She enjoys a happy disengagedness from matters non-essential. The great prevalence of the principle of common law, or which is the same thing, of common sense, in her constitution, a principle whose author is our Maker, has delivered her from an insane dependence on forms and statutes. On these she employs not her powers of thought, she exhausts not her religious sensibilities. Her rules are definite, because undefined by statute, and left to the unerring guidance of common law. Her constitution, like every other in church or state, in which common law is the predominant element, is mostly unwritten, and must remain so. Her great effort, that for which she devotes her strength, her time, her tears, her prayers, is to secure the unity of the Spirit in the bonds of peace. She wastes not a tear, sheds not a drop of ink, to secure the unity of forms in the bonds of paper. Except so far as is necessary to stand in self-defence, she is ready to harmonize with all who love our Lord Jesus Christ, in all the work of faith and labor of love. Standing midway between hierarchial domination and fanatical delusion, when she compasses sea and land, it is not to make proselytes to herself, but to save the souls of men from endless perdition.

Dear Brethren—Permit us to exhort you to stand fast in the good old ways of our Puritan Forefathers. The more fully they are examined the more shining do they appear. Let no man take your crown. Be drawn aside neither to the right hand, nor to the left. And remember your high obligations. It is our deep conviction that if Congregationalists fail to be the holiest men in the world, to abound more abundantly in brotherly love, in peace and quietness, in prayerfulness, in spirituality, and in the consecration of talents and property to the salvation of the world, they are of all men the most criminal, and will have the most fearful account to render up at the last day. Put away every feeling of slothfulness, assail with heavenly weapons every sensation of indifference, gird up the loins of your minds, be sober, and watch unto prayer, “ready to distribute, willing to communicate,” and you will need no panegyrists, and can fear no evil from antagonists.

Remarks on the general state of Religion in the Parish.

[ ] It is expected that each member of the particular Associations in Massachusetts will make returns agreeably to this form, to his Association at its meeting, next preceding each annual meeting of the General Association, and that the Delegates from each Association will combine all the returns to his Association into one, to be presented to the General Association, adding up and stating the whole amount in each column, and making the return, in all respects, as complete as possible.

RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

1. The Association, by which the General Association of Massachusetts was originally organized, agreed to admit, and this Association continue to admit, as articles of faith, the doctrines of Christianity, as they are generally expressed in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism; and the above-mentioned doctrines, understood by us to be distinctly those, which from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel, are considered as the basis of our union.

2. This General Association is founded on the principles of Congregationalism, and wholly disclaims ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the churches, or the opinions of individuals. Its object is to promote brotherly harmony and intercourse among the ministers of Christ;—to obtain religious information relative to the state of their churches, and of the christian church in this country, and throughout the world;—and to co-operate with one another, and with other ecclesiastical bodies in the most eligible measures for advancing the cause of truth and holiness.

3. Each District Association in Massachusetts, consenting to the principles of this Union, as stated in the first article, may appoint two delegates annually, to compose this General Association: and it is recommended, that one be appointed, who attended the preceding year.

4. The time of the annual meeting of this Association, shall be on the fourth Tuesday of June, at five o'clock, P. M., at such place, as shall have been duly notified.

5. Seven members, delegated from the particular Associations of Massachusetts, shall be requisite to form a quorum for transacting any business; but for opening and adjourning the meeting, a less number shall be competent.

6. The secretary and the minister of the church, where the Association meet, shall have seats, and act as members; the Associations to which they belong retaining the right to elect their number of Delegates in addition.

7. The minister of the church in the place where the Association meets, or the secretary, may call the Association to order and preside in the meeting until the Association shall be properly organized.

8. The certificates of the delegates present shall be read by the Secretary or by a temporary Scribe, and the Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator, a Scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant Scribe by ballot. The Rules of the Association shall also be read, and the Moderator shall open the business with prayer.

9. At the opening of the session on each subsequent day, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order; direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

10. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, shall be appointed by nomination, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

11. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing, and no motion shall be open to discussion, until it be seconded.

12. The Moderator may speak to points of order, in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject so an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

13. On questions of order, adjournment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, no member shall speak more than once. Nor on any question shall a member speak more than twice, without leave of the Association.

14. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question; viz. Shall the main question be now put.

15. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

16. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members to call him to order.

17. The discussions in the Association, and the whole deportment of the members shall be in accordance with decorum, with due respect to the chair, and with courtesy to each other.

18. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

19. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer by the Moderator, or such other member as he shall appoint.

20. The principles of the connections formed with the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, the General Associations of Connecticut and New Hampshire, the General Convention of Congregational and Presbyterian Ministers in Vermont, and the Evangelical Consociation of Rhode-Island, are, that this General Association, and each ecclesiastical body connected with it, shall annually appoint, each two Delegates to the other, who shall be admitted into each body, to the same right of sitting, debating, and voting with their own members respectively.

21. The principle of the connection formed with the Massachusetts Missionary Society, is, that said Society may annually appoint two delegates to this body, who shall be admitted to equal privileges with the members from the District Associations.

22. Gentlemen, who are admitted as honorary members, shall be allowed full liberty to take part in all deliberations; though they are not considered as entitled to vote; and it is expected they will give notice to the body, if they find it necessary to withdraw previous to the close of the session. The approbation of the Committee of Arrangements shall be obtained, before a gentleman shall be proposed to sit as an honorary member.

23. The Delegates, who the preceding year attended the meetings of foreign bodies, shall, ex officio, have seats as honorary members of the General Association.

24. A Committee of three shall be annually appointed, to submit to the General Association at the next meeting, a Pastoral Address, to excite the attention of ministers and Christians, to faithful discipline in the churches, the instruction of the rising generation, the sanctification of the Sabbath, and other subjects relating to the general interests of religion. The address being approved by the General Association, shall be signed by the Moderator, and printed with the minutes. This Committee shall be chosen from the several Associations in rotation.

25. The Associational Sermon shall be delivered at two o'clock, Thursday, P. M., after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper shall be administered. The narratives given by the Delegates of the several Associations concerning the state of religion and the churches, shall be given on Wednesday afternoon, and shall be presented in writing, with a view to obtain an accurate account of the principal facts, not however to prevent any more particular details which the Delegates may think expedient to add, or the Association to request. The returns, with respect to the number in the churches, etc., shall be made out according to a printed schedule of this body, and according to the numbers on the first of January past.

26. A Committee shall be appointed to receive the narratives and statements, and shall condense them into one narrative, to be submitted to the General Association and published. The written narratives shall be deposited with the Secretary.

27. A Committee shall be appointed to nominate Delegates to foreign bodies, which delegates shall, as far as practicable, be selected from the District Associations in rotation. The brethren chosen substitutes in the delegations to the several bodies in our connection, shall, at our next session be considered as Delegates to the respective bodies, if they shall not previously have taken their seats there, through the failure of their principals.

28. The Secretary shall be chosen for three years, from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made. He shall, ex officio, be the Treasurer of the General Association; and shall be allowed his own travelling expenses in attending the meetings of this Association. A Committee shall be appointed annually, to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the members of the several Associations connected with this body. The Secretary shall be authorized to pay such expenses as are allowed by this Association.

29. It shall be the duty of the Delegates of the District Associations, to pay the amount of the Assessments due from their respective Associations for the past year, whether collected by them or not.

30. A Publishing Committee shall be annually appointed, to make such extracts from the minutes of the meeting, as in their judgment it will be proper to publish; procure to be printed such number of copies with the Pastoral Address and Narrative of the State of Religion, as will give one copy to each minister of the Associations represented in this body; and such a number of copies for other bodies connected with this Association, as shall be mutually agreed upon. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to receive the publications from foreign bodies, and distribute them among the several Associations, in proportion to the tax paid by them respectively. One copy of each publication, received by the General Association, or printed by its order, shall be kept in the archives.

31. An Agent shall be appointed in Boston to transmit the Extracts of the Minutes of this General Association to other ecclesiastical bodies, and to receive their Extracts or other publications, and transmit them to the several District Associations represented in this body. And notice of his appointment and place of business, shall be inserted in the printed Extracts. He shall be entitled to a suitable compensation.

32. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to communicate proper information to the Agent in Boston, and to the Publishing Committee, for their direction.

33. Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and request some District Association to appoint a preacher to deliver the Associational Sermon. And the church of the place of meeting is desired to make preparations to celebrate the Lord's Supper during the session.

34. A Vote or Resolve to establish, alter, or annul a standing rule of this body, shall be read twice on different days, and may be debated at each reading. At the first reading the question shall be, Shall it be read the second time?

BY-LAWS.

1. An annual sermon shall be preached before the Association, on the subject of Home Missions, and a collection taken. The preacher shall be appointed by this body.

2. No report of the state of religion shall be read in public, unless it be approved by the Association from which it comes, or by the Committee of Arrangements of the General Association.

3. It is recommended to the several District Associations, to have their narratives on the state of religion, condensed, so as not to exceed five minutes in the time of reading.

4. The printed Minutes of this Association, shall be sufficient testimonials of the appointment of Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

5. It shall be the duty of those Delegates who attend the meetings of Foreign Bodies, whether they be Primaries or Substitutes, to certify the Secretary in writing, on or before the opening of the annual meeting next after his appointment.

6. The Minutes of this Association shall be sent to the individual members of the Associations connected with this body by mail, and the Chairman of the Committee of Publication, shall furnish a list of the names required to the Agents of the Association.

7. The Minutes of this body, forwarded to the General Association of Connecticut, shall be, according to their request, sent by mail, under the direction of the Publishing Committee.

8. The names of all the members of the Associations belonging to this body, whether with or without charge, shall be inserted in the published returns.

9. Every church without a pastor, by paying twenty-five cents, annually, to the Treasurer of the General Association, through the Treasurer of the local Association, with which said church is connected, shall be entitled to receive the Minutes of the General Association, to be forwarded in the same way as minutes are forwarded to members of the Association.

TOWNSEND'S BIBLE—Price reduced to $5.

CROCKER AND BREWSTER, 47 Washington-st., Boston,

In order to meet the wishes of the Clergy, and to induce Students, Teachers, and others to become possessors of this valuable work, have just published, from the Stereotype Plates, in two volumes royal octavo, containing upwards of 2,000 pages, a new and handsome edition,

At the Reduced Price of Five Dollars in Boards.

C. and B. would particularly call the attention of Clergymen, Students, Bible Class Teachers, and others, to the title and critical notices of the work, which follow.

THE HOLY BIBLE, arranged in Historical and Chronological order; (on the basis of Lightfoot's Chronicle;) in such a manner that the Books, Chapters, Psalms, Prophecies, etc. etc., may be read as one connected History, in the words of the authorized translations:—The Gospels on the basis of the Harmonies of Lightfoot, Doddridge, Pilkington, Newcome, and Michaelis;—The Account of the Resurrection, on the authorities of West, Townson, and Cranfield. The Epistles are inserted in their places, and divided according to the Apostles' arguments. With copious Notes on the principal subjects in Theology, and Indexes. By the Rev. GEORGE TOWNSEND, A. M., Prebendary of Durham, and Vicar of Northallerton. Revised, punctuated, divided into paragraphs and parallelisms, italic words re-examined, a choice and copious selection of references given, etc., by the Rev. T. W. Coit, D. D., late President of Transylvania University.

☞ The present work must be considered as a valuable accession to the stores of biblical literature. It has taken a permanent station among the most useful publications of recent years—Eclectic Review.

☞ We cannot but regard this as one of the richest contributions to the cause of theological literature ever made by the American press. It brings a vast amount of invaluable criticism within the reach of the mere English reader; and assists him in comprehending the scope and aim of the several inspired writers, while it removes the obscurity that rests on many isolated passages, and elucidates the harmony and connection of the various parts of the sacred volume.—Boston Recorder.

☞ On the whole, we regard Townsend's Arrangement of the Bible, as one of the most important and useful publications, which we have been invited to examine. We commend it to our readers, of every class—to ministers, to the conductors of Bible Classes, and to the families that call on the name of the Lord. It is the Bible its own interpreter.—Biblical Repository.

The Publishers have numerous other notices, besides letters, highly recommending the work. Among the letters are those of Benj. T. Onderdonk, Bishop of New York, G. W. Doane, Bishop of New Jersey, Rev. Rufus Anderson, and Rev. David Greene, Secretaries of the A. B. C. F. M., Rev. Drs. Patton, Peters, Skinner, and Cox, of New York, Rev. Dr. Jenks, and Rev. Messrs. Aiken, Towne, and Lord, of Boston.

SCOTT'S FAMILY BIBLE—in 6 Vols. Royal Octavo.

Containing all the Notes, Practical Observations, Marginal References, and Critical Remarks, as in the most approved London Edition, with a Line Engraved Likeness of the Author, Family Record, etc.

At $12 bound in Sheep, and at $16 in Calf or Russia.

Worcester's Watts and Select Hymns—New Edition.

DR. WORCESTER'S EDITION OF WATTS' PSALMS, HYMNS, AND SPIRITUAL SONGS, with Four Hundred and Seventy-Four SELECT HYMNS from other Authors, and Thirty OCCASIONAL PIECES. This edition was enlarged, the Key of Musical Expression revised, and the Index of Subjects and Scriptures, and Table of First Lines, greatly improved, by SAMUEL M. WORCESTER, A. M., Pastor of the Tabernacle Church, Salem, Ms. It is stereotyped in the 32mo., Pocket size,—18mo., Common Size,—and 12mo., Large size. This last size is on large type, and particularly desirable for the Pulpit and aged people. The several editions can be had in extra bindings.

☞ Those who are thinking of a new book of Psalmody, may be interested to know, that hundreds of clergymen and laymen have expressed their decided preference of "Watts and Select Hymns," as now published, to any other work of the kind;—as combining, on the whole, the most of what is desirable, with the least of what is doubtful or objectionable.—The following are examples of such expressions of opinion, and the names of many of our most distinguished clergymen and others, who cordially concur in them, might be added.

☞ The selection in Worcester is sufficiently ample and various, in subjects and metres, to meet the wants of a worshipping assembly; is replete with evangelical sentiments; is in accordance with the objects of benevolence pursued in this age; and is fitted to the various states of mind in which the christian desires to pour forth his feelings to God.—Rev. Dr. Barnes, Philadelphia.

☞ I have no hesitation in declaring, that I decidedly prefer "Watts and Select Hymns" to any other book that I have ever seen. I sincerely wish that Watts and Select Hymns were used in all the churches of our country.—Rev. Dr. Spencer, Brooklyn, N. Y.

☞ I have always used Worcester's Watts and Select Hymns in public worship, and with increasing satisfaction.—Rev. Nehemiah Adams, Boston.

☞ In no circumstances can I hesitate a moment, to express frankly the opinion deliberately formed, that there is not now extant, nor likely soon to be, a compilation of sacred hymns, so happily adapted to all the purposes of hallowing social devotion as "Worcester's Watts."—Rev. Dr. Storrs, Braintree, Mass.

Wednesday morning, 8 o'clock. Met according to adjournment. The roll having been called the meeting was opened with prayer by the Moderator.

The Committee of Arrangements reported in part.

A Committee to prepare the Narrative of the State of Religion was appointed, consisting of Messrs. E. Sanford, Ellingwood, E. P. Humphrey, Sweetser, and Robinson.

The Committee on Elections reported, that the request from the Congregational Union of Eastern Canada to open a correspondence with this Body be granted, and that Rev. T. Atkinson be received as the delegate from that Body. The report was accepted.

The Committee of Arrangements recommended that Rev. Dr. Humphrey be invited to sit with us as an honorary member, which was adopted.

The Committee to whom was referred, last year, the subject of Pastors' Bible Classes, reported—That they deem it inexpedient to take any special action on the subject at present.

A communication was received from Dr. Edwards, accompanied by a quantity of the Reports of the American and Foreign Sabbath Union.

A communication was received from the Presbyterian and Congregational Convention of Wisconsin, requesting fraternal correspondence.

The Committee to whom was referred, last year, certain questions relative to Ecclesiastical Councils, reported that—Inasmuch as a Manual of Discipline, embracing the subject committed, has been laid before the several District Associations, it is not expedient for them to investigate the subject. The report was adopted.

Messrs. Snell, Rogers, and Bushnell were appointed a Committee to designate the place for holding the next meeting.

Messrs. Putnam, Dana, and W. A. Stearns were appointed a Committee to nominate a second preacher before the Home Missionary Society.

Communications were received from the Mendon and several other Associations, on the subject of American Slavery.

Voted, That the whole subject be referred to a Committee. Messrs. Cooley, Rogers, Sweetser, D. Sanford, and Bisbee were appointed on that Committee.

The Pastoral Address, read by Rev. Mr. Putnam, was adopted, and referred to the Publishing Committee, to be printed with the Minutes.

The Committee to nominate Delegates to Foreign Bodies made the following report, which was adopted:—

Rev. Wm. M. Rogers.

Rev. W. A. Stearns called the attention of the Association to the Hymn Book prepared and published under the direction of the General Association of Connecticut, and presented four copies of said book given by that Body, whereupon, Resolved 1, That the thanks of this Body be presented to the General Association of Connecticut, for four copies of the Psalms and Hymns prepared under their direction.

Resolved 2, That a Committee of five be appointed to examine the book sanctioned by the Connecticut brethren in connection with the books now in use in the churches, and report to this Body next year, what measures it is desirable and possible to adopt for the improvement of our Church Psalmody.

Voted, That the books be placed in the hands of a Committee for examination.

Voted, That H. Humphrey, D. D., Prof. Park, D. D., J. Todd, N. Adams, and W. A. Stearns be that Committee.

S. C. Jackson, Prof. Emerson, and A. Blanchard, of the Andover Association, were appointed to prepare the next Pastoral Address.

The Committee on the slavery question submitted the following Report :

The General Association of Massachusetts, having often and earnestly expressed their abhorrence of slavery, grieving that the system yet exists and is sustained by some Christians and Ecclesiastical Bodies as authorized by the Word of God, do solemnly re-affirm their faith ; that the Word of God is utterly opposed to slavery as it exists in these United States, and that as far as the Bible obtains the ascendancy in the conscience and heart of Christians, and of the Church, such Christians must and will separate themselves from all responsible connection with the system, and in the spirit of fraternal fidelity we would earnestly beseech all Christians and Ecclesiastical Bodies connected with that system, to be living examples of the Gospel, and in the light of God's truth carefully to review their opinions and practice, and to do their utmost to free the Church of Christ from the pollution of this guilt.

Resolved, That this expression of opinion be entered on the Minutes of the General Association, and that the Secretary be directed to transmit a copy of it to the several Ecclesiastical Bodies with which we are in correspondence.

After some debate, and the moving of the previous question, the report and resolve were unanimously adopted.

Messrs. Davis, Aiken and Towne were appointed the Publishing Committee.

In compliance with a request presented by the Suffolk North Association, the following resolution was adopted :

Resolved, That a Committee be appointed to consider and report at the next meeting of this Body, what shall be done to secure a due commemoration of the Bi-Centennial of the meeting of the Synod which completed the Cambridge Platform.

Adjourned.

Wednesday, P. M. At two o'clock, the Association met according to adjournment. Prayer was offered by Rev. E. P. Humphrey. The afternoon was taken up in attending to the narratives of the state of religion, in the District Associations and in other parts of the country.

In the evening, a Sermon on the subject of Home Missions, was delivered by Rev. J. W. Ward, from 1 Timothy v : 8, and a collection taken amounting to $26,60.

Adjourned.

Thursday, A. M. The Association met at eight o'clock. The roll was called and prayer offered by the Moderator.

Rev. J. A. Albro was appointed second preacher before the Mass. Home Missionary Society.

Rev. Messrs. J. A. Albro, O. Fowler, J. Todd, J. Bates, D. D., and B. B. Edwards, D. D., were appointed a Committee to report, next year, respecting the Bi-Centennial of the meeting of the Synod which completed the Cambridge Platform.

Communications were read from the Worcester North and Suffolk North Associations, requesting this Body to consider the propriety of so far altering their rules as to admit a lay delegation.

Voted, To refer the subject to the following Committee : H. Humphrey, D. D., W. M. Rogers, and J. Fisk, D. D.

A claim was presented for printing a pamphlet on slavery, which was referred to the following Committee : Dr. Bates, Sweetser, Bisbee, Patton, D. Sanford, and Dr. Snell.

Voted, To hear each of the agents of Benevolent Societies ten minutes.

In accordance with this vote, the meeting was addressed by Dr. Storrs for the American Sabbath School Union, J. A. Albro for the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society, N. Porter for the Christian Alliance, E. N. Sawtell for the Foreign Evangelical Society, Gov. Pinney for Colonization, T. Atkinson for Home Missions in Canada East, and T. Baldwin for Western Colleges.

The following resolutions were adopted :

Resolved, That the General Association regard with interest the formation of the Christian Alliance between the various denominations of Christians, the objects of which are to promote religious freedom, and to diffuse useful knowledge among the nations of Italy and other Papal countries, and recommend this Society to the consideration of the ministers and churches of this Commonwealth.

Resolved, That this Body commend anew the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society to the confidence of the churches, as peculiarly adapted, by its principles and its sound religious literature, to promote the best interests of our own Schools, and to open a channel through which to disburse, wisely and efficiently, our charities in the aid of destitute Sabbath Schools at the West.

Resolved, That the General Association submit, by the Secretary, to the District Associations, the following question, requesting an answer at their next annual meeting, viz: Shall the basis of organization of the General Association be so modified as to admit of a lay delegation in this Body, equal to the clerical delegation?

The Committee on the claim for printing the pamphlet on slavery, reported in favor of paying it, which after some discussion was adopted.

Adjourned.

Thursday, P. M. The Association met at quarter past one, according to adjournment.

Resolved, That this Association, in view of the great movements in Papal countries, and the blessing of God that has evidently attended the work of the Foreign Evangelical Society in France and other Papal countries, do recommend this Society to the sympathies, the prayers, and charities of the churches within our bounds.

Resolved, That the Society for the Promotion of Collegiate and Theological Education at the West, has our cordial approbation, as wisely adapted to the great end which it has in view, and we therefore recommend it to the pastors and churches, within our bounds, to give it a place in their systematic contributions for the advancement of the kingdom of Christ.

The Auditing Committee reported, that they had examined the accounts of the Treasurer, found them correctly cast, and $6,22 in the Treasury. They recommended a tax of fifty cents on each of the members of the several Associations for the ensuing year.

The Associational Sermon was preached by Rev. C. Rockwell, of Chatham, text Mal. ii: 7.—The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by Dr. Humphrey, and J. Curtiss, of New Hampshire.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Association be presented to Rev. S. S. Smith and his people, for the cordial spirit and Christian hospitality, they have shown to this Body during the present meeting, and also, to the Choir for their very acceptable services; and that the Rev. Mr. Smith be requested to communicate the same.

The following recommendation was then made to the churches:

Deeply pained by the almost entire withdrawal of the converting influences of the Holy Spirit, and fully believing that the arm of the Lord is not shortened that it cannot save, nor his ear heavy that it cannot hear, and that our sins have separated between us and Him, and our iniquities have caused Him to hide his face from us; we hereby recommend to the churches of this Commonwealth, to observe the last Thursday in September next, as a day of humiliation, fasting and prayer.

After singing a hymn, and prayer by Rev. E. Davis, voted to adjourn.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

IN listening to the statements from the twenty-three District Associations in our connection in this Commonwealth, in which are comprised nearly four hundred Congregational Churches, we hear many things which rejoice, and not a few which pain our hearts. From a great proportion of these churches we hear it said that they are enjoying unusual harmony and peace, that though there are lamentable indications of the special divine presence being withdrawn, yet that they have still the light of God's countenance, and are holding fast the doctrines on which Christ's church is founded. We hear the pleasing statement, that in many places where gross error had been propagated, it had soon been discovered, and avoided; that its propagators had been "tried, and found to be destitute of the truth." We are assured, from almost every quarter, that the cause of temperance is gaining strength, that its happy fruits are realized in every path of life. We are told of the happy progress of Sabbath school instruction, of the commendable use of the ancient Assembly's Shorter Catechism, which never yet has been obsolete, and that a desire for a permanence in the pastoral relation has generally been increasing in our churches, the evils of a frequent change of pastors having been too often realized.

We are told, also, that the interest felt in our churches in behalf of Foreign and Domestic Missions, during the past year, has not been less than it has been in any former year; but that their desires, prayers and efforts to extend the gospel in our country, especially in those parts where error and a moral dearth prevails, seems to be on the increase. What has been contributed for the infant churches abroad, and the support of the hundreds of domestic missionaries, shows that the churches are not satisfied with doing only as much as they have done. That a good degree of interest is felt in the monthly concert of prayer in most places, is also encouraging. A decided, earnest and deliberate opposition is manifested against slavery in our land, as being abhorrent to the principles of the gospel, and requiring the united efforts of the whole Christian church for its removal. Various other benevolent movements of the day might here be adverted to, as being in a prosperous state, and advancing the general good of the churches.

In the Berkshire Association of about thirty churches, nearly all of them have settled pastors, and among these churches there is a growing attachment to the pastoral office; and the conviction is gaining ground that the frequent change of ministers has an injurious influence both on pastors and people. No general revivals; yet in one place fifty are reported as hopeful converts of the last year. Williams College is in a prosperous condition, and though no special revival now exists in this "cradle of Foreign Missions," the spirit of a Mills and a Hall still lives within her walls.

Hampshire Association of about eighteen churches, report, that though the past year has been remarkable for the suspension of divine influences, upon them, few isolated cases of hopeful conversion are noticed, sufficient to show that God has not wholly forsaken them. Several churches have been called to the painful but needful duty of discipline, and more excommunications have occurred than usual, and yet that more of this work is to be done to remove hindrances to real piety.

Hampshire East Association of eighteen churches, all of which have settled pastors, has been favored with temporal prosperity. The impression has been increasing among them, that each church and each Christian must be more entirely consecrated to Christ, and the work of spreading the gospel over the world.

Amherst College is represented as being in a prosperous condition. Mt. Holyoke Seminary from the beginning has been prospered and the past year there has been several hopeful conversions among its pupils, though not so many as in former years. In the West church in Amherst, a most pleasing revival commenced last February, in which has been manifested the power of God in subduing a number of hardened and sceptical sinners who had long neglected the means of grace. Fifty or sixty souls give evidence of renewal.

Association of Hampden West, in which are fourteen churches, speak of their enjoying a permanent ministry, one pastor having preached fifty years to the same people, and another has sustained the pastoral relation forty-two years to the same church.

Hampshire East Association, twelve churches, are all supplied with pastors, there having been no changes the past year, and are in a state of general peace and harmony. The aspect of things gives occasion for hope and encouragement.

Franklin Association of twenty-five churches, has eleven aided by the Home Missionary Society, in all of which the state of religion the past year has been low, nineteen of these churches having no known instance of hopeful conversion, and the others giving hope of at least eighteen cases of conversion. Had an equal amount of means been employed in some heathen land with no greater apparent success, would it not be a matter both of grief and surprise.

Brookfield Association report, that few additions have been made to their churches, while in most of them there have been removals by dismission, or death, or excommunication, so that the alarming fact appears, that the number of communicants is less than in the preceding year.

In Harmony Association of fifteen pastors of as many churches, fifteen have been added by profession of their faith the past year and fifty-two by letter from sister churches. During the same time, thirty have been dismissed to other churches, and five excommunicated.

In Worcester Central Association of nineteen churches, with eighteen pastors, there has been nothing marked in the condition of the churches. The removals by various causes have exceeded the admissions by fifty-six persons. They have the ordinary but rich blessings of the means of grace, without the greater blessings of the presence of God's converting spirit.

In Worcester North Association, similar indications of much good and some evil are reported. While the word has been preached with the same fulness, earnestness and pungency, but in only a few instances has it proved as the fire and the hammer that breaketh the flinty rock.

In Mendon Association of eleven churches, additions have been made to all except one the past year, yet the number of the members is not increased, owing to removals by death and other means.

In Middlesex Union Association, two new houses of worship have been erected. The churches, eighteen in number, thankfully acknowledge the presence of the Holy Spirit in maintaining them in the love of the truth, and steadfast adherence to it, and in the regular peaceful enjoyment of the means of grace. In Lancaster, the special blessing of God has been manifested, last winter, in awakening Christians to a higher sense of their duty, and also in converting sinners. Thus a church that had been much reduced is enlarged.

Middlesex South Association report, that no church with them has enjoyed any special, but only the ordinary influences of the Holy Spirit, while the usual amount of labor has been performed, and of truth dispensed. They feel that the want of success is their own fault. But the Spirit of God seems to be hovering over them, and the little cloud in the horizon betokens the coming shower. But they state the melancholy fact that removals exceed, by almost one third, the admissions during the year.

Woburn Association of eleven churches, speak of great outward prosperity, of being strengthened in the principles and doctrines of the gospel, and of growing in grace.

In the Andover Association, one congregation only has been blessed with the general outpouring of God's Spirit, in which it is hoped seventy or more were savingly interested. Half this number have united with the South Church in Andover.

Several meeting-houses have been repaired and beautified, one enlarged, and another modernized in style and conveniences. In the City of Lowell, a fourth church has recently been organized.

In Essex South Association of twenty-five churches, embracing nearly 5,000 members, much prosperity continues. All are supplied with regular ministrations of the word, twenty-three of them with pastors.

Other Associations, which it seems unnecessary to designate here particularly, have enjoyed the past year a similar measure of prosperity with those above mentioned. All of them give us cheering proofs of the common blessings of religion, but lament the apathy and lukewarmness existing.

Where pastors have been removed, their places have soon been filled, and the waste places repaired. In East Bridgewater, where their holy and beautiful house was burned with fire, a new, more spacious and elegant one has been harmoniously erected. In New Bedford, a new church edifice is building; while in Taunton, the Spring Street church is offered for sale, and their pastor cannot be sustained.

Thus we have passed round our Zion, glancing at her walls and numbering her palaces.

REPORTS OF FOREIGN BODIES.

Connected with the General Association of New Hampshire, are 170 churches, containing 20,957 members. Revivals have been enjoyed in four churches, but the accessions to the church have been small in number, and more have been removed than have been received. The literary institutions are represented as in a flourishing condition, and the general interests of religion prosperous.

The General Convention of Vermont report 201 churches with ninety-six settled ministers and forty-three stated supplies, fifty destitute churches, and forty-one unsettled ministers within their limits. The report says, "More than usual attention has been paid to common schools; our academies are well filled; the two colleges in our State under Congregational influence are both in a flourishing condition." Sabbath school instruction is represented as vigorously carried forward, and the benevolent operations of the church receiving increased regard.

The churches in Maine are united in a General Conference, composed of clerical and lay delegates, which serves as a bond of union and a medium of Christian sympathy throughout that extended State. In connection with that body are 211 churches, 140 pastors and stated supplies, and between eighteen and nineteen thousand members. The churches are enjoying great peace, though there have been a smaller number of revivals than in previous years. The benevolent objects of the day are comparatively well sustained. The academies are in a flourishing condition, and in Bowdoin College there has been an interesting work of divine grace. The Theological Seminary at Bangor, though somewhat embarrassed for want of funds, retains its able instructors with an increased number of students.

By the report of the Delegate from the General Association in Connecticut, we learn that the churches in that State have enjoyed remarkable harmony. There is visible and increasing fondness for sound doctrinal instruction, and the children in the Sabbath school are trained in the Assembly's Catechism. Eight places, among 240 churches, are reported as having been blessed with revivals.

The General Association in New York has been organized eleven years. It includes ten local associations, embracing about one hundred churches. This body is still in a forming state and subjected to many obstacles. The report expresses the hope that they shall henceforth find themselves fixed upon a more stable foundation. There has been a work of grace in Hamilton College, in which several students were renewed.

With the General Association of Michigan are connected from thirty to forty ministers. There are a larger number of Congregational churches, but all are not connected with the Association. Many of these churches are feeble, and are unable to sustain of themselves the ordinances of the gospel. In several places there have been interesting revivals of religion.

The Congregational Union of Canada East reports many encouraging circumstances in respect to the progress of the gospel within its bounds. New churches are organized from time to time, and new and pressing demands are arising for laborers in the work of God. This is the youngest of the sisterhood of churches. She has eighteen ministers, and twenty churches organized within the last fifteen years.

The delegate from the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, recently in session at Cincinnati, reports the number of ordained ministers in that connection to be not less than 1,500, the number of churches not less than 2,000, and the number of communicants about 170,000. The Boards of Education, Domestic Missions, Foreign Missions, and Publication, are in a flourishing condition.

It is evident that the reports come not from the midst of revivals. The pastors, who bring them, have little to say to cheer and gladden the hearts of those who are mourning over the spiritual apathy which so generally prevails among the churches of our Commonwealth and our entire country. None appears to be at all satisfied with the present state of peace and harmony which most of the churches are enjoying.

With great uniformity and interest, the ministers of these churches have testified to the harmony and love existing among them. The Lord Jesus Christ has been smiling on them, in regard to their outward prosperity. But with all this peace, and outward prosperity, is it quite certain, that the churches in our connection are enjoying that spiritual prosperity which is most desirable? The hand of the Lord is to be acknowledged in what is now granted. Because the churches are at peace, are they all advancing in holiness? Is it not to be feared that the opposite is the case, and that some are in the peace of apathy, and settled down upon their lees, while they still appear kind and approve a faithful ministry.

Perhaps there has never been such a report given, as at the present,—of churches walking in order and harmony, many congregations increasing, and yet few revivals, and the deaths and dismissions from churches exceeding the additions. What will become of the churches if they continue in their present and no more prosperous condition? There have been but about ten revivals in the 400 churches of Massachusetts. Such a spiritual consuming drought gives just cause of alarm, lest it should continue. What is more to be deprecated than the withdrawal of the divine influences. While we believe there is a God in heaven, who hears prayer, we may well inquire whether we rely upon his promises, and what, under our present responsibilities, are the duties devolving upon us. We hope that, under these views, another year will prepare very different reports on the state of religion, not only those of peace and love, among the churches, but of souls renewed and sins forgiven.

PASTORAL ADDRESS.

The General Association of Massachusetts to the Churches in their Ecclesiastical connection :—

BELOVED BRETHREN,—

In accordance with one of our standing Rules, you have for many years been addressed by those who have successively constituted our Body, on various subjects relating to your Christian welfare as individuals and as churches. The Rule here referred to, provides for “an annual Pastoral Address to excite the attention of ministers and Christians to faithful discipline in the churches, the instruction of the rising generation, the sanctification of the Sabbath, and other subjects relating to the general interests of religion.”

In addressing you at the present time, we could hardly perform a better service than to call your attention to the excellent Christian counsel, which has been given you by our brethren in former years. Their several addresses embrace a great variety of subjects, which all will acknowledge should be studied and prayed over and acted upon in our churches.

But we are ready to ask, have these pastoral addresses received that practical attention which their importance demands? Have our ministerial brethren from time to time laid them before their respective churches? Have they there been made a subject of prayerful consideration and correspondent action? We would fain cherish the hope that it has been so. But apprehending, that to some extent, it may have been otherwise, we would affectionately and earnestly appeal to our brethren in the ministry and to the churches, on the importance of giving their attention to these and kindred subjects, as they have been presented on former occasions.

In selecting a subject on which to address you, the present year, we have endeavored to look at the actual condition of the churches and congregations in our connection. Our hearts are painfully affected by the solemn consideration that there is still a withholding of those converting and sanctifying influences of the Holy Spirit, which were enjoyed by us a few years since! And in view of this sovereign dealing of the great Head of the Church, we might now proceed to exhort you by deep humiliation and earnest prayer to seek for the return of those Times of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. But this has been repeatedly done by our brethren in former addresses. While, therefore, we would here remind you of what they have said on this subject; and would renewedly urge upon your attention their various and excellent advice also respecting the acquisition of doctrinal knowledge, the observance of Christian ordinances, and the proper training of children and youth,—we would now call your attention to a view of Christian duty, still more practical and personal,—which is, The cultivation of the Christian graces and the practice of the Christian virtues. We would, with all earnestness and prayer, entreat you to consider that true, practical religion is indispensably and equally necessary in our churches, on the one hand, to show that the members have a true title to acceptance with God, and on the other, to honor the gospel of his Son Jesus Christ.

The benevolent design of God, in the religion he has given our world, is to “Purify to himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works,”—to prepare men for heaven by making them holy. No careful reader of the Bible can fail of believing this: and yet some, who really believe it, fall into the error of supposing that because final sanctification is certainly connected with true conversion to God, therefore there needs be but little concern about the Christian’s progress in holiness. They are guilty of a practical perversion of the truth, that if the tree is good, the fruit will be good also: and even, sometimes, venture to sin, that grace may abound.

It is painful to reflect that there is this antinomian tendency in the human mind, even when enlightened by Christian truth. And this reflection becomes still more painful when it is discoverable in a mind, that has begun to feel the power of sanctifying grace. We would not say, that there is any special evidence of such a tendency in our churches at the present time. But the evil in question is one, which we well know has always been found more or less in connection with a belief of the true doctrines of grace. It is an evil which we think should be guarded against in our churches with much jealous care. Sure we are, that we follow apostolic example, when we "affirm, that they which have believed in God might be careful to maintain good works."

But, before proceeding any further in our address, we would enter our protest against any suspicion, that we are placing too low an estimate either on a belief of the truth, or on the form of church polity, which we have adopted, or on the practical discipline it enjoins. Never were we more ready to assert our belief in that great system of evangelical truth which is contained in the Assembly's Catechism and which is the basis of our ministerial union. Never had we a stronger conviction, that the Congregational form of church government is in strict accordance with the mind of our Saviour and with the teaching and practice of his apostles; and never were we more sensible of the importance of maintaining its discipline. But, at the same time, we feel that we should fail in faithfulness to our divine Master, if we did not, as individual ministers of his gospel, and in our associate capacity, to the utmost extent of our power, urge upon the churches the paramount importance of personal holiness.

The religion which we profess contemplates the object of bringing men into conformity to the law and will of God, not only by a belief of the truths of his word, but also by a practical regard for its precepts. If we would be the true disciples of Christ, there must be in our hearts a constant growth of the Christian graces and in our lives a diligent practice of the Christian virtues. What these points of Christian excellence are, we can easily discover by studying the inspired word, where they are inculcated. We cannot open that record of the divine mind without at once perceiving, that God there appeals to us on the importance of humility, meekness, gentleness, patience, peace, brotherly kindness, charity, forgiveness of injuries, submission to his will, and many other congenial affections of the heart—and that he there also appeals to us on the necessity of truth, justice, temperance, purity, and other like positive, practical duties.

It is by a harmonious and happy combination of such Christian excellencies in the temper and life of a professed follower of Jesus Christ, that he is required to manifest the genuineness of his faith.

You see, then, brethren, with what propriety we can appeal to you on the importance of practical religion. We do, therefore, make the appeal and urge it by the following considerations.

1. In the first place, no one, even though he be a professor of religion, has any just ground for hoping that he is a real Christian, unless the temper of his mind and the practice of his life unite in showing forth the peaceable fruits of righteousness. What commends itself to our reason on this point is expressly taught in the Scriptures. Our Saviour has himself laid down the principle, which will govern his decision on the final destiny of every one of his professed disciples. His words are never to be forgotten;—"Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. Many will say unto me in that day, 'Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils; and in thy name have done many wonderful works?' And then will I profess unto them, 'I never knew you; depart from me ye that work iniquity.'"

This solemn declaration is in strict accordance with the various other teachings of the Scriptures on the subject. They show us, that men may go very far in the things of religion and yet fail of being true Christians;—that they may believe the doctrines of the gospel, may give affecting accounts of their Christian experience, may publicly profess the name of Christ, may even show great zeal in his cause, and yet after all prove to be mere hypocrites,—never having from the heart done the will of God, but having been secretly workers of iniquity.

There is something fearful in this view of moral delinquency; and those, who have named the name of Christ, may well be alarmed at the thought, that such delinquency may be found in them at the great day. It ought to stir in them the inquiry, 'Whether they are doers of the word, or hearers only, deceiving themselves?'

2. A second consideration, closely connected with that already mentioned, to show the importance of practical religion, is seen in the fact, that it is inculcated with great frequency and earnestness by the inspired writers.

How striking is the current language of scripture on this subject. "What doth the Lord, thy God, require of thee, saith the prophet, but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" A great portion of our Saviour's Sermon on the Mount is employed in enforcing the practical precepts of religion. He prefaces the whole of it by pronouncing a blessing on the poor in spirit, the meek, those who hunger and thirst after righteousness, the merciful, the peacemakers, and others of a like temper of mind. He lays down that great rule of conduct so applicable to all men in their various dealings and intercourse with one another. "All things whatsoever ye would, that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets."

The apostles, in their writings, go on with earnest exhortations to the same effect. Paul closes his Epistle to the Philippians by enjoining upon them a regard for whatsoever things are true, or honest, or just, or lovely, or pure, or of good report. How eloquently does he inculcate upon the Corinthian believers the grace of Christian charity. To the Galatians he says, "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance." Most earnestly does he exhort Timothy to follow his example in teaching and practicing the same things. So also do Peter, James and John urge upon the attention of those to whom they wrote like practical views of religion.

It is unnecessary to make further special references to the testimony of the inspired writers: and these are made as mere specimens of the manner in which they treat the subject of practical piety. Not that they ever undervalue the importance of a belief of the great doctrines of religion or a due observance of its ordinances and institutions. Far from this. But when they come to touch upon its practical duties they descend to great particularity and manifest great earnestness. Nor is it to be forgotten, with what solemnity they warn the professed followers of Christ against those sins, which stand opposed to the spirit and precepts of his gospel.

You see then, brethren, in the plain, current language of the Scriptures, a strong consideration in favor of practical religion.

3. But we wish you to consider again, that a practical regard for the spirit and duties of Christianity is essentially necessary to promote and secure the prosperity of our churches.

We are aware, that some may say, what we need above all things is, the out-pouring of the Spirit. True, brethren, that is what we greatly need; and it cannot but be the heart's desire of every true Christian and his prayer to God, that he would "revive us again." But the question arises, How can we be instrumental in obtaining that blessing from the great Head of the Church? Not merely by contending for the faith once delivered to the saints; nor by pleading with God, however earnestly, in prayer. These things must be done; but there are others, that must not be left undone. We refer to a cherishing of the Christian graces and a practising of the Christian virtues, extensively and uniformly, throughout our churches. And if any one asks, how this is calculated to promote a revival of religion and secure the ultimate prosperity of our churches, We answer: it is our firm persuasion, that without such a prevalence of pure and undefiled religion, our faith and our prayers will avail but little for our spiritual welfare. We believe, that where there is not deep pious feeling in the heart, and correspondent conformity to the law of God in the life, there is not a true preparation for that prayer and that effort, to which God has promised the blessing of his Spirit. It is as true of our churches, as a body, as it is of ourselves individually, that 'if we regard iniquity in our heart the Lord will not hear us.'

Those of us who are ministers, while in rightly dividing the word of truth we do not neglect that preaching which is doctrinal and experimental, must also urge home upon our hearers the necessity of Christian holiness. We must not conclude, merely because we preach the great doctrines of the gospel, that our people will carry them out into the practice of their lives. It is necessary for us to dwell often and with earnestness on whatsoever things are true, or honest, or just, or pure, or lovely, or of good report. We must set forth the moral excellence of righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness; and thus show our hearers, what are the glorious fruits of the Spirit, in contrast with the dark and appalling works of the flesh. Our churches, too, must be willing to hear us, when we thus urge them to be "doers of the word." They must not consider our discourses legal and uninteresting, because they are didactic and practical: and we would fain have them know, that it is, at least, as great a labor for us to prepare to address them on a Christian grace or a Christian virtue, as on a doctrine, or a warning, or even a promise.

Most especially, brethren, would we exhort you to a cultivation of a spirit of PEACE in the churches. Reflect well on what a prominent place in all their instructions Christ and his apostles have given to this particular subject. James once said, "Whence come wars and fightings among you? Come they not hence, even of your lusts, that war in your members?" And we may also ask, whence come animosities and strifes and divisions; and, as a consequence, sometimes, Councils, to settle difficulties between churches and their ministers, and between different members of the same church? Come they not from the same source,—the unhallowed passions and affections of the mind? Let meekness, gentleness, brotherly-kindness, and charity take the place of selfishness, pride, obstinacy, and an over-bearing spirit, and many a difficulty would be healed, which must otherwise rend in pieces an individual church, afflict the Christian community around, and grieve the Holy Spirit. And, brethren, the counsel, which we here give to you, we give also to ourselves and to all our brethren in the ministry,—not forgetting that it is written, "the servant of the Lord must not strive, but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient, in meekness instructing those that oppose themselves,"—"neither as being lords over God's heritage, but being ensamples to the flock."

We, therefore, repeat what we have already said: let the spirit of true Christian peace pervade our churches, and co-extensive with it let there be the prevalence of brotherly kindness and charity;—let our young members be sober-minded and the older ones seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness;—let the influence of a deep practical piety show itself in the hearts and lives of all,—and we believe there would then be a preparation for that prayer to God which has the promise of his richest blessing, even the out-pouring of his Spirit.

Nor let it be objected, that we are here putting the effect for the cause. We merely plead for purity and piety in our churches, as a means of securing the Divine favor; and in doing this, we are persuaded, that we follow the order which God has established in his word.

4. Finally, brethren, let us urge the subject of practical religion on your attention, by the consideration, that its prevalence among you will redound to the Divine glory.

We cannot doubt, that your hearts will be tenderly affected by a motive like this. You have not forgotten the words of the Savior ; “ Herein is my Father glorified that ye bear much fruit.” By the public consecration you have made of yourselves to God and his service, you are most solemnly bound to obey his command—that, ‘whether you eat or drink or whatsoever you do, you should do all to his glory.’ The glory of God is the highest object, for which you are capable of living ; and you will glorify Him in proportion as you show forth practically the excellence of that gospel which you profess. If, by manifesting the spirit of Jesus Christ and following his example, you will let the world take knowledge of you, that you have been with Him ; if you will adorn the doctrine of God your Savior in all things being holy, because he is holy ;—be assured that you will hereby glorify God : and those, who thus honor Him, He will honor.

RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

1. The Association, by which the General Association of Massachusetts was originally organized, agreed to admit, and this Association continue to admit, as articles of faith, the doctrines of Christianity, as they are generally expressed in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism; and the above-mentioned doctrines, understood by us to be distinctly those, which from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel, are considered as the basis of our union.

2. This General Association is founded on the principles of Congregationalism, and wholly disclaims ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the churches, or the opinions of individuals. Its object is to promote brotherly harmony and intercourse among the ministers of Christ;—to obtain religious information relative to the state of their churches, and of the christian church in this country, and throughout the world;—and to co-operate with one another, and with other ecclesiastical bodies in the most eligible measures for advancing the cause of truth and holiness.

3. Each District Association in Massachusetts, consenting to the principles of this Union, as stated in the first article, may appoint two delegates annually, to compose this General Association: and it is recommended, that one be appointed, who attended the preceding year.

4. The time of the annual meeting of this Association, shall be on the fourth Tuesday of June, at five o'clock, P. M., at such place, as shall have been duly notified.

5. Seven members, delegated from the particular Associations of Massachusetts, shall be requisite to form a quorum for transacting any business; but for opening and adjourning the meeting, a less number shall be competent.

6. The secretary and the minister of the church, where the Association meet, shall have seats, and act as members; the Associations to which they belong retaining the right to elect their number of Delegates in addition.

7. The minister of the church in the place where the Association meets, or the secretary, may call the Association to order and preside in the meeting until the Association shall be properly organized.

8. The certificates of the delegates present shall be read by the Secretary or by a temporary Scribe, and the Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator, a Scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant Scribe by ballot. The Rules of the Association shall also be read, and the Moderator shall open the business with prayer.

9. At the opening of the session on each subsequent day, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order; direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

10. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, shall be appointed by nomination, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

11. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing, and no motion shall be open to discussion, until it be seconded.

12. The Moderator may speak to points of order, in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

13. On questions of order, adjournment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, no member shall speak more than once. Nor on any question shall a member speak more than twice, without leave of the Association.

14. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question; viz. Shall the main question be now put.

15. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

16. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members to call him to order.

17. The discussions in the Association, and the whole deportment of the members shall be in accordance with decorum, with due respect to the chair, and with courtesy to each other.

18. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

19. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer by the Moderator, or such other member as he shall appoint.

20. The principles of the connections formed with the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, the General Associations of Connecticut and New Hampshire, the General Convention of Congregational and Presbyterian Ministers in Vermont, and the Evangelical Consociation of Rhode-Island, are, that this General Association, and each ecclesiastical body connected with it, shall annually appoint, each two Delegates to the other, who shall be admitted into each body, to the same right of sitting, debating, and voting with their own members respectively.

21. The principle of the connection formed with the Massachusetts Missionary Society, is, that said Society may annually appoint two delegates to this body, who shall be admitted to equal privileges with the members from the District Associations.

22. Gentlemen, who are admitted as honorary members, shall be allowed full liberty to take part in all deliberations; though they are not considered as entitled to vote; and it is expected they will give notice to the body, if they find it necessary to withdraw previous to the close of the session. The approbation of the Committee of Arrangements shall be obtained, before a gentleman shall be proposed to sit as an honorary member.

23. The Delegates, who the preceding year attended the meetings of foreign bodies, shall, ex officio, have seats as honorary members of the General Association.

24. A Committee of three shall be annually appointed, to submit to the General Association at the next meeting, a Pastoral Address, to excite the attention of ministers and Christians, to faithful discipline in the churches, the instruction of the rising generation, the sanctification of the Sabbath, and other subjects relating to the general interests of religion. The address being approved by the General Association, shall be signed by the Moderator, and printed with the minutes. This Committee shall be chosen from the several Associations in rotation.

25. The Associational Sermon shall be delivered at two o'clock, Thursday, P. M., after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper shall be administered. The narratives given by the Delegates of the several Associations concerning the state of religion and the churches, shall be given on Wednesday afternoon, and shall be presented in writing, with a view to obtain an accurate account of the principal facts, not however to prevent any more particular details which the Delegates may think expedient to add, or the Association to request. The returns, with respect to the number in the churches, etc., shall be made out according to a printed schedule of this body, and according to the numbers on the first of January past.

26. A Committee shall be appointed to receive the narratives and statements, and shall condense them into one narrative, to be submitted to the General Association and published. The written narratives shall be deposited with the Secretary.

27. A Committee shall be appointed to nominate Delegates to foreign bodies, which delegates shall, as far as practicable, be selected from the District Associations in rotation. The brethren chosen substitutes in the delegations to the several bodies in our connection, shall, at our next session be considered as Delegates to the respective bodies, if they shall not previously have taken their seats there, through the failure of their principals.

28. The Secretary shall be chosen for three years, from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made. He shall, ex officio, be the Treasurer of the General Association; and shall be allowed his own travelling expenses in attending the meetings of this Association. A Committee shall be appointed annually, to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the members of the several Associations connected with this body. The Secretary shall be authorized to pay such expenses as are allowed by this Association.

29. It shall be the duty of the Delegates of the District Associations, to pay the amount of the Assessments due from their respective Associations for the past year, whether collected by them or not.

30. A Publishing Committee shall be annually appointed, to make such extracts from the minutes of the meeting, as in their judgment it will be proper to publish; procure to be printed such number of copies with the Pastoral Address and Narrative of the State of Religion, as will give one copy to each minister of the Associations represented in this body; and such a number of copies for other bodies connected with this Association, as shall be mutually agreed upon. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to receive the publications from foreign bodies, and distribute them among the several Associations, in proportion to the tax paid by them respectively. One copy of each publication, received by the General Association, or printed by its order, shall be kept in the archives.

31. An Agent shall be appointed in Boston to transmit the Extracts of the Minutes of this General Association to other ecclesiastical bodies, and to receive their Extracts or other publications, and transmit them to the several District Associations represented in this body. And notice of his appointment and place of business, shall be inserted in the printed Extracts. He shall be entitled to a suitable compensation.

32. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to communicate proper information to the Agent in Boston, and to the Publishing Committee, for their direction.

33. Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and request some District Association to appoint a preacher to deliver the Associational Sermon, And the church of the place of meeting is desired to make preparations to celebrate the Lord's Supper during the session.

34. A Vote or Resolve to establish, alter, or annul a standing rule of this body, shall be read twice on different days, and may be debated at each reading. At the first reading the question shall be, Shall it be read the second time?

B Y . L A W S .

1. An annual sermon shall be preached before the Association, on the subject of Home Missions, and a collection taken. The preacher shall be appointed by this body.

2. No report of the state of religion shall be read in public, unless it be approved by the Association from which it comes, or by the Committee of Arrangements of the General Association.

3. It is recommended to the several District Associations, to have their narratives on the state of religion, condensed, so as not to exceed five minutes in the time of reading.

4. The printed Minutes of this Association, shall be sufficient testimonials of the appointment of Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

5. It shall be the duty of those Delegates who attend the meetings of Foreign Bodies, whether they be Primaries or Substitutes, to certify the Secretary in writing, on or before the opening of the annual meeting next after his appointment.

6. The Minutes of this Association shall be sent to the individual members of the Associations connected with this body by mail, and the Chairman of the Committee of Publication, shall furnish a list of the names required to the Agents of the Association.

7. The Minutes of this body, forwarded to the General Association of Connecticut, shall be, according to their request, sent by mail, under the direction of the Publishing Committee.

8. The names of all the members of the Associations belonging to this body, whether with or without charge, shall be inserted in the published returns.

9. Every church without a pastor, by paying twenty-five cents, annually, to the Treasurer of the General Association, through the Treasurer of the local Association, with which said church is connected, shall be entitled to receive the Minutes of the General Association, to be forwarded in the same way as minutes are forwarded to members of the Association.

TOWNSEND'S BIBLE—Price reduced to $5.

CROCKER AND BREWSTER, 47 Washington-st., Boston.

To meet the wishes of the Clergy, and induce Students, Teachers, and others to become possessors of this valuable work, C. & B. have just published, from the Stereotype Plates, a new and handsome edition, in two volumes royal octavo, containing upwards of 2,000 pages,

At the Reduced Price of Five Dollars in Boards.

TOWNSEND'S BIBLE, arranged in Historical and Chronological order; (on the basis of Lightfoot's Chronicle;) in such a manner that the Books, Chapters, Psalms, Prophecies, etc. etc., may be read as one connected History, in the words of the authorized translations;—The Gospels on the basis of the Harmonies of Lightfoot, Doddridge, Pilkington, Newcome, and Michaelis;—The Account of the Resurrection, on the authorities of West, Townson, and Cranfield. The Epistles are inserted in their places, and divided according to the Apostles' arguments. With copious notes on the principal subjects in Theology, and Indexes. Revised, punctuated, etc., by Rev. T. W. COIT, D. D.

☞ The present work must be considered as a valuable accession to the stores of biblical literature. It has taken a permanent station among the most useful publications of recent years.—Eclectic Review.

☞ We cannot but regard this as one of the richest contributions to the cause of theological literature ever made by the American press. It brings a vast amount of invaluable criticism within the reach of the mere English reader; and assists him in comprehending the scope and aim of the several inspired writers, while it removes the obscurity that rests on many isolated passages, and elucidates the harmony and connection of the various parts of the sacred volume.—Boston Recorder.

☞ On the whole, we regard Townsend's Arrangement of the Bible, as one of the most important and useful publications, which we have been invited to examine. We commend it to our readers, of every class—to ministers, to the conductors of Bible Classes, and to the families that call on the name of the Lord. It is the Bible its own interpreter.—Biblical Repository.

DR. ROBINSON'S WORKS.

A GREEK AND ENGLISH LEXICON OF THE NEW TESTAMENT, 1 vol. 8vo.

A translation of GESENIUS' HEBREW AND ENGLISH LEXICON OF THE OLD TESTAMENT, 1 vol. 8vo.

A HARMONY OF THE FOUR GOSPELS IN GREEK, according to the Text of Hahn, newly arranged, with explanatory Notes. 1 vol.

BIBLICAL RESEARCHES IN PALESTINE, MOUNT SINAI, AND ARABIA PETRÆA. Being a Journal of Travels in the year 1838, undertaken in reference to Biblical Geography. In 3 vols. 8vo. With Maps and Plans of Jerusalem, Palestine, and Mount Sinai.

ROBINSON'S EDITION OF CALMET'S DICTIONARY OF THE HOLY BIBLE. Complete in one volume, imperial octavo. With Maps.

SCOTT'S FAMILY BIBLE—in 6 Vols. Royal Octavo.

Containing all the Notes, Practical Observations, Marginal References, and Critical Remarks, as in the most approved London Edition, with a Line Engraved Likeness of the Author, Family Record, etc. At $12 in Sheep, and $16 in Calf or Russia.

Worcester's Watts and Select Hymns—New Edition.

DR. WORCESTER'S EDITION OF WATTS' PSALMS, HYMNS, AN SPIRITUAL SONGS, with Four Hundred and Seventy-Four SELECT HYMNS from other Authors, and Thirty OCCASIONAL PIECES. This edition was enlarged, the Key of Musical Expression revised, and the Index of Subjects and Scriptures, and Table of First Lines, greatly improved, by SAMUEL M. WORCESTER, A. M. It is stereotyped in the 32mo Pocket size,—18mo., Common Size,—and 12mo., Large size. This last size is on large type and particularly desirable for the Pulpit and aged people. The several editions can be had in extra bindings.

☞ Those who are thinking of a new book of Psalmody, may be interested to know, that hundreds of clergymen and laymen have expressed their decided preference of "Watts and Select Hymns," as no published, to any other work of the kind;—as combining, on the whole, the most of what is desirable with the least of what is doubtful or objectionable.—The following are examples of such expressions of opinion, and the names of many of our most distinguished clergymen and others, who cordially concur in them, might be added.

☞ The selection in Worcester is sufficiently ample and various, in subjects and metres, to meet the wants of a worshipping assembly; is replete with evangelical sentiments; is in accordance with the objects of benevolence pursued in this age; and is fitted to the various states of mind in which the Christian desires to pour forth his feelings to God.—Rev. Dr. Barnes, Philadelphia.

☞ I have no hesitation in declaring, that I decidedly prefer "Watts and Select Hymns" to any other book that I have ever seen. I sincerely wish that Watts and Select Hymns were used in all the churches of our country.—Rev. Dr. Spencer, Brooklyn, N. Y.

☞ I have always used Worcester's Watts and Select Hymns in public worship, and with increasing satisfaction.—Rev. Nehemiah Adams, Boston.

☞ In no circumstances can I hesitate a moment, to express frankly the opinion deliberately formed, that there is not now extant, nor likely soon to be, a compilation of sacred hymns, so happily adapted to all the purposes of hallowing social devotion as "Worcester's Watts."—Rev. J. Storrs, Braintree, Mass.

Delegate to the General Conference of Maine, Rev. Joseph Bennett.

Delegate to the General Association of New Hampshire, Rev. Amos Blanchard.

Rev. J. A. Albro was chosen Moderator, Rev. Wm. P. Paine, Scribe, and Rev. Joseph S. Clark, Assistant Scribe.

The Rules of the Association were read, and prayer was offered by the Moderator.

Rev. Messrs. Joseph Merrill, G. W. Blagden, and E. P. Rogers were appointed a Committee on Elections. And Messrs. Fowler, Andrews, and Whiting a Committee of Arrangements.

After prayer by Mr. Fowler, adjourned to meet at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Wednesday morning, 8 o'clock. Met according to adjournment. Prayer by the Moderator. The roll was called and the minutes of the preceding day read.

The Committee of Arrangements reported in part.

The Committee appointed last year on Psalms, reported that it is inexpedient for the Committee to make any recommendation to the General Association on the subject, and asked to be discharged from any further services in the premises ; which, after some discussion, was adopted.

The following visiting brethren were invited to sit as corresponding members :—Rev. A. H. Dumont, of the Presbytery of Elizabethtown, N. J., Rev. John Fiske, D. D., of New Braintree, Rev. Milton Badger, D. D., of New York, Rev. Robert Stewart, of Illinois, Rev. Calvin Clark, of Michigan, and Doct. Scudder, of the Ceylon Mission.

The Secretary being absent, Rev. Lyman Whiting was appointed in his place, pro. tem.

The subject relating to such a change in this Association as to admit of a lay delegation, submitted to the District Associations last year, was taken up, and after an expression of the opinion of each of the Associations, through the delegates, (which was very generally adverse to the change,) was indefinitely postponed.

The following Committees were appointed :—

To prepare the Narrative of the State of Religion,—Messrs. Blagden, Pettingell, J. F. Stearns, J. G. D. Stearns, Peabody, Johnson, and Rice.

On Accounts,—Messrs. Packard and Condit.

Of Nominations,—Messrs. Bennett, Hooker, and Porter.

To nominate Delegates to Foreign Bodies,—Messrs. Todd, Bardwell, Jackson, Blodgett, and J. F. Stearns.

An amendment of the 14th Rule of the Association was proposed by Mr. Fowler, and ordered to be read again tomorrow, which is as follows :—“The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a Committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.”

Dr. Snell and Messrs. Tracy and Whiting were appointed a Committee to report next year a system to be observed in assigning the associational preacher, and the place of meeting.

Rev. E. Smalley was appointed second preacher before the Home Missionary Society.

Reports were made by the following Delegates to Foreign Bodies :—S. Aiken, to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, meeting annually ; S. G. Buckingham and E. Smalley, to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, meeting triennially ; J. Knight, to the General Association of Connecticut ; J. Bennett, to the General Conference of Maine ; and S. W. Bannister to the General Association of New York.

A report was made by the Committee appointed last year in relation to the Bi-Centennial of the meeting of the Synod which completed the Cambridge Platform; which was adopted and made the order of the day for tomorrow morning.

Dr. Nelson and Messrs. Bullard and Smith, of Worcester Central Association, were appointed to prepare the Pastoral Address for next year.

A communication was received from the General Association of Iowa, requesting a friendly correspondence with this Body, which was referred to a Committee.

A proposition was submitted by the Norfolk Association, relating to the dissolution of this Body, which, after being discussed at considerable length, was indefinitely postponed.

Adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock, P. M.

Wednesday, 2 o'clock, P. M. Met according to adjournment. The afternoon was principally occupied in Narratives of the State of Religion in the District Associations, and in various other portions of the country.

A resolution was offered, that the 20th Rule of the Association be so modified as to read thus:—"Our principles of fraternal intercourse with all ecclesiastical bodies in correspondence with us, are that this Association, and each Body connected with it, shall annually appoint delegates to the other, which shall be admitted to the privilege of sitting and deliberating upon all matters which may come under consideration."

After prayer by Dr. Bates, adjourned to meet at 8¼ o'clock this evening.

Wednesday evening, 8¼ o'clock. Met according to adjournment.

The annual sermon on the subject of Home Missions was preached by Rev. O. Fowler, a copy of which he was requested to furnish for publication in the National Preacher. A collection was taken amounting to $14,51.

Adjourned to meet tomorrow morning at 7½ o'clock.

Thursday morning, 7½ o'clock. Met according to adjournment. Prayer was offered by the Moderator. The roll was called and the minutes of yesterday read.

The Moderator and Scribes were appointed the Publishing Committee.

It was voted that the next associational preacher be appointed by the Berkshire Association from their own body.

The Auditing Committee reported, that they had examined the Treasurer's accounts, found them correct, and that there is the sum of $11,37 in the Treasury. They recommended that a tax of fifty cents be assessed on each member of the several Associations for the ensuing year, which was adopted.

The report respecting the Bi-Centennial of the completion of the Cambridge Platform, after discussion, was referred to a Committee to be composed of one from each District Association, to report next year, viz :—Rev. Messrs. J. Todd, D. D. of Berkshire, E. P. Rogers of Hampshire, J. D. Condit of Hampshire East, E. Davis of Hampden West, S. Osgood, D. D. of Hampden East, L. L. Langstroth of Franklin, T. Snell, D. D. of Brookfield, J. Orcutt of Harmony, J. Nelson, D. D. of Worcester Central, E. Perkins of Worcester North, E. Fiske of Mendon, D. Phelps of Middlesex Union, E. Newhall of Middlesex South, R. Emerson of Woburn, S. C. Jackson of Andover, J. F. Stearns of Essex North, P. Cook of Essex South, J. A. Albro of Suffolk North, N. Adams of Suffolk South, R. S. Storrs, D. D. of Norfolk, O. Fowler of Taunton, I. W. Putnam of Old Colony, E. Pratt of Brewster, C. Rich of Vineyard Sound, D. D. Tappan of Pilgrim.

The amendments of the 14th and 20th Rules proposed yesterday, were read again and adopted.

The Committee on Elections reported,—“That this Body reciprocate the fraternal regard of the General Congregational Association of Iowa, and most cheerfully accede to their request to open a correspondence with them ; which was adopted.

It was voted that the next Annual Meeting be held at Worcester, in the meeting-house of the First Parish.

The Pastoral Address was read by Rev. S. C. Jackson. Voted, that it be adopted and printed with the Minutes.

The Narrative of the State of Religion was read by Rev. G. W. Blagden, and ordered to be printed in the Minutes, under the inspection of the Publishing Committee.

The Committee to nominate Delegates to Foreign Bodies made the following report, which was adopted :—

A communication was received from the Worcester North Association, upon slavery, which was referred to a Committee, consisting of Rev. Messrs. Bardwell, Pettingell and Packard, who recommended, that the Association re-affirm the expression made by this Body last year upon this subject.* The report was adopted.

* "The General Association of Massachusetts, having often and earnestly expressed their abhorrence of slavery, grieving that the system yet existed and is sustained by some Christians and Ecclesiastical Bodies as authorized by the Word of God, do solemnly re-affirm their faith ; that the Word of God is utterly opposed to slavery as it exists in these United States, and that, as far as the Bible obtains the ascendancy in the conscience and heart of Christians, and of the Church, such Christians must and will separate themselves from all responsible connection with the system ; and, in the spirit of fraternal fidelity, we would earnestly beseech all Christians and Ecclesiastical Bodies connected with that system, to be living examples of the Gospel, and in the light of God's truth carefully to review their opinions and practice, and to do their utmost to free the Church of Christ from the pollution of this guilt."—9th page of the printed Minutes of the Association for 1845.

Resolved, That as the disciples of the Prince of Peace, whose spirit is only mercy, we hail with thanksgiving to God the prospective arrangements for the peaceful termination of the Oregon question between this and our Father-land; and we would record our earnest prayer for the speedy and peaceful termination of the difficulties between this and a sister Republic.

Rev. J. S. Clark was appointed to execute the provisions of the 31st Rule of the Association.

The Association was addressed by Rev. W. B. Tappan in behalf of the American Sabbath School Union, Rev. Mr. Riddell in behalf of the American Education Society, Rev. F. Baldwin in behalf of the Society for the Promotion of Collegiate and Theological Education in the West, Rev. J. Leavitt on Slavery, Rev. G. W. Beckwith in reference to Peace, and Rev. Messrs. Albro and Blagden in behalf of the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society.

Adjourned.

Thursday, 2 o'clock, P. M. Met according to adjournment.

The Associational Sermon was preached by Rev. Amos Blanchard of Lowell. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by Dr. Rice of New Jersey, and Rev. Thomas Shepard of Rhode Island; after which the Assembly was addressed by Rev. Wm. Warren of Maine.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Association be presented to Rev. David Andrews and his people, for the liberal Christian hospitality shown to this Body during the present meeting, and also to the Choir for their very acceptable service; and that the Rev. Mr. Andrews be requested to communicate the same to his people and Choir.

After prayer by the Moderator, voted to adjourn.

JOHN A. ALBRO, Moderator.

WM. P. PAINE, Scribe.

J. S. CLARK, Assistant Scribe.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

---

THE state of religion in the Churches of the Association, though low and discouraging, in some respects, is not without interest in others.

There has never been a time when more seemed to be doing, than is now done, to sustain and give energy to the various benevolent associations within our bounds.

In eighteen, out of the twenty-four Associations, from which reports have been given, this subject of an increasing attention to the benevolent objects of the day, has been distinctly mentioned; and it may perhaps be said with truth, that in all of them it has been implied. Particularly is this the fact, with respect to the contributions in behalf of Foreign and Home Missions. Temperance associations also are frequently mentioned in the reports, and are evidently, in most cases, strenuously encouraged, and their object faithfully promoted, by the various churches; while it is equally clear that, in many cases, the mistakes which have been made by some advocates of the cause, in the means used for its advancement, and in the principles on which they have proceeded, have created much needless embarrassment, and greatly, almost fatally, hindered its progress. We are happy to find that in some of our seminaries of learning, special efforts are making to promote it.

There has, however, been a great dearth of the visible effusions of the influences of the Holy Spirit in our churches during the past year. In a few of the Associations, a revived state of religion is mentioned as having existed, or as being still in progress, in some of the churches and congregations: but only in a very few of them has there been any marked and extensive revival of religion: while in most of the reports strong expressions of sorrow occur, at the evident want of such seasons of encouragement and joy. At the same time, in nearly all cases, we find there has been a very general, and in most of them, an increased attendance on the public worship of God, and the preaching of his word; and the outward state of the churches is described as prosperous.

We might attempt to assign some possible causes for this state of things; but without attempting this,—we cannot but hope, that in these expressions, so frequently recurring in the reports, of sadness at the want of a more general and marked success of the gospel in bringing men to true repentance and faith in Christ,—we may find now our greatest encouragement. We may reasonably hope, that such sentiments show that our brethren, and we ourselves, begin so to feel our weakness, that we shall go to the only source of strength: and looking unto God, in prayer, through Christ,—for the bestowment of his Holy Spirit,—shall so ask as to receive; and thus this humbled and penitent state, into which the churches shall be brought,—show that this time of spiritual dreariness, has but been like the cold and dampness of winter and spring, preparing the soil, for the fruitfulness of summer, and the joy of the harvest-home. We shall not, at last, regret it, if it but produces so blessed a result. Let us watch and pray that it may be thus.

It is evident that an increasing attention is now paid, in most, if not all our churches, to Sabbath schools, and in the education and catechetical instruction of children. In those Associations, within the bounds of which Colleges and Theological Seminaries exist, it is matter for joy, that our churches highly appreciate the almost unspeakable value of these higher institutions for secular and sacred learning: and it is equally evident, from the frequent mention of the Sabbath school and the Bible class, that there is a growing conviction of the importance of these means of good. While this is true, it is also well worthy of our attention, that from both branches of the Presbyterian Church, with which we are happy in exchanging assurances of Christian confidence, we have heard the fear expressed that even the school of the Sabbath, may make Christian parents too careless of the faithful religious education of children in the family,—that blessed spot, designed by God, for the beginning of all that is spiritually and eternally hopeful in the young mind. We sympathize in this fear, while we agree also in the full expression of confidence in the Sabbath-school system, with which it is accompanied. We would add to this danger, the tendency of the same cause, if it be not duly guarded, to make Pastors also neglectful of the divine injunction, to feed the lambs of the flock.

The consecration of the Sabbath is awakening attention, and becoming an object of effort, in several Associations. We rejoice in the fact, and would earnestly express the hope that the hallowing of this sacred season may be promoted, in all proper ways.

We have not thought it best, in this account of the state of religion, in the several Associations, of which this Body is composed, to specify particular Associations by name, because the state of things, during the past year, has been so generally the same in all of them, as not to require it. We may, however, say that in Hampshire county, an interesting state of things has existed in Amherst College,—and in the Mount Holyoke Female Seminary, while Northampton, the County town, has largely shared in this blessing.

From several of the Associations in other States, we have received reports representing the state of religion, within their bounds, as being the same, substantially, as among ourselves.

We should not do full justice to the accounts received from the various bodies connected with us, without saying that in many of our Associations much interest is taken in the subject of slavery. While many of us differ, perhaps greatly, in our views of the true Scriptural way of speaking and acting on that subject, we can all surely agree in this,—to condemn sin when it exists in any relation of human life; and surely we ought to remember, that the alteration of no outward relation whatever can possibly rectify the disorders of the human heart.

In closing this account, the Committee by whom it has been prepared, beg leave to exhort their fathers and brethren in the ministry, with every officer and member in our churches, under whose eye it may fall, to unite with them in watchfulness and prayer for the comforting and sanctifying influences of the Holy Spirit; and in a renewed consecration of ourselves to our blessed Lord, in faithful efforts for the coming of His kingdom, and the doing of his will.

PASTORAL ADDRESS.

DEAR BRETHREN,—

The pastors constituting the General Association of Massachusetts again present you their annual Address. We would speak upon subjects of a practical nature, suggested by the present state of the churches. It has been said, that “the history of the pulpit, is the history of the church.” The Pastoral Addresses of this Association for a hundred years, if appropriate, will disclose the state and character, the conflicts and perils of the churches connected with it, during that century.

The aspects of the churches vary. There are times of agitation and of rest; of advance and of decline; of peculiar trials and of unusual exemption from them. At this time, and for months past, why so few revivals? Why such a general withholding of divine influence? Here is a feature in the present condition of our churches of a special character and of solemn interest. It bears an intimate relation, like that of cause and effect, to a decline in spiritual religion. Whatever elevates or depresses true piety, will tend to remove this spiritual dearth, or to prolong its continuance. It will, therefore, be appropriate to address you upon,

We believe that the true, vital spirit of religion is beset, at this day, with special dangers. We fear it has declined in the great body of the churches. Are there not assignable causes for such a decline, now operating, which should awaken our apprehension and which demand our speedy and earnest attention? We now refer to some of these causes, or to the dangers which beset the spiritual life of Christians.

Danger is to be apprehended,—

I. From an increased tendency to place undue dependence on mere human agencies for advancing true religion.—In the divine economy, human agency is so essential to religious progress, that there has ever been a tendency to exalt means unduly. But in the later history of our churches, special measures of human devising have been so numerous, prominent, and apparently so successful, that there has been an increased disposition to trust in them and to overlook divine efficiency. We fear there is not now that deep and abiding sense of dependence on God, manifesting itself in fervent prayer, and self-abasing humility, which once characterized the better churches of New England. We fear that more reliance is often placed on the person that declares the truth, or on his manner of dispensing it, than on the truth itself, or the influence which makes it effectual;—that there is more trusting in a Paul if he is learned, or in an Apollos if he is eloquent, than in God who gives the increase. Has there not been, even among professors of religion, an increase of a fastidious and critical spirit which refuses to be profited by plain and unpretending, though instructive and just ministrations of the gospel? One class crave that which is stimulating and impassioned, however crude, and are satisfied with that which is novel and exciting, though there is little refinement or instruction. An opposite class demand for their gratification what is tasteful and imaginative, high-wrought and polished, speculative and learned, or acute and philosophical. They are the cultivated, the over-refined, the sentimental, but unspiritual. They look for show and prettiness, for the formal and beautiful in religion, and not for its substance; for the graces of style and manner, and not for the power of God unto salvation. This mistaken and irreligious spirit of refinement probably leads some to forsake the Puritan mode of worship and the scriptural and simple order of Congregationalism, for other modes and orders of more pretension and formality, where more account is made of ranks and honors, of vestments and rites, of the gothic and the ancient, and less of spiritual piety. It reveals a diseased state of the religious affections, and a mind that does not truly discern the things of the Spirit. Such have a false standard, which leads them to undervalue common means and humble instruments, that were once so useful in edifying the church and converting sinners to God. Has there not been a growing tendency to value the preaching of the word according to its immediate effect to please and excite the hearers? How many have been saying, "Lo, here! Lo, there!"—looking to gifted men and to favorite measures. Amidst the human that is attractive, and perhaps excellent, the divine that is greater is forgotten. Thus God is dishonored. The Spirit is grieved. A self-dependent spirit is fostered, and devotional piety declines. And may we not expect that the Infinite dispenser of grace will continue to chastise us and withhold divine influence, till the measure of his judgment shall be adequate to our correction—till we cease from man, and give honor to Him to whom honor is due.

II. The multifarious movements of charity and philanthropy which characterize our times, may exert an influence unfavorable to the spirituality of the churches.—They are, indeed, the glory of our age, and the fruits of an improved piety. Every Christian will rejoice in them. But in this age of active benevolence, amidst its most useful labors and gifts, there may be a great want of Christian love. Even where a glowing interest is felt in public objects of utility and humanity, there may be extreme selfishness, and violations of true charity. And when so much is done and given in behalf of enterprises of Christian benevolence and of public reform, and when such generous sympathies and warm zeal are awakened in their support, there is the utmost danger that mere natural emotions will pass, even in our churches, for spiritual affections, or the semblances of piety for piety itself. So far as professors of religion are led, by their active charities, to think less of faith in Christ, of repentance for sin, of prayer, of holy living, or of the inward, noiseless, and unpretending exercises of humble piety, they will suffer spiritual decline, and the effect on the churches will be most unhappy. The liberality and utility, the sacrifices, labors, and parade of an outward philanthropy, will take the place of personal holiness. The church will lose more by a decay of her vital energy, than she gains by outward charities. Her piety will be humanity, rather than godliness. It will apparently be more useful, but really less effective for good. She may have a brighter name, and a "name to live," while she is dead; and her increase, like that in the length of a corpse, will be extension without life.

Is there not painful evidence that this effect has already been produced on the piety of some in our churches? They did run well, but have been hindered. They have had some favorite object, which has become not only a matter of benevolent action but of party interest, and they are more ready to labor for this than for a revival of religion. They will go farther to hear its claims presented, for the hundredth time, than to attend a church prayer-meeting. They have a tongue to speak, and hands to give, and feet to run for this, but none for sustaining any means aiming directly at the edification of the church and the conversion of men to God. How much more ready are some to labor personally and zealously to gain a name to a temperance pledge, or to serve the cause of freedom, than to add to the Lord such as shall be saved? And when success has seemed to crown their efforts at reform, how apt are they to feel complacency, as though they had performed the highest duty of Christian faithfulness and love, when perhaps they have done nothing to effect a radical reformation in the persons reformed. And how many can have overflowing charity towards their associates in reform who deny the faith, while towards their own brethren in Christ who differ from them on matters of party excitement, their charity and patience are in the most stinted measure.

Such are the fruits of the false spirit and misguided action of benevolence. They show the danger of exalting philanthropy, or works of humanity, above that true faith which purifies the heart and works by love. They are evidence that some attach greater importance to beneficent deeds than to the benevolent affections from which they should spring; and more even to the secular principles of reform, than to the living spirit of piety and the vital truths of religion which give to all principles and all measures their highest authority and force. This is a great practical error, and so far as it prevails, it will obscure the lustre and diminish the fruits of Christian piety.

There is danger to the piety of the churches,

III. From the conflicts and agitations in which they have been involved. The few past years have been years of controversy. Exciting topics have agitated and divided the community. There have been heated discussions, reckless innovations, bold assaults on established truth and order, and the formation of parties which have acted with party blindness and zeal. The influence of this state of things has more or less reached the churches.

Differences of judgment among Christians, like offences, must needs come. It is practicable, however, for good men to hold differences and deal with offences without a sacrifice of the Christian spirit. It is practicable, as the example of many has shown, to maintain every true principle and to discharge every duty, and yet be tolerant towards those who honestly differ, and courteous and kind to all.

Not a few of our churches know, by a painful experience, what a severe test of their piety are the conflicts and differences through which they have passed. It has sometimes proved their patience and charity to be sadly deficient. The worst passions of the human heart are nourished amidst contention. The choicest virtues,—humility, meekness, long-suffering, forgiveness, and charity, are weakened and repressed. These graces, as they are most unlike the fruits of an unrenewed nature, are pre-eminently the fruits of the Spirit, and therefore more than others attest the transforming efficacy of the gospel, and constitute Christian piety. So far as these decline, personal religion decays. The Holy Spirit—the spirit of devotion and holiness, forsakes a contending church.

It is of little moment what the occasion of difference is, if it awakens strong feeling, whether a case of discipline, or disaffection with the pastor, or difficulty between brethren, or the introduction of questions and measures on which discordant opinions are held. Unless there be a much larger measure of love and watchfulness than is common, bitter fruits will abound. A faithful pastor may be accused of time-serving, and of sacrificing his duty to his interest. An ardent brother may reproach the more prudent. An over-zealous brother may imagine his knowledge to be equal to his zeal, and wonder at the blindness of another who is wiser than himself. The weak will be more confident than the strongest; the ignorant will not appreciate the most matured wisdom; the excitable, the vain, the forward will dishonor themselves and the church; and all, even the most devout and watchful, will find their graces injured. Attention will be diverted from spiritual objects. Discouragement and the want of religious interest will prevent religious duty. Brethren will magnify unessential points upon which they differ, while the greater matters of the Christian faith upon which they agree will be overlooked. Separated by differences and absorbed in party objects, they forget that they are brethren, and have one Lord and one faith. Ceasing to bring forth the fruits of the Spirit, the Spirit is grieved, and devotional piety languishes. How great the responsibility of those who recklessly or wilfully hazard the peace of a church, and throw it into such a furnace of temptation! How seldom will the fiery trial be found unto praise and honor and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ!

There is reason to fear that the devotional piety of the churches will suffer a decline,

IV. From the manner in which it is now common for Christians to employ their Sabbaths. This is the last topic which our limits allow us to suggest, but we deem it of the utmost importance, and earnestly commend it to the consideration of the churches. We refer not to the ordinary and obvious violations of the Sabbath, but to the manner in which it is sometimes occupied by moral and religious services, in themselves important.

Every duty has its time, and also its proper manner. What is even allowable on the Sabbath, may not be the best thing to be done by him who would become more and more spiritual. And a manner of performing a service that would be highly proper at another time, may be wholly inconsistent with the sanctity of the Sabbath, and with what should be the great purpose of every Christian in sanctifying the day.

Spiritual improvement should obviously be the great end of all religious observances. The Sabbath is God's grand instrumentality for promoting personal holiness. It bears the same relation to the graces of the Spirit, that days of special culture and genial sunshine bear to the flowers and fruits of the earth. The history of vital Christianity shows that the Sabbath has done more for the sanctification of individuals, and consequently of the church at large, than all other means combined. When, therefore, the Sabbath, however usefully spent, is so spent that it fails to advance us in a spiritual course;—when a day, which the God of the church has consecrated to a devout and spiritual worship, is not spent in such worship, his design is not answered, and the day, however devoted to moral and religious purposes, is perverted and abused.

The subordinate ends of the Sabbath are never to be made paramount. Intellectual improvement, the acquisition of biblical knowledge and religious information, the perusal of missionary intelligence, the formation of religious habits, a correct moral training under the inculcations of divine truth, social and general refinement of manners, the increase of public morality, a rest of the mental and physical powers so essential to their endurance and vigor—these are inferior ends of the Sabbath, and much as they illustrate the divinity of the institution and the goodness and wisdom of Him who ordained it, are to be subservient to the great end of worshipping and serving God in the spirit of holiness. Yet these subordinate benefits of the Sabbath are so valuable in themselves, that Christians are in danger of being content to gain these alone, and of feeling that the day has been duly improved and sufficiently sanctified when such important objects have been promoted. What can be more manifest than that any and all of these inferior ends may be attained by those who are wholly destitute of spiritual affections, who have no true repentance towards God, and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ? How evident to a devout Christian that his Sabbaths are misimproved and their highest benefit lost, unless they lead him to commune with God, to do all things to his glory, and thus to grow in grace.

Entertaining such views, we are deeply concerned lest certain habits and practices, now common among us, should hinder the spiritual benefit of the Sabbath, and consequently endanger the devotional piety of the churches. We allude,

1. To overtaking both body and mind with mere intellectual and external duties. Since Sabbath schools were instituted, imposing so much intellectual labor upon the teachers, tempting them to read the Bible intellectually rather than devotionally, and for the benefit of others rather than for their own; and since the spirit of the times has called for so many public meetings to be held on the Sabbath, to promote various moral and religious objects, the labors of the day have become numerous and often burdensome. Such labors and meetings we would by no means condemn without distinction, but we earnestly warn the churches against an evil consequence which may arise—a consequence perhaps not necessary, while the danger of it is great. Not unfrequently many in our churches, and they the best of their members, are engaged, from the beginning to the close of this sacred day, in exhausting mental and personal effort, or are attendants upon public appointments, and mere passive recipients of the thoughts of others. They have little, perhaps no, opportunity for continuous reflection, careful self-examination, devout reading, and a faithful application of what they read and hear. As a consequence, their piety, instead of advancing, may decline. Its spirit may be sacrificed to its labors; its power to its forms; its hidden life to its visible manifestations. In the midst of abundance the soul is not nourished. It is more exalted by privileges than by spiritual attainment. Outward duties are a substitute for the true inward exercises. The spirit not being active in its communings with God and with truth, cannot be deeply moved and firmly held by the objects of a spiritual faith. We need a more contemplative piety. Existing dangers urge us to more retirement and spiritual meditation. Our danger is the greater, because we are prone to presume there must be true religious affections, where there is a multitude of religious acts. We fear a decay of spiritual religion in the churches from this cause—even amidst circumstances which seem most favorable to its increase. There is ground for apprehension,

2. From the practice of devoting holy time, not given to active labors, to that kind of reading which is not adapted to promote a devotional spirit. It was the custom of our pious fathers to consecrate the leisure of the Sabbath to reading the Scriptures and devotional books like the practical and doctrinal writings of Baxter, Doddridge, Watts, Edwards, Witherspoon, and others of a like spirit. It is common now to substitute books and publications of a very different character and tendency. Newspapers, magazines, reviews, and books of all sorts and sizes now find a place in Christian families, and Sabbath school libraries, and circulate through our congregations, which though called religious still contain much that is wholly secular and adapted only to amuse. Instructive and useful as they may be, they, on the whole, have little tendency to excite spiritual affections, and would never be chosen for Sabbath reading by one who was mainly anxious to abound more and more in the knowledge and love of God. And when the best hours of the Sabbath at home, are devoted to such reading, rather than to the Bible and to writings filled with the spirit of the Bible, devotional piety must decline. Intelligence and entertainment are gained, while spiritual improvement is lost. The understanding is profited at the expense of the heart. Is it not probable that the piety of the churches has suffered greatly from this cause?

We believe that a similar evil has arisen,

3. From devoting portions of the Sabbath, or Sabbath evenings to meetings held for other than strictly religious purposes, and conducted by other than religious men. The spirit of agitation and reform that has of late years so deeply moved the community, has led to public gatherings on this day, for reforming the moral habits of the community, or for abolishing specific public evils. It is not to the objects themselves that we object. On the contrary, we earnestly desire all our churches and all Christians to sustain them by wise and zealous effort. Nor do we object to any measures for their promotion, even on the Sabbath, provided their spirit and effect are in harmony with the proper object of the Sabbath, which is to sanctify the soul. But we are unwilling that our churches should sanction any assemblies on the Sabbath not consonant with its design, and especially those conducted, in whole, or in part, by irreligious or unconverted men. Meetings managed by those, who cannot discern spiritual things, and who do not appreciate those hallowed influences of the Christian Sabbath, which are so precious to a renewed mind, have a baneful effect on the hearts of a people and are a disastrous perversion of this holy day. They often give occasion for levity and mirth, for displays of wit, for doubtful disputations, and even angry debate. Occurring at the close of the Sabbath, and pertaining to subjects that are exciting, they obliterate all the religious impressions of the day, and must therefore hinder the spiritual growth of Christians and the conversion of unbelievers. In a laudable desire to sustain a worthy object, never allow the Sabbath to be abused for its advancement. Encourage no measures which must inevitably injure your own piety. What individual Christians lose in piety, the church will lose in her power of reform, and the world will lose in morality, liberty, and true happiness.

Brethren, may it not be, that we have now brought to your view some of the great reasons why the churches are not more extensively blessed with revivals of religion? Are we to expect religion to revive when causes are operating to impair its vitality and ensure its decline? How can we look for the recovery of a patient while influences are aggravating a dangerous disease and counteracting the only remedies?

We must return to God. "The Lord is with you while ye be with him; and if ye seek him he will be found of you; but if ye forsake him he will forsake you." While the works of piety are performed by our hands, and its graces adorn our characters, its holiest affections must reign in our hearts. When there is extensively in individual Christians a revival of humility, meekness, and charity, of fervent prayer and true faith, of holy living and hearty consecration to God, and of a willingness to labor directly for the spiritual conversion of men, then the churches will arise and shine, their peace be as a river, and their converts be multiplied like the drops of the morning. That this time of your glory may come—that God may visit you again, and that right early, let ministers and churches watch against spiritual wickedness and wait on God.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

Arranged in the Alphabetical order of the several District Associations.

N. B. The columns denoting Parishes, Ministers, and date of Settlement, correspond with the facts as they were supposed to exist when the last meeting of the General Association was held, June, 1846. The number of Communicants are reported for 1st January preceding. The Admissions, Removals, and Baptisms, are designed to cover the year 1845. The Sabbath Schools and Bible Classes embrace both teachers and pupils who usually attend these exercises. The figures under the date of Settlement indicate the average number of years that the pastors in that Association have remained in their present locations. In a few instances the number of church members has been supplied from the returns of the previous year—though not till all reasonable efforts have failed to secure the present number.

REMARKS ON THE PRECEDING TABLES.

1. When the statistical returns came into the hands of the Publishing Committee, it was found that more than 100 of the churches, or nearly one quarter of the whole number, were not reported,—giving a most dreary aspect to the tables, and rendering them considerably worse than useless; for statistics that are not tolerably complete, as well as those that are not accurate, proclaim a falsehood, which insinuates itself into every calculation that is based upon them. The Committee therefore took the liberty to address a circular to each of their delinquent brethren; and they are happy to acknowledge that, in most instances, the desired information has been promptly furnished. It is deeply to be regretted, however, that there are still 28 churches from which no response has come, and which therefore can be exhibited in these tables only as so much—vacancy.

2. The average number of members in the 405 churches reported, is 155. If the other 28 are as large as their sister churches, the whole number of communicants within the bounds of the General Association is 67,109,—of which a fraction less than one third are males, and more than two thirds females. The removals during the year are 442 more than the admissions, in the churches that have made report.

3. It will be seen that the average length of time that the pastors have continued in their present locations is  $9\frac{1}{2}$  years. But it must not be thence inferred that one half of them have reached that age. Eleven have been settled since the present year came in. The pastorate of 159 commenced this side of 1840; while only 29 were settled prior to 1820. Nine were in their present pastoral connections before 1800; and two venerable Fathers,—Rev. T. M. Cooley, D. D. of Granville, and Rev. B. Wood of Upton,—preached their HALF-CENTURY sermons, the one in February and the other in June of the present year.

4. Of the 68 ministers here designated "Without Pastoral Charge," 35 are fully occupied in connection with literary institutions, benevolent societies, the religious press, or ministerial labor beyond the limits of the State. About 20 of the remaining 33, by reason of age or other causes, are not expecting to assume the pastoral office again, though continuing still to preach as occasional supplies.

5. In order to facilitate the rendering of full returns hereafter, the form of a schedule for the annual report is herewith printed on writing paper, and attached to the end of the Minutes, from which it can be easily separated, and filled out, and forwarded to those who are appointed to combine the statistics of their respective Associations. By a little economy in using the paper it may be found sufficiently spacious for the Associational Report.

RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

1. The Association, by which the General Association of Massachusetts was originally organized, agreed to admit, and this Association continue to admit, as articles of faith, the doctrines of Christianity, as they are generally expressed in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism; and the above-mentioned doctrines, understood by us to be distinctly those, which from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel, are considered as the basis of our union.

2. This General Association is founded on the principles of Congregationalism, and wholly disclaims ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the churches, or the opinions of individuals. Its object is to promote brotherly harmony and intercourse among the ministers of Christ;—to obtain religious information relative to the state of their churches, and of the christian church in this country, and throughout the world;—and to co-operate with one another, and with other ecclesiastical bodies in the most eligible measures for advancing the cause of truth and holiness.

3. Each District Association in Massachusetts, consenting to the principles of this Union, as stated in the first article, may appoint two delegates annually, to compose this General Association: and it is recommended, that one be appointed, who attended the preceding year.

4. The time of the annual meeting of this Association, shall be on the fourth Tuesday of June, at five o'clock, P. M., at such place, as shall have been duly notified.

5. Seven members, delegated from the particular Associations of Massachusetts, shall be requisite to form a quorum for transacting any business; but for opening and adjourning the meeting, a less number shall be competent.

6. The secretary and the minister of the church, where the Association meet, shall have seats, and act as members; the Associations to which they belong retaining the right to elect their number of Delegates in addition.

7. The minister of the church in the place where the Association meets, or the secretary, may call the Association to order and preside in the meeting until the Association shall be properly organized.

8. The certificates of the delegates present shall be read by the Secretary or by a temporary Scribe, and the Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator, a Scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant Scribe by ballot. The Rules of the Association shall also be read, and the Moderator shall open the business with prayer.

9. At the opening of the session on each subsequent day, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order; direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

10. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, shall be appointed by nomination, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

11. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing, and no motion shall be open to discussion, until it be seconded.

12. The Moderator may speak to points of order, in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

13. On questions of order, adjournment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, no member shall speak more than once. Nor on any question shall a member speak more than twice, without leave of the Association.

14. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question; viz. Shall the main question be now put. The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a Committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

15. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

16. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members to call him to order.

17. The discussions in the Association, and the whole deportment of the members shall be in accordance with decorum, with due respect to the chair, and with courtesy to each other.

18. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

19. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer by the Moderator, or such other member as he shall appoint.

20. Our principles of fraternal intercourse with all ecclesiastical bodies in correspondence with us, are that this Association, and each body connected with it, shall annually appoint Delegates to the other, which shall be admitted to the privilege of sitting, and deliberating upon all matters which may come under consideration.

21. The principle of the connection formed with the Massachusetts Missionary Society, is, that said Society may annually appoint two delegates to this body, who shall be admitted to equal privileges with the members from the District Associations.

22. Gentlemen, who are admitted as honorary members, shall be allowed full liberty to take part in all deliberations; though they are not considered as entitled to vote; and it is expected they will give notice to the body, if they find it necessary to withdraw previous to the close of the session. The approbation of the Committee of Arrangements shall be obtained, before a gentleman shall be proposed to sit as an honorary member.

23. The Delegates, who the preceding year attended the meetings of foreign bodies, shall, ex officio, have seats as honorary members of the General Association.

24. A Committee of three shall be annually appointed, to submit to the General Association at the next meeting, a Pastoral Address, to excite the attention of ministers and Christians, to faithful discipline in the churches, the instruction of the rising generation, the sanctification of the Sabbath, and other subjects relating to the general interests of religion. The address being approved by the General Association, shall be signed by the Moderator, and printed with the minutes. This Committee shall be chosen from the several Associations in rotation.

25. The Associational Sermon shall be delivered at two o'clock, Thursday, P. M., after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper shall be administered. The narratives given by the Delegates of the several Associations concerning the state of religion and the churches, shall be given on Wednesday afternoon, and shall be presented in writing, with a view to obtain an accurate account of the principal facts, not however to prevent any more particular details which the Delegates may think expedient to add, or the Association to request. The returns, with respect to the number in the churches, etc., shall be made out according to a printed schedule of this body, and according to the numbers on the first of January past.

26. A Committee shall be appointed to receive the narratives and statements, and shall condense them into one narrative, to be submitted to the General Association and published. The written narratives shall be deposited with the Secretary.

27. A Committee shall be appointed to nominate Delegates to foreign bodies, which delegates shall, as far as practicable, be selected from the District Associations in rotation. The brethren chosen substitutes in the delegations to the several bodies in our connection, shall, at our next session be considered as Delegates to the respective bodies, if they shall not previously have taken their seats there, through the failure of their principals.

28. The Secretary shall be chosen for three years, from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made. He shall, ex officio, be the Treasurer of the General Association; and shall be allowed his own travelling expenses in attending the meetings of this Association. A Committee shall be appointed annually, to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the members of the several Associations connected with this body. The Secretary shall be authorized to pay such expenses as are allowed by this Association.

29. It shall be the duty of the Delegates of the District Associations, to pay the amount of the Assessments due from their respective Associations for the past year, whether collected by them or not.

30. A Publishing Committee shall be annually appointed, to make such extracts from the minutes of the meeting, as in their judgment it will be proper to publish; procure to be printed such number of copies with the Pastoral Address and Narrative of the State of Religion, as will give one copy to each minister of the Associations represented in this body; and such a number of copies for other bodies connected with this Association, as shall be mutually agreed upon. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to receive the publications from foreign bodies, and distribute them among the several Associations, in proportion to the tax paid by them respectively. One copy of each publication, received by the General Association, or printed by its order, shall be kept in the archives.

31. An Agent shall be appointed in Boston to transmit the Extracts of the Minutes of this General Association to other ecclesiastical bodies, and to receive their Extracts or other publications, and transmit them to the several District Associations represented in this body. And notice of his appointment and place of business, shall be inserted in the printed Extracts. He shall be entitled to a suitable compensation.

32. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to communicate proper information to the Agent in Boston, and to the Publishing Committee, for their direction.

33. Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and request some District Association to appoint a preacher to deliver the Associational Sermon, And the church of the place of meeting is desired to make preparations to celebrate the Lord's Supper during the session.

34. A Vote or Resolve to establish, alter, or annul a standing rule of this body, shall be read twice on different days, and may be debated at each reading. At the first reading the question shall be, Shall it be read the second time?

Worcester's Watts and Select Hymns—New Edition.

DR. WORCESTER'S EDITION OF WATTS' PSALMS, HYMNS, AND SPIRITUAL SONGS, with Four Hundred and Seventy-Four SELECT HYMNS from other Authors, and Thirty OCCASIONAL PIECES. This edition was enlarged, the Key of Musical Expression revised, and the Index of Subjects and Scriptures, and Table of First Lines, greatly improved, by SAMUEL M. WORCESTER, A. M. It is stereotyped in the 32mo., Pocket size,—18mo., Common Size,—and 12mo., Large size. This last size is on large type, and particularly desirable for the Pulpit and aged people. The several editions can be had in extra bindings.

☞ Those who are thinking of a new book of Psalmody, may be interested to know, that hundreds of clergymen and laymen have expressed their decided preference of "Watts and Select Hymns," as now published, to any other work of the kind;—as combining, on the whole, the most of what is desirable, with the least of what is doubtful or objectionable.—The following are examples of such expressions of opinion, and the names of many of our most distinguished clergymen and others, who cordially concur in them, might be added.

☞ The selection in Worcester is sufficiently ample and various, in subjects and metres, to meet the wants of a worshipping assembly; is replete with evangelical sentiments; is in accordance with the objects of benevolence pursued in this age; and is fitted to the various states of mind in which the Christian desires to pour forth his feelings to God.—Rev. Dr. Barnes, Philadelphia.

☞ I have no hesitation in declaring, that I decidedly prefer "Watts and Select Hymns" to any other book that I have ever seen. I sincerely wish that Watts and Select Hymns were used in all the churches of our country.—Rev. Dr. Spencer, Brooklyn, N. Y.

☞ I have always used Worcester's Watts and Select Hymns in public worship, and with increasing satisfaction.—Rev. Nehemiah Adams, Boston.

☞ In no circumstances can I hesitate a moment, to express frankly the opinion deliberately formed, that there is not now extant, nor likely soon to be, a compilation of sacred hymns, so happily adapted to all the purposes of hallowing social devotion as "Worcester's Watts."—Rev. Dr. Storrs, Braintree, Mass.

TOWNSEND'S BIBLE—Price reduced to $5.

To meet the wishes of the Clergy, and induce Students, Teachers, and others to become possessors of this valuable work, C. & B. have just published, from the Stereotype Plates, a new and handsome edition, in two volumes royal octavo, containing upwards of 2,000 pages,

At the Reduced Price of Five Dollars in Boards.

TOWNSEND'S BIBLE, arranged in Historical and Chronological order; (on the basis of Lightfoot's Chronicle;) in such a manner that the Books, Chapters, Psalms, Prophecies, etc. etc., may be read as one connected History, in the words of the authorized translations;—The Gospels on the basis of the Harmonies of Lightfoot, Doddridge, Pilkington, Newcome, and Michaelis;—The Account of the Resurrection, on the authorities of West, Townson, and Cranfield. The Epistles are inserted in their places, and divided according to the Apostles' arguments. With copious notes on the principal subjects in Theology, and Indexes. Revised, punctuated, etc., by Rev. T. W. Coit, D. D.

☞ The present work must be considered as a valuable accession to the stores of biblical literature. It has taken a permanent station among the most useful publications of recent years—Eclectic Review.

☞ On the whole, we regard Townsend's Arrangement of the Bible, as one of the most important and useful publications, which we have been invited to examine. We commend it to our readers, of every class—to ministers, to the conductors of Bible Classes, and to the families that call on the name of the Lord. It is the Bible its own interpreter.—Biblical Repository.

Publishing Committee.

Voted, That the publication and distribution of the Minutes be committed to a Publishing Committee, consisting of Messrs. J. S. Clark, S. C. Jackson, and Dr. Beecher.

Bi-Centennial.

The report on the Bi-Centennial of the completion of the Cambridge Platform was taken up, and it was voted that it be adopted and the Committee be discharged; whereupon the following resolution was passed unanimously:—

Whereas the meeting of the Synod which framed the Cambridge Platform in 1648, is regarded by the members of this Body as an event of permanent interest in its relations, not only to our present Ecclesiastical polity, but to the extension of Christ's kingdom in the earth,—Resolved, That it be recommended to the pastors connected with the General Association of Massachusetts, to notice the approaching Bi-Centennial of that meeting, on the last Sabbath in August, 1848, in a discourse to their respective congregations, on the history, progress and principles of Congregationalism; or in such other way as each may deem appropriate.

Rev. E. Smalley was appointed first preacher, and Rev. S. Sweetser second preacher, before the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society for the next year.

Addresses in behalf of Benevolent Societies.

The Association was addressed by Rev. Mr. Bernheim, a converted Jew, in behalf of the Society for Meliorating the Condition of the Jews; by Rev. J. Leavitt, on the subject of giving the Bible to the slaves; by Rev. Mr. Hovey, on missions to the emancipated slaves in the West Indies; by the Rev. Dr. Tenny, in behalf of the Colonization Society; by the Rev. Dr. Baird, in behalf of the Foreign Evangelical Society; by Rev. Mr. Bushnell, in behalf of the Seamen's Friend Society; by the Rev. Mr. Holmes, in behalf of the American Bible Society; and by Rev. Mr. Tappan, in behalf of the American Sabbath School Union.

Resolution on the Jews.

Resolved, That we have heard with pleasure the cheering news of the ingathering of the first fruits of the House of Israel in Europe and in our own country, and that we commend the cause of the conversion of Israel, and the Rev. John H. Bernheim, agent of the Society for Meliorating the Condition of the Jews, to the confidence, prayer and liberality of our churches, and to our brethren in the ministry.

Resolution on the Foreign Evangelical Enterprise.

Resolved, That the Association have heard with interest from the Corresponding Secretary, Rev. Dr. Baird, an account of the objects and operations of the Foreign Evangelical Society, and recommend that institution to the sympathy, prayers, and support of the churches.

Adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock, P. M.

Wednesday, 2 o'clock, P. M. Met according to adjournment. The afternoon was devoted to hearing Narratives of the state of Religion in district Associations, and in other parts of our country. Dr. Hewett, of Connecticut, was also heard on the subject of a new law for restraining the evils of intemperance.

Adjourned to meet at 7 $\frac{3}{4}$  this evening.

Wednesday evening, 7 $\frac{3}{4}$ . Met according to adjournment.

A sermon on the subject of Home Missions was preached by Rev. Dr. Bushnell, from Judges xvii: 13, and a collection was taken amounting to $41,75.

Adjourned to meet tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock.

Thursday morning, 8 o'clock. Met according to adjournment. Prayer by the Moderator. The roll was called, and the minutes of the preceding day were read.

Resolutions on giving the Bible to Slaves.

A Committee, consisting of Messrs. N. Adams, W. Bement, and S. C. Jackson, reported the following resolutions on the subject of giving the Bible to the slaves, of our country, which were adopted unanimously. Resolved,—

1. That every member of the human family, bond or free, has right to the Bible.

2. That any system which can exist only by keeping men in ignorance and withholding from them the Word of God, must be an abomination in the sight of Heaven, and should be so in the view of all men.

3. That the readiness of the American Bible Society to furnish Bibles for the supply of the Slaves is recognized by us with the greatest satisfaction, and we earnestly recommend that the patrons of the Society provide the means to effect this object so far as Providence shall open the door.

The Committee to whom was referred the communication of the Franklin Association, presented their report, which, with an additional suggestion relating to the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, was recommitted to the same Committee, with instructions to alter the Rules of the Association in accordance with the Report, and to present it at the opening of the next annual meeting of this Association ;—it being understood that the proposition in it to alter the Rules has had a first reading.

The Narrative of the State of Religion was read by Rev. William Bement, approved, and ordered to be printed with the Minutes.

The Committee to nominate Delegates to Foreign Bodies made the following report, which was adopted :—

Resolutions on Peace.

Resolved, That, as followers and ministers of the Prince of Peace, we deeply deplore our present war with Mexico, as inconsistent with the religion we profess, and a most prolific source of evils, especially to the spiritual interests of our country.

Resolved, That, in view of such a war involving our nation in its guilt, and occurring at the present day, after all the light which has been shed upon the wickedness and evils of the custom, Christians should make increased exertions to overspread our whole country with the pacific spirit and principles of the gospel, in the hope of thus preventing similar evils in future.

Resolved, That, in view of the war spirit that has so unexpectedly burst forth in various parts of our land, and exerted, for the time, an influence so pernicious upon vast masses of our population, special efforts should be made by ministers of the gospel, teachers in Sabbath schools, and other Christians concerned in educating the young, to guard them, in particular, against the delusions of war, and fill their opening minds with the peaceful principles of the gospel.

Resolved, That, from resolutions adopted by ecclesiastical bodies, and opinions expressed by the religious press, and in other ways, we are happy in the belief, that the Christian bodies with whom we are in fellowship, are united with us in deploring this war, and in special prayer, which we think incumbent upon all Christians in our country, that it may soon be brought to an amicable close, and be followed by lasting and general peace.

Resolved, That we fully approve the practice, heretofore recommended by this and other ecclesiastical bodies, of ministers preaching, at least once a year, on the subject of peace, and churches observing the annual Concert of Prayer for the universal prevalence of peace on earth.

Resolutions on Colonization.

Whereas the American Colonization Society has established, on the Western Coast of Africa, the Colony of Liberia, which, notwithstanding some errors of management and some unavoidable calamities, has been, on the whole, successful and useful, furnishing a satisfactory home to several thousands of free colored people and emancipated slaves, excluding slavery from the soil which it occupies, expelling the slave-trade from several hundred miles of coast, preventing wars, and promoting the extension of civilization and Christianity among the natives ;—

And whereas, though the free people of color in the United States have an undoubted right to remain in this, their native land, and to receive kind, courteous, and Christian treatment; yet, as their actual condition is in many respects disadvantageous, and notwithstanding all that they or we can do, is likely to remain so for an indefinite time to come, while such of them as are of suitable character may improve their condition and increase their usefulness by emigrating to the land of their fathers;—

Resolved, That such of them as desire to emigrate, ought to be encouraged, and if they need it, aided in their enterprise.

And whereas we are informed that several hundreds of slaves have the offer of freedom on condition of emigrating to Liberia, and that the said slaves are desirous to avail themselves of that offer;—

Resolved, That, while we reaffirm all that we have said in former years, condemning the institution of slavery and deprecating its continuance; and while we do not admit that any condition ought to be annexed to the offer of freedom; yet, in the judgment of this Association, such slaves as have the said conditional offer and choose to accept it, ought to receive such assistance as they need for that purpose.

Resolved, That it be suggested, as heretofore, to pastors and churches friendly to this work, to aid it by taking up collections in behalf of the funds of the Massachusetts Colonization Society, on or near the anniversary of our National Independence, or in such other way or at such other time as each may find most convenient.

Resolutions on Dr. Hewit's form of Statute.

Resolved, That this Association approve of the views which have been exhibited to them on the subject of legislation for the prevention of the evils of intemperance, and would commend to the attention of the ministers of this State, and of the other bodies in correspondence with us, the Form of Statutes on this subject which has been explained to them by the Rev. Dr. Hewit.

Resolved, That the Form of Petition and Statutes proposed, be published in connection with the Minutes. (See Appendix.)

Treasurer's Account.

The Committee to audit accounts reported, that they have examined the Treasurer's accounts, found them correct, and that there is the sum of $86,19 in the treasury. They recommend that a tax of twenty-five cents be assessed on each member of the several Associations for the ensuing year, which was adopted.

Agent for distributing the Minutes.

Rev. J. S. Clark was appointed to superintend the distribution of the Minutes, in accordance with the 31st Rule.

A Committee, consisting of Rev. Dr. Beecher, J. Haven, D. W. Poor, J. Crane, and G. E. Day, was raised to consider what measures are desirable to secure the attention, sympathies, and coöperation of the younger members of our congregations, and enlist our young men in the service of Christ;—to report or not, next year, as they may think expedient.

Resolved, That the thanks of this Association be presented to Rev. George P. Smith and the people of Worcester, for the liberal Christian hospitality shown to this Body during the present meeting, and also to the Choir of the First Church for their very acceptable service; and that the Rev. Mr. Smith be requested to communicate the same as he may think proper.

After spending a short season in devotional exercises, adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock.

Sermon and Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.

2 o'clock, P. M. Met according to adjournment, and heard the Associational Sermon, from Rev. A. Peters, D. D., of Williamstown; which was followed by the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, administered by Rev. Ethan Smith, and D. X. Junkin.

After singing the Doxology, voted to adjourn.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

THE past year has been one of deep importance, in respect to the progress of the kingdom of heaven in our Zion. The agitations and discussions and sifting of unsound materials out of our churches, which have marked the history of several preceding years, are now developing some happy results. Our churches generally are reported as being at the present time unusually favored in respect to the soundness in doctrine, to the proper appreciation of the divinely established institutions of religion and means of spiritual improvement, and measures to be employed for reforming society, which are now generally exhibited by our members. The diminution of the number of members in a church, instances of which are occasionally occurring, may be of as much advantage to it, as an addition of members, when that diminution is caused by a separation of the precious from the vile. The love of truth and good order, the increasing attachment to the faith of our fathers, as embodied in the Assembly's Catechism, and the high degree of harmony and mutual confidence declared to exist among the pastors and members of churches in the various district Associations, almost universally give promise of precious fruits in years to come. And equally indicative of good are the assurances we receive of an increased attention in many of our congregations, upon the public worship of God, and a deepening interest manifesting itself in the thorough religious training of the young, not only by the aid of Sabbath schools, but also, as far as we are informed, by a more careful attention to family religious instruction. We think we can perceive in the reports of the past year God's wise design, that in these days the field shall be prepared and the seed sown, and now the indications of his providence unite with the promise in his word, to assure us, that he that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again rejoicing bringing his sheaves with him. And while this work of preparation is going forward to its accomplishment, we trust that prayer will be made to God, without ceasing, for those divine influences, which like the benignant showers of heaven, will make the heritage of the Lord to bud and blossom as the rose, and so that the fruit thereof shall shake like Lebanon.

Indeed these anticipations are beginning already to be in some measure realized. For, while the greatest portion of our churches have not, during the past year, enjoyed in any marked degree the special outpourings of the Holy Spirit, there have begun to fall, in numerous instances, the gentle dews of heavenly influence, and in others, there has been awakened a spirit of earnest prayer, a longing expectation for the year of the right hand of the Most High ; and in not an inconsiderable number of churches, there has already been experienced, in a happy measure, the presence of the Almighty Spirit bringing souls out of darkness into marvellous light. Revivals of religion are reported in some of the churches in Brewster, Franklin, Hampden West, Hampshire, Hampshire East, Harmony, Mendon, Middlesex South, Middlesex Union, Old Colony, and Vineyard Sound Associations, while Berkshire Association has been blessed with a very happy and extended work, reaching in its cheering course twelve congregations, and scattering its drops of mercy upon several others. The aggregate of souls giving evidence of having been born from above, in those twelve congregations, is more than five hundred. It is eminently cheering to learn, that the spirit of God has been poured upon a large proportion of the most important Seminaries of learning in the Commonwealth which are more immediately under the influence of our denomination, among which we particularly notice Williams College, the Mount Holyoke Female Seminary, and the Young Ladies Institute at Pittsfield. Remembering these facts, and considering the stable and increasing energy of our churches, as reported to us on every hand, in the promotion of temperance, in the rescue of the Sabbath from profanation, in securing a more general attendance on public worship, in sustaining the objects of Christian benevolence, and in their opposition to the fearful national sins of slavery and war—as well as in augmenting their own aggregate moral power by the formation of several new churches, we are constrained devoutly to thank God, in view of the present aspects of our Zion, and to go ourselves and invite our fathers and brethren to go with new zeal and faith and energy into this great and blessed work of winning souls to Christ, in making our Commonwealth a great scene of the triumph of truth and righteousness, and a more powerful and efficient agent than ever, in sending forth enlightening and sanctifying influences upon our country and the world. The lights and shadows which have marked our own Zion for the past year have been a specimen of a similar state of things, in regard to those other portions of the country represented in this body. They have had occasion to mourn the suspension of the influences of the Spirit of God, and have spoken in sorrow of spiritual declension. Yet there has come up to us from different and distant portions of the land, much gratifying intelligence concerning the prosperity of Zion. One half of the Congregational churches in Rhode Island have enjoyed revivals of religion, and twenty churches in Connecticut have been favored with the same blessing; while, from all the portions of Zion in correspondence with us, the assurance has been given that, on the whole, the great interests of the kingdom of Christ are steadily advancing.

It has been cheering to us to learn, that, in respect to slavery, war, intemperance, and other great evils of the land, the great body of the friends of Christ are obtaining clearer and better views, are becoming more harmonious in reference to the wisest and best modes of opposing them, and more enlightened, resolute, and decided, in seeking to bring them utterly to an end, and to hasten the arrival of that latter day, when there shall be nothing to hurt or destroy in all God's holy mountain.

PASTORAL ADDRESS.

DEAR BRETHREN,—

In the counsels given you by this Association in years past, you have been faithfully warned against outward dangers, as well as reminded of inward deficiencies; and those fraternal admonitions, we trust, have contributed to your spiritual safety and prosperity.

From the signs of the times, as indicating the present condition of the churches within our bounds, it seems to us, that the main causes of their general depression lie in themselves. As a famine or a pestilence may arise from causes operating silently and unseen, so, we believe, a spiritual dearth and wasting may befall the Church, not so much from the crusades of her enemies, or any temptations from without, as from deplorable evils or defects within—we mean in the very hearts of her members. External assaults and perils, it is true, may prove disastrous because they are not duly shunned or resisted; whilst if all were sound and pure and strong within, they would prove no more than a wholesome and invigorating discipline. The subject then on which we are now to address you, is the fundamental virtue of Christian Love considered with respect to its magnanimity or essential greatness. By way of illustration we remark,—

1. That Christian love nourishes liberal and magnanimous sentiments in general. With respect to those who claim the praise of liberality for laxness of opinion, or for an ample scepticism rather than for a broad and deep faith, we do not admit their claim. If those who can see no attribute of God but paternal tenderness, no evil in man deeper than a misfortune, who regard much of the Scriptures as fabulous, and have little dread of error as opposed to truth and fatal to man's welfare, if such require us to call them liberal, we cannot so desecrate that noble word. In that so-called charity, whose impulses, if not indulgent to sin, are at least adverse to justice, and which imagines that benevolence is incompatible with punishment, we see not magnanimity, but partiality and gross delusion. True Christian love presents no feature thus deformed. It is, like the love of Christ, a world-wide but well-proportioned affection. You may see in it the sterner looks of righteousness and the divine law, blending harmoniously with the milder light of mercy and forgiveness. We call that mind magnanimous which embraces all the great principles of moral goodness, and holds them in their true relations—a holy regard for right and for justice, in perfect symmetry with benevolence and compassion. It is a mind that sees at once how a gospel of peace on earth and good will to men, must of necessity wage a war of extermination against error and sin.

As every eye delights in the flowers and the stars, all hearts blessing them as beautiful, so we have a like universal testimony to the nobleness of Christian love. This is the essential power and transcendent charm of moral excellence. What heart ever felt it without being strengthened in the highest virtues, or what eye ever saw it but with admiration and pleasure? How masterly in its kindness—kindness not only where there is much to win kindness, but where there is much to provoke anger—kindness as real to opponents and enemies as to partisans and friends—kindness not less in reproving and punishing than in praising and rewarding—and kindness not more under smiles and gifts than under insults and abuse. How magnanimous is love, when by a soft answer it turneth away wrath, or by some noble sacrifice ruleth out strife, and by “a serene and majestic patience,” overcometh evil with good! This is the restorer of harmony to seats of discord, and of all pleasant paths to dwell in. Without it Christian alliances, brotherhoods and sacred leagues of peace will fall asunder, as flax at the touch of fire. In its perfection it is the most glorious attribute of God, and in its imperfection the superlative grace of man. This is the beauty and the greatness which we see in the character of Christ. And if there be any similitude of the same in us, it is the enlargement and adorning of his love.

2. We observe more definitely, that Christian love disposes the mind to comprehensive views of duty. He who has a small heart for Christian enterprise and labor, will often fail to see his duty even when it lies in plain sight. He will be apt to ask, how little effort and true Christian manhood may be sufficient to screen my character from public disgrace? In how much indolence may I indulge myself, and yet be saved, though as by fire? But he who has a large heart for Christian exertions and sacrifices, will not be thus contracted in his views of duty, nor thus narrow in his dealings with his Redeemer and a suffering world. Any conscious withholding from the cause of Christ more than is meet, would cost him as deep a pang of guilt and blush of shame as an act of common fraud which brands the doer of it as a knave. The man whose heart has been enlarged by Christian love, will not measure his duty nor estimate his character by the standard of human laws and opinions, nor by the pigmy stature of some around him called Christians; but by the only true standard, the divine law—the example of Christ. He will not imagine himself holy because he abstains from things forbidden, whilst he omits to do what God commands him. Liberalized by Christian love, he will not think himself a good man for his proper acts of devotion in the sanctuary, the family, and the closet, so long as he is unfaithful in the weightier matters of justice, mercy, and the love of God. No more will he deem it Christian virtue to exert himself in any moral enterprises, whilst he neglects the ordinances of Christ and the means of grace; for he knows that Christ enjoins diligence in both of these departments of holy action. “These ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.” Have we not reason to fear that there are many in our churches whose views of duty are partial and illiberal, because their vision is dim from a scanty light glow, or else cut off in the midst by some beclouding lust? Urge them to look abroad and survey the whole scope of their duty, and they seem to look as through a long and slender tube, discerning only here and there a spot in the wide landscape. But if Christ spoke truly when he said, “The field is the world,” how can it be so circumscribed? Brethren, what is your heart’s response to his command, that you give the gospel to every creature? In what measure do you sympathize with him, in that he suffered and died for all men? And how much does your soul yearn to do for them, even beyond your ability? For in such measure, we think, you have the magnanimity of Christian love.

3. We may see the greatness of true benevolence, when contrasted with its opposite, or the want of it. Our Saviour took some pains to unfold this matter. Away with your tradition, that one may admit only neighbors and friends into the inclosure of his affections, repelling strangers and foes, and yet be a good man. I tell you that this is doing no better than those wretches, the publicans. If you confer benefits only for some requital, where is your virtue? For there is no man too vicious to do that. It is not above the philanthropy of banditti. I charge you to enlarge your affections, and love your enemies; “do good and lend, hoping for nothing again, and ye shall be the children of the Highest.” In magnanimity of disposition, you shall resemble God; for it is on this principle of gracious love, that he is eternally acting.

The contrast between this and its opposite, may be seen in living examples. The man who is wanting in Christian love, is not the man to bless them that curse him, or to be bounteous expecting no recompense. He is not a true peacemaker; for though he may advocate peace when he deems it politic, or when weary of the confused noise of the battle and of garments rolled in blood, yet sooner than make any great and benevolent sacrifices for peace, he would see every delightful land filled with carnage and desolation. And when this man is found in the Church, as we grieve to say he sometimes is, does he ever pray, “Father, forgive them?” Is his breath ever fragrant with an humble and quiet spirit, that most beautiful ornament of the inner temple? Is there in him any element of the magnanimity of Christ? So far from it, that he is unmerciful, and will hardly feed the hungry or succor the distressed, when there is no eye to see but the Omniscient. You remember the story of a man wounded by robbers and left by the way-side half dead. Why do the priest and the Levite pass by and move not a finger to lift up that bleeding stranger? Ah! he is not of their rank nor tribe, but only “a certain man,” peradventure an Ethiopian, or an East Indian—how can he remunerate them for their trouble and cost? O the cruelty of a soul without love! But when the Samaritan comes, he binds up the sufferer’s wounds, caring for no expense of oil and wine, or other means of soothing and healing. “When he saw him, he had compassion on him.” There was the secret. No matter from what continent or island the afflicted wayfarer may have come. It is enough for a loving heart, that he is a fellow-man in distress. For the unloving soul, nothing is enough but a substantial equivalent for all that may be done or given. At the sight of suffering, the one swells with pity and generosity, whilst the other is benumbed and shrivelled up by the chill of selfishness. The one encircles every human being in its tender mercies—the other knows no fellowship nor charity beyond a sect or a clan.

Now are not these opposite extremes of character, with various intermediate grades, to be found even in the churches of Christ? Have we not some poor widows who will cast in much into the Lord's treasury, and some rich men who will cast in nothing, not because they are rich, but because they are straitened in their own bowels? Know we not some Macedonian Christians who are ready, even beyond their power, for all bountiful deeds whereby they may feed Christ when hungry, or visit him when sick and in prison? But others we know, whom all the appeals that lips divine may utter, will not move to any such good works, nor restrain from plundering God and his poor. It is the amazing difference between love and the want of it. Will not the generous Mary, loving much, pour out upon her Saviour's head the very costly spikenard, and its odor fill the house, as the sweetness of her own good name shall fill all the world? But he who keeps the bag, a soul that loves neither God nor man—he will call her wasteful, and pretend to chide her on the ground of principle, saying, the box should have been sold for the comfort of the poor—not that he cares for the poor—but his real vexation is, that the avails in silver can never be clutched by his own greedy fingers. So magnanimous is the soul that has love—so griping and unrelenting is the soul without it.

4. Christian love is the main element of that greatness which lies in the true service of Christ. When his disciples were contending, who of them should be the greatest, and he said to them, "Whosoever will be great among you, shall be your minister; and whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all," he meant to define the highest style of human greatness, the greatness of benevolent serving. It is the greatness of condescension, not of arrogance—of forgiveness, not of retaliation—of comforting and blessing, not of treading down and destroying. Now we hold it as an axiom, that the essence of this greatness is Christian love. As a mind continually introverted, and, in melancholy, brooding upon itself, is thereby contracted and belittled, so the heart that locks itself up, barring out the appeals of human suffering, and keeping its affections nestling within, becomes cold and dead as by a spiritual apoplexy. But as a mind, whose energies leap forth in the study of great things, losing thought of itself in the heights and depths around it, is thereby enlarged and ennobled, so when the heart flows out in love, yearning to bless even where its blessings may be repelled with curses, then is the soul great—great in its issues and workings, but greater still in its unresting desire to do good.

Satan's principle of greatness is, bow down and serve me; and it is this that has filled the earth with violence, and piled a thousand battle-fields with slaughtered men, even since the Christian era. But Christ's philosophy of greatness we learn from the voice of his love, let me bow and serve you. This is the love which moved him to taste death for every man. This is that charity which is greater than faith or hope, and without which no vows, nor knowledge, nor zeal, nor gifts, nor talents of angels, can make us true Christians. Behold it in Christ, as he takes upon himself the form of a servant, as he girds himself and stoops to wash the feet of his disciples. O how little is heard or seen of it! When will the children of light abjure the stupendous folly of imagining that there is true greatness in wealth, unless devoted to a benevolent service? Or in power and conquest, except the power of truth and the conquest of love? When, brethren, shall the same mind be in us, which was in Christ Jesus? When shall the same love so reign in every church, as to make it first pure, then peaceable, full of mercy and good fruits? For in what, more than in this, lay the greatness of Christ, which even his enemies are constrained reluctantly to eulogize? Had there not been, in his actions and sufferings, an all-conquering love, who would ever extol his magnanimity? Every voice that ever praised him would be hushed. All the moral sublimity of his character would vanish, and even the glory of his cross would be extinguished.

We would here say a word about noble sacrifices in the service of Christ. To elevate and ennoble a creature so fallen and degenerate as man, the discipline of self-denial is indispensable. As great physical exertion is necessary for the full symmetry and strength of the body, and as much intellectual effort is requisite for the highest capacities of the mind, does not nature herself teach that man's moral recovery and advancement must be in obedience to the same law? Who of the ancient saints grew to the stature of great men in Christ, but by severe trials of their faith and patience? And who of us, without a similar discipline, can attain the same spiritual manhood? For if the Captain of our salvation was made perfect through sufferings, how can we be worthy of him, unless we take up the cross and follow him? How can we reign with him, unless we suffer? How shall we resemble him in magnanimity, unless, like the Apostles, we receive the baptism of his love, so as to count it all joy to drink somewhat of the same cup of affliction? As in nothing was he greater than in the sacrifice to which he was prompted by redeeming benevolence, so by nothing is the soul of his disciple made greater than by the spontaneous sacrifices of Christian love.

Again, Christian love is the mainspring of true Christian courage. The Christian fears God, with a holy and tender fear, in proportion as he loves him; and the more he has of this fear, the less is it possible for him to fear man unduly; and this is one of the senses in which "perfect love casteth out fear." It is true, that the Christian's Master is the Prince of peace; and yet he came not to send peace on the earth, but a sword, and every one who serves him, must endure hardness as a good soldier. But if, with the meekness of a lamb, he would have also the boldness of a lion, he must have a heart of great love. This is not more essential to Christian gentleness and forbearance, than to holy indignation and effective courage.

Moved by its power, we shall not more heartily say, "Who is weak and I am not weak," than "who is offended and I burn not?" We remember that the Christian is to leave off contention before it be meddled with; and yet he is to contend earnestly, and his life must be one of conflicts. We do not forget that the servant of the Lord must not strive, but be gentle to all men; and yet, if he strive not for masteries, and that lawfully, he will never be crowned. We will not forget that he must be very lowly in heart, pitiful, and forgiving; and yet he is to win by fighting, and his soul is to tread down strength in the fiercest of battles. But wanting in love, how can his soul be fortified and emboldened to deeds of valor in the Christian warfare? Will he ever plant the banner of the Cross on any rampart of sin, whilst he falters and quivers before a face of mere clay? What will this pusillanimous man, who, instead of putting on the whole armor of God and standing, flees from the darts and quails even at the sneers of the enemy—what will he achieve for the cause of Christ, nay, what disaster will he not bring upon it, until he has more of the magnanimous courage of Christian love? Without this, nothing will induce him to enlist in the warfare with a hearty devotion to it. Without this, he will not be duly affected by the moral grandeur of the cause for which he is called to contend. But loving much, he will feel that it is a cause in which the hosts of error and legions of sin are marshalled against the dearest rights of all good beings. Loving much, he will have some right enthusiasm in an enterprise by which not only myriads of immortal souls are to be rescued from the worst captivity, but by which the citadel of his own soul, the dwellings of the innocent and the homes of the angels are to be defended. Loving much, he will feel that he contends for a liberty a thousand-fold nobler and sweeter than was ever the prize of an earthly victor. Loving much, he will no more resemble the man who loves little, than Mr. Greatheart, who smote down the grim giants obstructing his way, resembled one Timorous frightened by the lions, though chained and sleeping. Loving much, he will catch the spirit of those brave old warriors of whom the world was not worthy, who waxed valiant in fight, and, though slain, subdued kingdoms. Loving much, he will stand in the same line of battle with the true martyrs, who encountered all dangers and forms of death, saying, "None of these things move me"—who met every instrument of torture, which tyrants and devils could invent, and in the closest fight, under the shield of faith, fell, but conquered. O ye soldiers of Christ, are you faint and afraid? What! are not your weapons a panoply of etherial temper? Are not your companions in arms, those who bore the heroic heart of magnanimous love? Have you a wavering confidence in that glorious leader who has trodden the wine-press alone—who scales before you the perilous steep—who stands before you in "the imminent deadly breach," and vanquishes your mightiest foes? Do you not know that he has infinite genius and strength, and holds in his hands all the elements of good fortune? Surely, if out of love you have entered the army of him to whom all the redeemed look up as their invincible and adorable champion, then, instead of trembling in dismay before the enemy's front, you will rush forth to the conflict, and so, by Christian love, will conquer through him who giveth you the victory.

Finally, the loving heart will aspire to a high standard of holy activity in the service of Christ. In nothing is the heavenly so much above the earthly as in the beneficent energies of Christian love. How it transforms the haughty sluggard into a lowly servant meet for the kingdom of heaven! Incited by it, he will no more linger about the vineyard when Christ bids him enter and work there, than he would mingle in the circles of the impious. As in the mother, so in the Christian, love says ever to its object, let me toil, let me suffer, and sometimes let me die for you. In the intense activity of a soul quickened by Christian love—an activity in which indeed love finds its only true and happy rest—in this we see celestial greatness. For what is heaven, but the spirit and the delight of serving with immortal vigor springing from holy love? Why do the angels abide always in the effulgence of divine glory, but because they have joy in serving? What! are they not all ministering spirits, serving in the depth and fervor of their love? Only suppose this to be subtracted from their character. To what end would be their exalted intelligence, their excelling strength and rapidity of motion? What would become of their resplendent purity, their blissful alacrity in perfect obedience? How soon would those voices, ever most eloquent in praise, be silent! No more anthems of “glory to God in the highest”—no more rejoicing at the repentance of a single sinner. No more, with swift wing and beautiful humility, would they visit the poor saint below, to strengthen him in his weakness, to succor him in his conflicts, or to comfort him in sorrow. In what then is the angel greatest, but in that heavenly love which actuates him in his eternal ministrings? Or what is the sublimest magnanimity of Christ, but that mighty love which moved him to go down through the depths of his unparalleled humiliation and suffering? Who then shall be the greatest on earth, but he, who, from the deepest love, shall be the humblest servant of all?

Brethren, let us lay the subject to heart. What is the strength and the beauty of our churches—how great the moral power they are exerting! For this is the power of love. It was an infidel prince, who uttered the memorable exclamation, “Behold how these Christians love one another!” Unbelieving and hardened as he was, he could still feel, nay, he could not help feeling some admiration of that which excites all heaven to eternal activity in goodness. And if the principalities of sin are to feel, from us, the power of Christian virtue, they must behold, in our lives, the power of Christian love. What fruit, then, are we bearing under the culture of superabounding grace bestowed upon us? What is the measure of our self-denial, our courage, and our endeavors in the service of Christ? Is the sword of the spirit so wielded by us as to be constantly aggressive and victorious? Whilst more and wider fields are opening, whilst the Macedonian cry is becoming louder and more importunate, and our means of doing good are increasing, in what ratio is our beneficence increasing? For such is the measure of our Christian love. When the enchantress of this world weaves her spells most cunningly, or sings her incantations most temptingly, do we steadfastly resist her seductive arts? If not, we want the strong safeguard of Christian love. And is not here our great deficiency—that which is the main cause of our feebleness and declension? Who of us has no need to say to his own soul, be thou enlarged and filled with that love which will assimilate thee to thy Redeemer? Let the world see among us no strife, who shall be the greatest, except in lowly serving—washing one another's feet. “Who-soever shall humble himself as a little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven.” O for that greatness which has its emblem in the innocence of a little child!—the nobleness of toiling, daring, suffering for the happiness of fallen and sorrowing men! O for the magnanimity and the blessedness which dwell in long-suffering love! For this is the magnanimity of Christ—this is the blessedness of heaven. Let us cherish it, brethren, for our highest joy is the joy of love. Our noblest freedom is that of hearts made free by love, the blissful and glorious freedom of angels and of God. Let us cherish it, that we may no more grieve the Holy Spirit, that the early and the latter rain may descend upon us, that the garden of the Lord may bloom, and the fruit thereof shake like Lebanon, that our peace may be as a river, and our righteousness as the waves of the sea. Then shall we be prepared to dwell forever where every heart and voice—where all the air and all the light is love.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

Arranged in the Alphabetical order of the several District Associations.

N. B. The columns denoting Parishes, Ministers, and date of Settlement, correspond with the facts as they were supposed to exist when the last meeting of the General Association was held, June, 1847. The number of Communicants are reported for 1st January preceding. The Admissions, Removals, and Baptisms, are designed to cover the year 1846. The Sabbath Schools and Bible Classes embrace both teachers and pupils who usually attend these exercises. In a few instances the number of church members has been supplied from the returns of the previous year—though not till all reasonable efforts have failed to secure the present number.

REMARKS ON THE PRECEDING TABLES.

THE Publishing Committee of 1847, renew the lamentation which was uttered in 1846 over incomplete statistical returns. In point of orderly arrangement there has been a decided advance; insomuch that only four of the Associational tables have required reconstructing before they could be printed. But on inspecting these tables the Committee were shocked to find the names of 103 churches, against which there stood nothing but an appalling blank! A printed circular, addressed to each of these, brought answers from the greater part of them. It will be seen, however, that in the case of twenty-two, all methods of obtaining the desired information have failed. This non-compliance with the rules of the General Association in respect to the returns, is altogether unaccountable. Every body knows that statistics of any kind are good for nothing, except as they approximate towards completeness. Nearly every Pastor confesses himself gratified and profited by the study of just such facts as are intended hereby to be developed. And even if some ministers of Christ cannot be interested or edified by knowing whether the Church is going forward or backward, gaining members or losing them, can it be that they have not sufficient benevolence to minister, in this small way, to the comfort and edifying of those who can? There is a mystery hanging over the subject which the Committee cannot penetrate.

The number of churches in the foregoing tables does not include quite all the Orthodox Congregational Churches in the Commonwealth, though it shows an increase of four during the year. The pastors have diminished three. Vacant churches and ministers without pastoral charge, have increased—the former eleven; the latter sixteen.

If the twenty-two churches not reported have an average of members equal to that of the others, the whole number of communicants in them all is 65,485, which, compared with the estimate last year, is less; though the additions by profession are more. It will be seen that the removals continue to exceed the admissions, but in a diminishing ratio.

In order to facilitate the rendering of full returns hereafter, the form of a schedule for the annual report is again printed on writing paper, and attached to the end of the Minutes, from which it can be easily separated, and filled out, and forwarded to those who are appointed to combine the statistics of their respective Associations. By a little economy in using the paper it may be found sufficiently spacious for the Associational Report.

RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

1. The Association, by which the General Association of Massachusetts was originally organized, agreed to admit, and this Association continue to admit, as articles of faith, the doctrines of Christianity, as they are generally expressed in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism; and the above-mentioned doctrines, understood by us to be distinctly those, which from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel, are considered as the basis of our union.

2. This General Association is founded on the principles of Congregationalism, and wholly disclaims ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the churches, or the opinions of individuals. Its object is to promote brotherly harmony and intercourse among the ministers of Christ;—to obtain religious information relative to the state of their churches, and of the christian church in this country, and throughout the world;—and to co-operate with one another, and with other ecclesiastical bodies in the most eligible measures for advancing the cause of truth and holiness.

3. Each District Association in Massachusetts, consenting to the principles of this Union, as stated in the first article, may appoint two delegates annually, to compose this General Association: and it is recommended, that one be appointed, who attended the preceding year.

4. The time of the annual meeting of this Association, shall be on the fourth Tuesday of June, at five o'clock, P. M., at such place, as shall have been duly notified.

5. Seven members, delegated from the particular Associations of Massachusetts, shall be requisite to form a quorum for transacting any business; but for opening and adjourning the meeting, a less number shall be competent.

6. The secretary and the minister of the church, where the Association meet, shall have seats, and act as members; the Associations to which they belong retaining the right to elect their number of Delegates in addition.

7. The minister of the church in the place where the Association meets, or the secretary, may call the Association to order and preside in the meeting until the Association shall be properly organized.

8. The certificates of the delegates present shall be read by the Secretary or by a temporary Scribe, and the Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator, a Scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant Scribe by ballot. The Rules of the Association shall also be read, and the Moderator shall open the business with prayer.

9. At the opening of the session on each subsequent day, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order; direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

10. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, shall be appointed by nomination, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

11. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing, and no motion shall be open to discussion, until it be seconded.

12. The Moderator may speak to points of order, in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

13. On questions of order, adjournment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, no member shall speak more than once. Nor on any question shall a member speak more than twice, without leave of the Association.

14. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question; viz. Shall the main question be now put. The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a Committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

15. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

16. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members to call him to order.

17. The discussions in the Association, and the whole deportment of the members shall be in accordance with decorum, with due respect to the chair, and with courtesy to each other.

18. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

19. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer by the Moderator, or such other member as he shall appoint.

20. Our principles of fraternal intercourse with all ecclesiastical bodies in correspondence with us, are that this Association, and each body connected with it, shall annually appoint Delegates to the other, which shall be admitted to the privilege of sitting, and deliberating upon all matters which may come under consideration.

21. The principle of the connection formed with the Massachusetts Missionary Society, is, that said Society may annually appoint two delegates to this body, who shall be admitted to equal privileges with the members from the District Associations.

22. Gentlemen, who are admitted as honorary members, shall be allowed full liberty to take part in all deliberations; though they are not considered as entitled to vote; and it is expected they will give notice to the body, if they find it necessary to withdraw previous to the close of the session. The approbation of the Committee of Arrangements shall be obtained, before a gentleman shall be proposed to sit as an honorary member.

23. The Delegates, who the preceding year attended the meetings of foreign bodies, shall, ex officio, have seats as honorary members of the General Association.

24. A Committee of three shall be annually appointed, to submit to the General Association at the next meeting, a Pastoral Address, to excite the attention of ministers and Christians, to faithful discipline in the churches, the instruction of the rising generation, the sanctification of the Sabbath, and other subjects relating to the general interests of religion. The address being approved by the General Association, shall be signed by the Moderator, and printed with the minutes. This Committee shall be chosen from the several Associations in rotation.

25. The several Associations shall have the offer of receiving, in rotation, the annual meeting of the General Association, and each one, in turn, shall appoint one of their number to preach the Associational Sermon, which shall be delivered at two o'clock, Thursday, P. M., after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper shall be administered. The narratives given by the Delegates of the several Associations concerning the state of religion and the churches, shall be given on Wednesday afternoon, and shall be presented in writing, with a view to obtain an accurate account of the principal facts, not however to prevent any more particular details which the Delegates may think expedient to add, or the Association to request. The returns, with respect to the number in the churches, etc., shall be made out according to a printed schedule of this body, and according to the numbers on the first of January past.

26. A Committee shall be appointed to receive the narratives and statements, and shall condense them into one narrative, to be submitted to the General Association and published. The written narratives shall be deposited with the Secretary.

27. A Committee shall be appointed to nominate Delegates to foreign bodies, which delegates shall, as far as practicable, be selected from the District Associations in rotation. The brethren chosen substitutes in the delegations to the several bodies in our connection, shall, at our next session be considered as Delegates to the respective bodies, if they shall not previously have taken their seats there, through the failure of their principals.

28. The Secretary shall be chosen for three years, from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made. He shall, ex officio, be the Treasurer of the General Association; and shall be allowed his own travelling expenses in attending the meetings of this Association.

A Committee shall be appointed annually, to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the members of the several Associations connected with this body. The Secretary shall be authorized to pay such expenses as are allowed by this Association.

29. It shall be the duty of the Delegates of the District Associations, to pay the amount of the Assessments due from their respective Associations for the past year, whether collected by them or not.

30. A Publishing Committee shall be annually appointed, to make such extracts from the minutes of the meeting, as in their judgment it will be proper to publish; procure to be printed such number of copies with the Pastoral Address and Narrative of the State of Religion, as will give one copy to each minister of the Associations represented in this body; and such a number of copies for other bodies connected with this Association, as shall be mutually agreed upon. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to receive the publications from foreign bodies, and distribute them among the several Associations, in proportion to the tax paid by them respectively. One copy of each publication, received by the General Association, or printed by its order, shall be kept in the archives.

31. An Agent shall be appointed in Boston to transmit the Extracts of the Minutes of this General Association to other ecclesiastical bodies, and to receive their Extracts or other publications, and transmit them to the several District Associations represented in this body. And notice of his appointment and place of business, shall be inserted in the printed Extracts. He shall be entitled to a suitable compensation.

32. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to communicate proper information to the Agent in Boston, and to the Publishing Committee, for their direction.

33. Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and request some District Association to appoint a preacher to deliver the Associational Sermon, And the church of the place of meeting is desired to make preparations to celebrate the Lord's Supper during the session.

34. A Vote or Resolve to establish, alter, or annul a standing rule of this body, shall be read twice on different days, and may be debated at each reading. At the first reading the question shall be, Shall it be read the second time?

B Y - L A W S .

1. An annual sermon shall be preached before the Association, on the subject of Home Missions, and a collection taken. The preacher shall be appointed by this body.

2. No report of the state of religion shall be read in public, unless it be approved by the Association from which it comes, or by the Committee of Arrangements of the General Association.

3. It is recommended to the several District Associations, to have their narratives on the state of religion, condensed, so as not to exceed five minutes in the time of reading.

4. The printed Minutes of this Association, shall be sufficient testimonials of the appointment of Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

5. It shall be the duty of those Delegates who attend the meetings of Foreign Bodies, whether they be Primaries or Substitutes, to certify the Secretary in writing, on or before the opening of the annual meeting next after his appointment.

6. The Minutes of this Association shall be sent to the individual members of the Associations connected with this body by mail, and the Chairman of the Committee of Publication, shall furnish a list of the names required to the Agents of the Association.

7. The Minutes of this body, forwarded to the General Association of Connecticut, shall be, according to their request, sent by mail, under the direction of the Publishing Committee.

8. The names of all the members of the Associations belonging to this body, whether with or without charge, shall be inserted in the published returns.

9. Every church without a pastor, by paying twenty-five cents, annually, to the Treasurer of the General Association, through the Treasurer of the local Association, with which said church is connected, shall be entitled to receive the Minutes of the General Association, to be forwarded in the same way as minutes are forwarded to members of the Association.

To the Honorable General Assembly, to be held at Boston, in and for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Jan. 1848.

The Memorial of the undersigned respectfully represents,—

That in the opinion of your memorialists, some remedy should be provided by law for the redress of private injuries occasioned by the traffic in intoxicating liquors. Your memorialists are advised, that although it is the boast of the law that it provides a satisfaction for every wrong done to private rights, that in this instance the grossest violations of those rights are entirely remediless. They cannot but regard this as an anomaly in our otherwise just and equitable system of jurisprudence. Your memorialists cannot understand the reason why civil rights should be so carefully guarded in other respects, and left so exposed in this particular. If one man should entice away a minor son or daughter, or even a servant, from the care and custody of another, the offender would be responsible civilly in damages to the person injured. If some heartless villain should seduce a daughter or a wife, the parent or husband could bring his action for the loss of service of the daughter or wife, and on his claim recover damages, measured only by the opinion which a jury may entertain of the value of chastity in a daughter or wife. But if the keeper of a grog-shop should, for the sake of gain, attack and destroy the happiness of a family, by depraving the appetite, corrupting the principles, and ruining the character of one of its members, the mercenary wretch can riot on his ill-gotten wealth, beyond the reach of the law. In this case, as in the other, a father may be deprived of the services of his son, and not only this, but his son may be thrown a hopeless burden upon his scanty means, by the unprincipled agency of another, and yet there is no remedy! If, through the mere neglect of the agents of a town, a bridge or a road is suffered to be out of repair, and a husband should thereby lose his life, the wife is entitled to heavy damages against the town for this neglect of duty. But if a person licensed by the civil authority of the same town, should get that husband drunk, and in consequence of this he should fall from that bridge, or stumble in that road, and lose his life, neither the town nor the rumseller could be made to contribute a dollar for the relief of the injured widow. Your memorialists are advised, that in all other instances, a man is supposed to intend the probable consequences of his own acts, and is responsible both civilly and criminally, accordingly. If a person should carelessly throw a firebrand into a powder-magazine, he would be liable to be prosecuted for the murder of all that should lose their lives by the explosion. If a confectioner, for the sake of gain, should sell poisoned candy to children, although he should warn them of the danger, he would be liable to their parents for the expense of any sickness resulting from such a rash act. But, if a rumseller should deal out his poison to a thoughtless youth, though well knowing that the consequences will be, loss of property, loss of health, loss of reputation, and probably, loss of life, the suffering parent can neither chastise him for the outrage, nor prevent its repetition. Your memorialists cannot account for these strange inconsistencies in the law, except upon the supposition, that as nothing but the love of gain ever induced a man to engage in such a traffic, so nothing but the same self-interest has hitherto blinded Legislatures to the evils that flow from it, and prevented their applying the appropriate remedy. But your memorialists indulge the hope, that since so much light has been shed upon the subject, a just legislation will now be adopted. They therefore pray that some law may be passed, providing a remedy for the civil injuries occasioned by the sale of intoxicating drinks, and would respectfully recommend the following, to wit :

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives, in General Assembly convened, That whenever a parent shall be deprived of the services, care, or attention of a child, and whenever a husband shall be deprived of the services, care, or attention of a wife, through the intemperance of such child or wife, and such intemperance shall have been maliciously or for the sake of gain, knowingly caused or promoted by the sale or gift of intoxicating liquor to such child or wife, by any person or persons, such parent or husband may bring an action on the case, against such person or persons so causing or promoting such intemperance, and recover such damages as to the Court and Jury trying the case shall, under all the circumstances of the case, appear just and reasonable.

SEC. 2. Whenever a wife shall be deprived of the support, care, kindness or attention of a husband, through the intemperance of such husband, and such intemperance shall have been maliciously or for the sake of gain, knowingly caused or promoted by the sale or gift of intoxicating liquor to such husband, by any person or persons, the next of kin of such wife, or if there be no next of kin, or if he or she shall neglect or refuse to bring a suit, any person acting as the next friend of such wife, may bring an action on the case, in his or her own name against such person or persons, causing or promoting such intemperance, and recover such damages as the Court and Jury trying the case shall deem just and reasonable, and the party to whom such damages shall be awarded shall hold the same, after deducting the charges and expenses of the suit, as Trustee, for the sole and separate use and benefit of said wife and her legal Representatives ; and the Court before whom the case is tried may, if they see fit, require the plaintiff to give bonds to the Treasurer of the town in which such wife may at the commencement of the suit reside, for the faithful discharge of the trust.

SEC. 3. Whenever a town shall be subjected to expense in the support of a pauper, who has been reduced to want by intemperance, and such intemperance shall have been maliciously or for the sake of gain, caused or promoted by the gift or sale of intoxicating liquor to such pauper by any person or persons, the selectmen of such town may bring an action on the case in the name of the town, against such person or persons, and recover the expense so incurred by such town.

NEANDER'S CHURCH HISTORY.

A GENERAL HISTORY OF THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION AND CHURCH from the German of Dr. AUGUSTUS NEANDER. Translated from the second and improved Edition by JOSEPH TORREY, Professor, &c. in the University of Vermont. To be comprised in three vols. Svo., of about 750 pages each. Vol. 1, containing the first great division of History, is already published. The other volumes are in press.

☞ Neander's Church History is one of the most profound, carefully considered, deeply philosophical, truly liberal and independent historical works that has ever been written.—Prof. Calvin E. S. of Cincinnati.

☞ The name of Neander has become like a household word wherever Christianity in any degree of purity prevails. The work is exceedingly elaborate, being the result of the most profound thought, the most diligent investigation, and while it is worthy of the attention of the general reader, it ought to be faithfully studied by every clergyman and every theological student.—Albany Statesman.

☞ Neander is a reliable historian, writing, as one observes, less from his heart than from the record of antiquity. No man has the reputation of having examined either the New Testament or the remains of ancient Christian literature with more scrupulous care. His work is an acknowledged standard.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

☞ There is no other work in any language to be compared with this, in its most prominent and characteristic.—Vermont Chronicle.

DR. ROBINSON'S WORKS.

A GREEK AND ENGLISH LEXICON OF THE NEW TESTAMENT, 1 vol. 8
A translation of GESENIUS' HEBREW AND ENGLISH LEXICON OF THE OLD TESTAMENT, 1 vol. Svo.

A HARMONY OF THE FOUR GOSPELS IN ENGLISH, adapted to Bible Classes and Sabbath Schools. 1 vol. 12mo.

BIBLICAL RESEARCHES IN PALESTINE, MOUNT SINAI, AND ARABIA PETRÆA. Being a Journal of Travels in the year 1838, undertaken in reference to Bible Geography. In 3 vols. Svo. With Maps and Plans of Jerusalem, Palestine, and Mount Sinai.

ROBINSON'S EDITION OF CALMET'S DICTIONARY OF THE HISTORY OF THE BIBLE. Complete in one volume, imperial octavo. With Maps.

Worcester's Watts and Select Hymns—New Edition.

DR. WORCESTER'S EDITION OF WATTS' PSALMS, HYMNS, AND SPIRITUAL SONGS, with Four Hundred and Seventy-Four SELECT HYMNS from other Authors, and Thirty OCCASIONAL PIECES. This edition was enlarged, the Key of Musical Expression revised, and the Index of Subjects and Scriptures, and Table of Fifteen Lines, greatly improved, by SAMUEL M. WORCESTER, A. M. It is stereotyped in the 32mo. Pocket size,—18mo., Common Size,—and 12mo., Large size. This last size is on large type and particularly desirable for the Pulpit and aged people. The several editions can be had in extra bindings.

☞ Those who are thinking of a new book of Psalmody, may be interested to know, that hundreds of clergymen and laymen have expressed their decided preference of "Watts and Select Hymns," as no other book of the kind,—as combining, on the whole, the most of what is desirable with the least of what is doubtful or objectionable.—The following are examples of such expressions of opinion, and the names of many of our most distinguished clergymen and others, who cordially concur in them, might be added.

☞ The selection in Worcester is sufficiently ample and various, in subjects and metres, to meet the wants of a worshipping assembly; is replete with evangelical sentiments; is in accordance with the objects of benevolence pursued in this age; and is fitted to the various states of mind in which the christian desires to pour forth his feelings to God.—Rev. Dr. Barnes, Philadelphia.

☞ I have no hesitation in declaring, that I decidedly prefer "Watts and Select Hymns" to any other book that I have ever seen. I sincerely wish that Watts and Select Hymns were used in all the churches of our country.—Rev. Dr. Spencer, Brooklyn, N. Y.

☞ I have always used Worcester's Watts and Select Hymns in public worship, and with increasing satisfaction.—Rev. Nehemiah Adams, Boston.

☞ In no circumstances can I hesitate a moment, to express frankly the opinion deliberately formed, that there is not now extant, nor likely soon to be, a compilation of sacred hymns, so happily adapted to all the purposes of hallowing social devotion as "Worcester's Watts."—Rev. L. Storrs, Braintree, Mass.

SCOTT'S FAMILY BIBLE—in 6 Vols. Royal Octavo.

Containing all the Notes, Practical Observations, Marginal References, and Critical Remarks, as in the most approved London Edition, with a Line Engraved Likeness of the Author, Family Record, etc. It may be obtained in Calf, Russia, or Sheep Binding.

Wednesday morning, 8 o'clock. Met according to adjournment. Prayer by the Moderator. The roll was called, and the minutes of the previous day were read.

The Rules of the Association were read, in connection with the second reading of the Report recommending alterations in the exercises of the meetings. After a full discussion, and a vote adopting that part of the report relating to the narratives of the state of religion, the vote was reconsidered, and the whole subject indefinitely postponed.

Reports of delegates to Foreign Bodies were heard.

Letter from the Third Presbytery, N. Y.

A letter from the stated Clerk of the Third Presbytery of N. Y., was read, reminding the Association of a Rule, mutually adopted by this Body and the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, requiring testimonials from the Presbyteries or Associations of each, before receiving members from the Presbyteries or Associations of the other. [See Appendix.]

Place of next Meeting.

Voted, That the next meeting of this Body be held in the Meeting-house of the Eliot Society, Roxbury.

A letter from the Secretary, T. Snell, D. D., was read, assigning reasons for non-attendance, and authorizing Rev. J.

Kimball, delegate from the Brookfield Association, to act as Treasurer in his stead.

Pastoral Address.

Rev. L. Sabin read the Pastoral Address ;—which was approved, and ordered to be printed with the Minutes.

Voted, That Messrs. L. Griggs, H. A. Tracy, and N. Beach, of the Harmony Association, be a Committee to prepare the Pastoral Address for the next year.

Treasury.

The Report of the Committee on Accounts was presented and accepted ; and in accordance with its recommendation, a tax of twenty-five cents was levied on each member of the several district Associations for the ensuing year.

Non-resident Church-members.

Agreeably to a desire expressed by the Old Colony Association,—Voted, That a column for non-resident members be added to the Schedule for the Annual Reports of the State of the Churches.

Designation of Ministers not in the Pastoral Office.

In answer to a question propounded by the Vineyard Sound Association,—Voted, That, according to the sense of this Body, the proper designation of a minister employed by the churches, without ordination or installation, is STATED SUPPLY.

Rev. Seth Sweetser, of Worcester, was appointed primary, and Rev. Samuel Harris, of Conway, substitute, to preach the sermon on Home Missions at the next meeting of the General Association.

Agent for distributing the Minutes.

Rev. J. S. Clark, (28 Cornhill, Boston,) was appointed to superintend the distribution of the Minutes, according to the provisions of the 31st Rule.

Addresses in behalf of Benevolent Societies.

The Association suspended its ordinary business, and was addressed, briefly, by Rev. W. B. Tappan, on the claims of the American Sunday School Union.

Rev. S. Day, on the claims of the American Protestant Society and Christian Alliance.

Rev. J. Emerson, on the claims of the American Education Society.

Rev. E. N. Kirk, on the claims of the Ladies' Society for Education at the West.

Rev. Joseph Tracy, on the claims of the Massachusetts Colonization Society.

Rev. J. Edwards, D. D., on the claims of the American Sabbath Union.

A letter was also read from the Congregational Association of Canada East, asking sympathy and aid.

Report on training the Young for the service of Christ.

The Committee appointed last year, to consider and report "What measures are desirable to secure the attention, sympathies, and coöperation of the younger members of our congregations, and enlist our young men in the service of Christ," presented their Report, which was adopted; and, in accordance with its recommendation, a Committee, consisting of Rev. Messrs. E. Beecher, D. D., W. A. Stearns, A. C. Thompson, J. S. Clark, C. Hitchcock, D. D., A. Peters, D. D., and L. Withington, was appointed to investigate the whole subject of the connection between common-school education and religion; and report to the next General Association.

-------------------------	----------

Adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock, P. M.

Wednesday, 2 o'clock, P. M. Met according to adjournment.

Alteration of the 26th Rule.

The following proposed substitute for the 26th Rule of the Association, was presented, and passed to a second reading:—
 “It shall be the duty of the Publishing Committee to receive the narratives and statements, and condense them into one narrative, to be published with the Minutes, without being read to the Association.”

The remainder of the session was spent in listening to narratives of the state of Religion within the bounds of Massachusetts, and in other parts of the country represented by Foreign Delegates.

Adjourned to meet at 7 $\frac{3}{4}$  o'clock this evening.

Wednesday evening, 7 $\frac{3}{4}$  o'clock. Met according to adjournment, and heard the annual sermon on Home Missions—which was preached by Rev. Elam Smalley, of Worcester, assisted in the devotional exercises by Rev. Messrs. F. Horton, and R. S. Storrs, D. D. Text,—“How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace.” Rom. x: 15. A collection of \$22 60 was taken up at the close.

Adjourned to meet tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock.

Thursday morning, 8 o'clock. Met at the appointed hour. The roll was called, and the session was opened with prayer by the Moderator. After the reading of the minutes, several delegates obtained leave of absence from the afternoon session.

The proposed alteration of the 26th Rule, was read the second time, discussed, and rejected.

Narrative of the State of Religion.

The Committee, appointed for the purpose, presented, through their chairman, Rev. T. Packard, Jr., a condensed Narrative of the State of Religion,—which was adopted, and ordered to be printed with the Minutes.

Ireland.

Rev. Alexander King, of Ireland, was introduced to the Association by the Moderator, and made an earnest plea for evangelical efforts in behalf of his countrymen at home.

The following resolutions, in behalf of various objects of Christian benevolence brought before this Body at different meetings, were unanimously adopted:—

In behalf of the Irish.

Resolved, That the statements of the Rev. A. King, of Dublin, have been heard with deep interest by this Body; and that we present, through him, to the Congregational Churches of Ireland, the assurance of our warm fraternal feeling toward them, and our lively sympathy in their endeavors to promote a pure and primitive Christianity in their own country, and to spread the sound and salutary doctrines of entire voluntariness in the support of religion, and of political and religious liberty.

Resolved, That we strongly urge upon the churches in our connection, to render to Rev. Mr. King their cordial encouragement, and their liberal contributions, to aid in the great and good work wherein he is engaged.

In behalf of the American Protestant Society and Christian Alliance.

Resolved, That, in view of the present interesting position of the Papacy in this and in foreign lands;—in view, also, of the statements made to this Body, by Rev. Samuel Day, respecting the American Protestant Society,—a missionary organization which seeks the conversion of the Roman Catholics of this country, by Missionary, Bible, Colporteur, and Tract agencies, speaking the truth to Papists in love;—in view, also, of the object aimed at by the Christian Alliance, whose object is, through the agency of all Evangelical denominations, to prepare the way for the spread of the Gospel in Italy and other papal countries of Europe, by securing universal religious liberty;—we do commend these Societies, in their present plan of coöperation, to the confidence of the churches and pastors within our bounds.

In behalf of the Sabbath Union.

Resolved, That we cordially approve of the object and operations of the American and Foreign Sabbath Union, as stated to us by their Secretary, and earnestly recommend, that a copy of the Sabbath Manual be put, as far as practicable, into every family that is disposed to receive it, throughout the United States.

Statistics of the Churches.

The Association having been informed that the statistics of more than eighty of the Churches had not been furnished, it was voted, (after an expression of many painful but unavailing regrets,) That the Publishing Committee be requested to issue a printed Circular to each delinquent, soliciting an immediate return.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Association be presented to Rev. I. P. Langworthy and the people of Chelsea, for their liberal hospitality during the present meeting, and also to the Choir for their very acceptable service; and that Rev. Mr. Langworthy be requested to communicate the same.

Adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock, P. M.

Thursday, 2 o'clock, P. M. Met according to adjournment, and heard the Associational Sermon; which was preached by Rev. W. P. Paine, of Holden, from the text, 2 Kings, iv : 9,—“And she said unto her husband, Behold now, I perceive that this is an holy man of God which passeth by us continually.” The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by Rev. Messrs. P. Cook, and W. Gould.

After prayer and singing the Doxology, voted to adjourn.

DUDLEY PHELPS, Moderator.

T. D. P. STONE, Assistant Scribe.

AN account of the state of religion among the seventy thousand members of our four hundred and fifty churches in this Commonwealth, must be somewhat general in its character and limited in extent. During another year, a benignant Providence has vigilantly guarded and kindly prospered the general interests of evangelical religion within our limits. Moral evils, that have long been the grief of holy men, that have marred the beauty of Zion, that have clogged the chariot-wheels of salvation, and have conduced to the eternal ruin of our fellow-men, still exist among us, and call for hearty, solemn humiliation before God, and demand faithful effort, and earnest, importunate, holy prayer for their removal. Some of these spiritual maladies may not rage so violently, or prevail so widely, or produce their terrible results so directly and so speedily, just at the present period, as they have done in some former times. Yet their inevitable tendency is, to enervate Zion's strength, hinder the conversion of men, and offend the adorable Father, Son, and Spirit. Continuing to operate, they will issue in death eternal to immortal souls.

A definite allusion to some of these just occasions for our lamentation, self-abasement, and supplication to Almighty God, may not be entirely void of a salutary influence. The violation of the Sabbath, vain and injurious amusements among the young, the spirit and practice of speculation and making haste to be rich, the lack of interest and neglect of duty among Christians in holding spiritual converse with each other and in attending seasons of social prayer, and a measure of sinful indifference and criminal unconcern, too extensive both among pastors and churches, whether Zion's captivity be turned like streams in the south, or she still continue in the dark and cheerless house of spiritual bondage—these are among our iniquities, that make the fearful barrier between us and our God, that exclude the sun-light of his countenance from our souls, and that obstruct to such a degree the waters of life and salvation from flowing through the channel of Christian hearts over the barren wastes of moral death, and along the dreary valley of dry bones. The great and general delinquency among the Redeemer's ransomed people, in not more earnestly and sincerely importuning Him to dwell in them and to reign over them by his grace, furnishes a sufficient reason to account for that measure of the withdrawal of his gracious presence from the churches, which we now experience. A failure on the part of those, who have been taught to pray, faithfully to invite, and with tears and strong desires and agonies of grief, to beseech the Divine Comforter to revive their hearts, and to convince and convert the ungodly, may fairly and justly account for his most lamentable absence from pastors, churches, and people. A spirit to welcome most heartily this Almighty Agent to the performance of his glorious office-works in the midst of us, is indispensably requisite, to secure the Holy Spirit's presence and operations among us. God will be inquired of to do this great favor. Appropriate and instructive is the prayer of the royal penitent,—“Cast me not away from thy presence; and take not thy Holy Spirit from me. Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation, and uphold me with thy free Spirit. Then will I teach transgressors thy ways, and sinners shall be converted unto thee.”

Great as may be our offences, and dark as may be the aspects of the Lord's vineyard, that we have contemplated, far be it from us to overlook, or fail most devoutly and gratefully to appreciate the rich and abundant mercies of God towards this portion of his Israel. Slow to anger and unwilling to depart from us, has been the Lord our God. His footsteps have lingered about the towers and gates of his<sup>r</sup> spiritual temple, until his head is filled with dew and his locks with the drops of the night. Loud and kind and long has been his call,—“Behold I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him and he with me.”

Joyfully and thankfully do we recognize the Lord's hand, in continuing to his churches Christian ordinances and teachers. It is a cheering omen, that so many of the ministers of the word sustain the pastoral relation to those among whom they minister, that vacant churches are so readily and promptly supplied with pastors, and that there is among ministers and people an increasing appreciation of the value of stability and permanence in the pastoral office. A readiness to extend the ministrations of the Gospel among the increasing population of our cities and villages, and the formation of new churches, wherever desirable and practicable, are cheering indications of good. The spirit of Christian benevolence has lived, and thrived, and brought forth an increase of fruit the year past. The increasing interest felt in Sabbath-school and Bible-class instruction, and the regular, numerous attendance upon this means of grace by children and parents, and the obvious and frequent smiles of Heaven upon this institution, furnish occasion for joy and encouragement. The more extensive introduction of the Assembly's Shorter Catechism into Sabbath schools from year to year, indicates a happy prevalence of a relish for scriptural doctrine, and a love of the form of sound words. A growing sense of the immense need of vigilantly watching, thoroughly indoctrinating, and faithfully training up the rising generation in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, furnishes some hope and encouragement, that a more faithful ministry and a holier church will bless the next generation. The general prevalence of peace and harmony in the churches, and the pleasing manifestations of love and good-will among brethren, are just occasions for devout thanksgivings to Almighty God. The refreshing drops of Divine mercy, which have fallen to such an extent upon our beloved heritage, and especially the invigorating showers of heavenly grace, that have watered the plants of the Lord, and started the seed of sacred truth, that had long lain in barren hearts, into moral verdure, beauty, and fruit, claim our grateful hosannas to the God of salvation, to the Redeemer of sinners, and to the Holy Ghost, our Sanctifier.

Revivals of religion, of greater or less power and extent, have been enjoyed the year past, within the limits of Andover Association, and Berkshire, Essex North, Franklin, Hampden East, Hampshire, Hampshire East, Mendon, Middlesex South, Middlesex Union, Suffolk North, Suffolk South, Taunton, Worcester North, and Worcester Central Associations. Revivals have been reported, without mentioning the number of conversions, in Conway, East Charlemont, Plainfield, Granby, Enfield, Wrentham Centre, Dunstable, Littleton, Shirley, Norton, Berlin, Holden, and Rutland. In South Williamstown are reported ten or fifteen cases of conversion, in Williamstown, forty or fifty ; in the Spring-street Church in Taunton, twenty ; in West Bradford, twenty-five, and all among the young ; in Cabotville, twenty-five, and, all but one, Sabbath-school scholars, and all under thirty-five years of age ; in West Haverhill, twenty-seven ; at Chicopee Falls, thirty ; in Westminster, thirty ; in West Medway, thirty or forty ; in East Attleboro', forty or fifty ; in West Boylston, sixty ; in Heath, fifty ; in Pittsfield, about one hundred ; and in Shrewsbury, more than one hundred. Seasons of refreshing have also been enjoyed in Williams College, Phillips Academy, Young Ladies' Institute and Young Men's School in Pittsfield, Williston Seminary, and Mount Holyoke Female Seminary. In several of the places enumerated, the influences of the Holy Spirit are still descending. That the Almighty Jehovah has revived his work and plead his cause within the limits of fifteen Associations, in twenty-seven Churches whose names have been reported, and in six Literary Institutions, gathering about nine hundred souls, reckoning only where definite numbers have been reported, gathering about nine hundred souls, at least, into the kingdom of God our Saviour, during the year, we have great cause for thank-offerings and songs of praise to God and the Lamb and the eternal Spirit.

While death has removed many of the brotherhood from their labors on earth to their rest in heaven, several beloved and valuable standard bearers among the leaders of Israel's hosts have fallen with their armor about them, and entered upon the glorious enjoyment of everlasting victory over sin and death. Rev. Messrs. Mansfield of Wenham, Bennett of Woburn, Conditt of South Hadley, and Drs. Tenney of Northampton, and Codman of Dorchester, rest from their labors, and their works follow them. "Your fathers, where are they? and the prophets, do they live forever?"

We have also been gratified in hearing encouraging reports from Ministerial and Ecclesiastical Bodies in correspondence with us, in Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, and the General Assembly (meeting annually) of the Presbyterian Church.

PASTORAL ADDRESS.

DEAR BRETHREN,—

In the counsels given you by this Association in years past, you have been faithfully warned against outward dangers, as well as reminded of inward deficiencies; and those fraternal admonitions, we trust, have contributed to your spiritual safety and prosperity.

From the signs of the times, as indicating the present condition of the churches within our bounds, it seems to us, that the main causes of their general depression lie in themselves. As a famine or a pestilence may arise from causes operating silently and unseen, so, we believe, a spiritual dearth and wasting may befall the Church, not so much from the crusades of her enemies, or any temptations from without, as from deplorable evils or defects within—we mean in the very hearts of her members. External assaults and perils, it is true, may prove disastrous because they are not duly shunned or resisted; whilst if all were sound and pure and strong within, they would prove no more than a wholesome and invigorating discipline. The subject then on which we are now to address you, is the fundamental virtue of Christian Love considered with respect to its magnanimity or essential greatness. By way of illustration we remark,—

1. That Christian love nourishes liberal and magnanimous sentiments in general. With respect to those who claim the praise of liberality for laxness of opinion, or for an ample scepticism rather than for a broad and deep faith, we do not admit their claim. If those who can see no attribute of God but paternal tenderness, no evil in man deeper than a misfortune, who regard much of the Scriptures as fabulous, and have little dread of error as opposed to truth and fatal to man's welfare, if such require us to call them liberal, we cannot so desecrate that noble word. In that so-called charity, whose impulses, if not indulgent to sin, are at least adverse to justice, and which imagines that benevolence is incompatible with punishment, we see not magnanimity, but partiality and gross delusion. True Christian love presents no feature thus deformed. It is, like the love of Christ, a world-wide but well-proportioned affection. You may see in it the sterner looks of righteousness and the divine law, blending harmoniously with the milder light of mercy and forgiveness. We call that mind magnanimous which embraces all the great principles of moral goodness, and holds them in their true relations—a holy regard for right and for justice, in perfect symmetry with benevolence and compassion. It is a mind that sees at once how a gospel of peace on earth and good will to men, must of necessity wage a war of extermination against error and sin.

As every eye delights in the flowers and the stars, all hearts blessing them as beautiful, so we have a like universal testimony to the nobleness of Christian love. This is the essential power and transcendent charm of moral excellence. What heart ever felt it without being strengthened in the highest virtues, or what eye ever saw it but with admiration and pleasure? How masterly in its kindness—kindness not only where there is much to win kindness, but where there is much to provoke anger—kindness as real to opponents and enemies as to partisans and friends—kindness not less in reproving and punishing than in praising and rewarding—and kindness not more under smiles and gifts than under insults and abuse. How magnanimous is love, when by a soft answer it turneth away wrath, or by some noble sacrifice ruleth out strife, and by “a serene and majestic patience,” overcometh evil with good! This is the restorer of harmony to seats of discord, and of all pleasant paths to dwell in. Without it Christian alliances, brotherhoods and sacred leagues of peace will fall asunder, as flax at the touch of fire. In its perfection it is the most glorious attribute of God, and in its imperfection the superlative grace of man. This is the beauty and the greatness which we see in the character of Christ. And if there be any similitude of the same in us, it is the enlargement and adorning of his love.

2. We observe more definitely, that Christian love disposes the mind to comprehensive views of duty. He who has a small heart for Christian enterprise and labor, will often fail to see his duty even when it lies in plain sight. He will be apt to ask, how little effort and true Christian manhood may be sufficient to screen my character from public disgrace? In how much indolence may I indulge myself, and yet be saved, though as by fire? But he who has a large heart for Christian exertions and sacrifices, will not be thus contracted in his views of duty, nor thus narrow in his dealings with his Redeemer and a suffering world. Any conscious withholding from the cause of Christ more than is meet, would cost him as deep a pang of guilt and blush of shame as an act of common fraud which brands the doer of it as a knave. The man whose heart has been enlarged by Christian love, will not measure his duty nor estimate his character by the standard of human laws and opinions, nor by the pigmy stature of some around him called Christians; but by the only true standard, the divine law—the example of Christ. He will not imagine himself holy because he abstains from things forbidden, whilst he omits to do what God commands him. Liberalized by Christian love, he will not think himself a good man for his proper acts of devotion in the sanctuary, the family, and the closet, so long as he is unfaithful in the weightier matters of justice, mercy, and the love of God. No more will he deem it Christian virtue to exert himself in any moral enterprises, whilst he neglects the ordinances of Christ and the means of grace; for he knows that Christ enjoins diligence in both of these departments of holy action. “These ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.” Have we not reason to fear that there are many in our churches whose views of duty are partial and illiberal, because their vision is dim from a scanty light glow, or else cut off in the midst by some beclouding lust? Urge them to look abroad and survey the whole scope of their duty, and they seem to look as through a long and slender tube, discerning only here and there a spot in the wide landscape. But if Christ spoke truly when he said, “The field is the world,” how can it be so circumscribed? Brethren, what is your heart’s response to his command, that you give the gospel to every creature? In what measure do you sympathize with him, in that he suffered and died for all men? And how much does your soul yearn to do for them, even beyond your ability? For in such measure, we think, you have the magnanimity of Christian love.

3. We may see the greatness of true benevolence, when contrasted with its opposite, or the want of it. Our Saviour took some pains to unfold this matter. Away with your tradition, that one may admit only neighbors and friends into the inclosure of his affections, repelling strangers and foes, and yet be a good man. I tell you that this is doing no better than those wretches, the publicans. If you confer benefits only for some requital, where is your virtue? For there is no man too vicious to do that. It is not above the philanthropy of banditti. I charge you to enlarge your affections, and love your enemies; "do good and lend, hoping for nothing again, and ye shall be the children of the Highest." In magnanimity of disposition, you shall resemble God; for it is on this principle of gracious love, that he is eternally acting.

The contrast between this and its opposite, may be seen in living examples. The man who is wanting in Christian love, is not the man to bless them that curse him, or to be bounteous expecting no recompense. He is not a true peacemaker; for though he may advocate peace when he deems it politic, or when weary of the confused noise of the battle and of garments rolled in blood, yet sooner than make any great and benevolent sacrifices for peace, he would see every delightful land filled with carnage and desolation. And when this man is found in the Church, as we grieve to say he sometimes is, does he ever pray, "Father, forgive them?" Is his breath ever fragrant with an humble and quiet spirit, that most beautiful ornament of the inner temple? Is there in him any element of the magnanimity of Christ? So far from it, that he is unmerciful, and will hardly feed the hungry or succor the distressed, when there is no eye to see but the Omniscient. You remember the story of a man wounded by robbers and left by the way-side half dead. Why do the priest and the Levite pass by and move not a finger to lift up that bleeding stranger? Ah! he is not of their rank nor tribe, but only "a certain man," peradventure an Ethiopian, or an East Indian—how can he remunerate them for their trouble and cost? O the cruelty of a soul without love! But when the Samaritan comes, he binds up the sufferer's wounds, caring for no expense of oil and wine, or other means of soothing and healing. "When he saw him, he had compassion on him." There was the secret. No matter from what continent or island the afflicted wayfarer may have come. It is enough for a loving heart, that he is a fellow-man in distress. For the unloving soul, nothing is enough but a substantial equivalent for all that ing difference of the promises and prospective blessings of God's gracious covenant.

2. The perpetuity and growth of the Church require the religious training of baptized children. Christian families are the nurseries of the Church on earth, as it is the nursery of the Church in heaven. Nor is there a more alarming index of its condition, than the few that tread in the steps of their religious parents. Death is making inroads upon Zion. The fathers and mothers in Israel are passing away, and a proportionable number of their sons and daughters are not found prepared to fill their places in the Church. Many of our churches have, for several years past, reported, if not an absolute diminution, at least no increase of numbers, or only a small one, to the standard of Jesus Christ. If these things are so, we have cause for alarm. We know that it is not within the power of man to confer regenerating grace. And with respect to those who deny the native depravity of the human heart, and declare that children may be made Christians by education, we have no confidence in their doctrine. But we know that the providence and the word of God afford the most explicit and ample promises and encouragements to parental and Christian exertions for the conversion of children. Indeed no labor has the prospect of so great ultimate results. Whatever may be the aggressive efforts of our churches upon the empire of darkness,—whatever success they may have in holding forth the word of life, in gathering numbers from the world, and in founding churches in foreign lands, still we would cherish the conviction that the chief hope of the Church, in respect to future generations, is in itself. The children of the Church are the young trees which are to make the future forest;—they are the nursery, which, by the budding and grafting of the tender shoots, gives the prospective character of the orchard, as “trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified.” The Church, having gathered a community, preserves what it gains. This principal is vital to the prosperity of the Church. “Instead of thy fathers shall be thy children.” Under the ancient dispensation, the Church, then a local and stationary witness for God, accepted the entail of the covenant as its great distinctive peculiarity, and relied for its perpetuity and growth, under the divine blessing, on teaching diligently the knowledge of God's sacred word to the children found always within its own families. The Christian Church has, indeed, received the distinct additional charge,—“Go ye into all the world, and teach all nations, baptizing them." But it should be remembered, that this great commission has not, in the least, disparaged the old principle of perpetuating the Church by retaining its own beloved offspring, and rearing them up "a holy seed," to be in the Church instead of the fathers. Indeed it is only by so living to Christ, in the family, as shall be the means of gathering the children into the fold of the Saviour, that we can be at all prepared to extend his kingdom among "those who are afar off." What success can we expect in the work of propagating religion in the world, if it be not propagated in our own households,—if getting money, as the chief good of life, or some other "Moloch, besmeared with infant blood," be set up in our families? If children are not brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, and the influences of the Holy Spirit do not descend upon them, what, in a few years, will be the sad condition of the churches? Can piety flourish? What will become of these unconverted sons and daughters? Their present state is sufficiently distressing. Their future prospects must be appalling. We exhort the churches to think on this subject; to think on it with a serious, prayerful attention, correspondent to its immense importance. They who now constitute the Church ought to tremble, lest at their doors should be laid the guilt of raising an irreligious progeny, and at their hands be required the blood of sons and daughters to be born in ages to come. If this gloomy issue is to be prevented, Christians must pause and consider. We commend to the churches the following counsels:—

That they beware of coveting for their offspring that "friendship of the world" which is "enmity with God,"—and of allowing them in loose and profligate habits, or in frivolous and vain amusements, only saying with Eli, "Nay, my sons, it is no good report that I hear." That they teach them to reverence the Church, as God's institution for conveying blessings to the world, "the pillar and ground of the truth,"—and to abhor the conduct of those who abandon the testimony of God, and denounce his institutions. That they seek, by unwearied exertions, their conversion, and their admission, on proper evidence of true piety, to full communion with the church. And, as the success of all human endeavors depends on the divine blessing, we suggest that in our churches, the stated sacramental lecture be considered as a special season for earnest, united prayer, for that blessing. Let professing parents, on that occasion, like Israel in the plain of Moab (Deut. xxix) stand before the Lord with their "little ones," and, while they ings, how can we be worthy of him, unless we take up the cross and follow him? How can we reign with him, unless we suffer? How shall we resemble him in magnanimity, unless, like the Apostles, we receive the baptism of his love, so as to count it all joy to drink somewhat of the same cup of affliction? As in nothing was he greater than in the sacrifice to which he was prompted by redeeming benevolence, so by nothing is the soul of his disciple made greater than by the spontaneous sacrifices of Christian love.

Again, Christian love is the mainspring of true Christian courage. The Christian fears God, with a holy and tender fear, in proportion as he loves him; and the more he has of this fear, the less is it possible for him to fear man unduly; and this is one of the senses in which "perfect love casteth out fear." It is true, that the Christian's Master is the Prince of peace; and yet he came not to send peace on the earth, but a sword, and every one who serves him, must endure hardness as a good soldier. But if, with the meekness of a lamb, he would have also the boldness of a lion, he must have a heart of great love. This is not more essential to Christian gentleness and forbearance, than to holy indignation and effective courage.

Moved by its power, we shall not more heartily say, "Who is weak and I am not weak," than "who is offended and I burn not?" We remember that the Christian is to leave off contention before it be meddled with; and yet he is to contend earnestly, and his life must be one of conflicts. We do not forget that the servant of the Lord must not strive, but be gentle to all men; and yet, if he strive not for masteries, and that lawfully, he will never be crowned. We will not forget that he must be very lowly in heart, pitiful, and forgiving; and yet he is to win by fighting, and his soul is to tread down strength in the fiercest of battles. But wanting in love, how can his soul be fortified and emboldened to deeds of valor in the Christian warfare? Will he ever plant the banner of the Cross on any rampart of sin, whilst he falters and quivers before a face of mere clay? What will this pusillanimous man, who, instead of putting on the whole armor of God and standing, flees from the darts and quails even at the sneers of the enemy—what will he achieve for the cause of Christ, nay, what disaster will he not bring upon it, until he has more of the magnanimous courage of Christian love? Without this, nothing will induce him to enlist in the warfare with a hearty devotion to it. Without this, he will not be duly affected by the moral grandeur of the cause for which he is called to contend. But loving much, he will feel that it is a cause in which the hosts of error and legions of sin are marshalled against the dearest rights of all good beings. Loving much, he will have some right enthusiasm in an enterprise by which not only myriads of immortal souls are to be rescued from the worst captivity, but by which the citadel of his own soul, the dwellings of the innocent and the homes of the angels are to be defended. Loving much, he will feel that he contends for a liberty a thousand-fold nobler and sweeter than was ever the prize of an earthly victor. Loving much, he will no more resemble the man who loves little, than Mr. Greatheart, who smote down the grim giants obstructing his way, resembled one Timorous frightened by the lions, though chained and sleeping. Loving much, he will catch the spirit of those brave old warriors of whom the world was not worthy, who waxed valiant in fight, and, though slain, subdued kingdoms. Loving much, he will stand in the same line of battle with the true martyrs, who encountered all dangers and forms of death, saying, "None of these things move me"—who met every instrument of torture, which tyrants and devils could invent, and in the closest fight, under the shield of faith, fell, but conquered. O ye soldiers of Christ, are you faint and afraid? What! are not your weapons a panoply of ethereal temper? Are not your companions in arms, those who bore the heroic heart of magnanimous love? Have you a wavering confidence in that glorious leader who has trodden the wine-press alone—who scales before you the perilous steep—who stands before you in "the imminent deadly breach," and vanquishes your mightiest foes? Do you not know that he has infinite genius and strength, and holds in his hands all the elements of good fortune? Surely, if out of love you have entered the army of him to whom all the redeemed look up as their invincible and adorable champion, then, instead of trembling in dismay before the enemy's front, you will rush forth to the conflict, and so, by Christian love, will conquer through him who giveth you the victory.

Finally, the loving heart will aspire to a high standard of holy activity in the service of Christ. In nothing is the heavenly so much above the earthly as in the beneficent energies of Christian love. How it transforms the haughty sluggard into a lowly servant meet for the kingdom of heaven! Incited by it, he will no more linger about the vineyard when Christ bids him enter and work there, than he would mingle in the circles of the impious. As in the mother, so in the Christian, love says ever to its object, let me toil, let me suffer, and sometimes let me die for you. In the intense activity of a soul quickened by Christian love—an activity in which indeed love finds its only true and happy rest—in this we see celestial greatness. For what is heaven, but the spirit and the delight of serving with immortal vigor springing from holy love? Why do the angels abide always in the effulgence of divine glory, but because they have joy in serving? What! are they not all ministering spirits, serving in the depth and fervor of their love? Only suppose this to be subtracted from their character. To what end would be their exalted intelligence, their excelling strength and rapidity of motion? What would become of their resplendent purity, their blissful alacrity in perfect obedience? How soon would those voices, ever most eloquent in praise, be silent! No more anthems of “glory to God in the highest”—no more rejoicing at the repentance of a single sinner. No more, with swift wing and beautiful humility, would they visit the poor saint below, to strengthen him in his weakness, to succor him in his conflicts, or to comfort him in sorrow. In what then is the angel greatest, but in that heavenly love which actuates him in his eternal ministrings? Or what is the sublimest magnanimity of Christ, but that mighty love which moved him to go down through the depths of his unparalleled humiliation and suffering? Who then shall be the greatest on earth, but he, who, from the deepest love; shall be the humblest servant of all?

Brethren, let us lay the subject to heart. What is the strength and the beauty of our churches—how great the moral power they are exerting! For this is the power of love. It was an infidel prince, who uttered the memorable exclamation, “Behold how these Christians love one another!” Unbelieving and hardened as he was, he could still feel, nay, he could not help feeling some admiration of that which excites all heaven to eternal activity in goodness. And if the principalities of sin are to feel, from us, the power of Christian virtue, they must behold, in our lives, the power of Christian love. What fruit, then, are we bearing under the culture of superabounding grace bestowed upon us? What is the measure of our self-denial, our courage, and our endeavors in the service of Christ? Is the sword of the spirit so wielded by us as to be constantly aggressive and victorious? Whilst more and wider fields are opening, whilst the Macedonian cry is becoming louder and more importunate, and our means of doing good are increasing, in what ratio is our beneficence increasing? For such is the measure of our Christian love. When the enchantress of this world weaves her spells most cunningly, or sings her incantations most temptingly, do we steadfastly resist her seductive arts? If not, we want the strong safeguard of Christian love. And is not here our great deficiency—that which is the main cause of our feebleness and declension? Who of us has no need to say to his own soul, be thou enlarged and filled with that love which will assimilate thee to thy Redeemer? Let the world see among us no strife, who shall be the greatest, except in lowly serving—washing one another's feet. "Who-soever shall humble himself as a little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven." O for that greatness which has its emblem in the innocence of a little child!—the nobleness of toiling, daring, suffering for the happiness of fallen and sorrowing men! O for the magnanimity and the blessedness which dwell in long-suffering love! For this is the magnanimity of Christ—this is the blessedness of heaven. Let us cherish it, brethren, for our highest joy is the joy of love. Our noblest freedom is that of hearts made free by love, the blissful and glorious freedom of angels and of God. Let us cherish it, that we may no more grieve the Holy Spirit, that the early and the latter rain may descend upon us, that the garden of the Lord may bloom, and the fruit thereof shake like Lebanon, that our peace may be as a river, and our righteousness as the waves of the sea. Then shall we be prepared to dwell forever where every heart and voice—where all the air and all the light is love.

Its practical tendencies to enlarge and liberalize the heart,—to guard and elevate the rights of the people,—to favor civil liberty and impart the capacity for self-government,—and to promote the intelligence, virtue and piety of the people, are seen and known. Its adaptation to different periods and circumstances, is peculiar and striking. It has been justly remarked, that, “such is the truly liberal and catholic spirit, which characterizes the principles of Congregationalism, that, if the millennium were to commence tomorrow, there would be no need of modifying or changing any one of these principles.” Let the children of the churches be taught to cherish its free, scriptural, and precious principles.

May the promise be fulfilled, in respect to the present generation of Christians, “Their seed shall be known among the Gentiles, and their offspring among the people; all that see them shall acknowledge them, that they are the seed which the Lord hath blessed.”

TREASURER'S REPORT.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

Arranged in the Alphabetical order of the several District Associations.

N. B. The columns denoting Parishes, Ministers, and date of Settlement, correspond with the facts as they were supposed to exist when the last meeting of the General Association was held, June, 1848. The number of Communicants are reported for 1st January preceding. The Admissions, Removals, and Baptisms, are designed to cover the year 1847. The Sabbath Schools and Bible Classes embrace both teachers and pupils who usually attend these exercises. In a few instances the number of church members has been supplied from the returns of the previous year—though not till all reasonable efforts have failed to secure the present number.

REMARKS ON THE PRECEDING TABLES.

The Publishing Committee are happy to report a nearer approximation to completeness in the statistical returns, and a more exact compliance with the prescribed method of arranging them, than on any previous year. When the documents came into their hands, it was found that only 75, out of the 442 churches in all, had failed to furnish their statistics to the General Association. About 40 of these gave a ready answer to the printed circular which was sent to them all. Of the remainder, the Committee have been able to supply, from other sources, a considerable amount of the deficient data; so that the names and ministers of only 17 churches stand in the foregoing tables as the representatives of empty space. Those who are capable of perceiving any beauty in a page of accurate and complete statistics, or of attaching any value to it as a store-house of argument and information, will be pained to see even these.

As one of the practical embarrassments occasioned by these blanks, no one can ascertain from the tables, after all the labor that has been expended upon them, what is the exact state of Christ's visible Church in Massachusetts, as pertaining to the Orthodox Congregational branch of it. He can only make an estimate, thus:—If the churches not reported are equal in the number of members to the average of those whose reports are given, and have received an equal share of divine favor during the past year, the whole number of church-members of our denomination, in the State, Jan. 1, 1848, was 66,140; of which 1,458 were admitted by profession, and 1,718 by recommendation—in all 3,176 admitted during the year 1847. There were also removed, during the same time, by death, dismissal, and excommunication, 2,900. According to the same rule of estimating, 519 adults, and 1,421 infants have received baptism; and 62,397 is the number of scholars and teachers connected with the Sabbath schools and Bible classes.

Since the last Minutes were published, there has been an increase of 5 churches, 9 pastors, 7 stated supplies, and 655 church-members; and a decrease of 17 vacant churches, and 5 ministers without pastoral charge.

It will be perceived that the "Form of a Schedule" for the next annual report (see the end of the Minutes) is furnished with a column for absent members, agreeably to vote of the General Association,—designed to show how many of the total number in each church are non-residents.

RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

1. The Association, by which the General Association of Massachusetts was originally organized, agreed to admit, and this Association continue to admit, as articles of faith, the doctrines of Christianity, as they are generally expressed in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism; and the above-mentioned doctrines, understood by us to be distinctly those, which from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel, are considered as the basis of our union.

2. This General Association is founded on the principles of Congregationalism, and wholly disclaims ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the churches, or the opinions of individuals. Its object is to promote brotherly harmony and intercourse among the ministers of Christ;—to obtain religious information relative to the state of their churches, and of the christian church in this country, and throughout the world;—and to co-operate with one another, and with other ecclesiastical bodies in the most eligible measures for advancing the cause of truth and holiness.

3. Each District Association in Massachusetts, consenting to the principles of this Union, as stated in the first article, may appoint two delegates annually, to compose this General Association: and it is recommended, that one be appointed, who attended the preceding year.

4. The time of the annual meeting of this Association, shall be on the fourth Tuesday of June, at five o'clock, P. M., at such place, as shall have been duly notified.

5. Seven members, delegated from the particular Associations of Massachusetts, shall be requisite to form a quorum for transacting any business; but for opening and adjourning the meeting, a less number shall be competent.

6. The secretary and the minister of the church, where the Association meet, shall have seats, and act as members; the Associations to which they belong retaining the right to elect their number of Delegates in addition.

7. The minister of the church in the place where the Association meets, or the secretary, may call the Association to order and preside in the meeting until the Association shall be properly organized.

8. The certificates of the delegates present shall be read by the Secretary or by a temporary Scribe, and the Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator, a Scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant Scribe by ballot. The Rules of the Association shall also be read, and the Moderator shall open the business with prayer.

9. At the opening of the session on each subsequent day, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order; direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

10. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, shall be appointed by nomination, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

11. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing, and no motion shall be open to discussion, until it be seconded.

12. The Moderator may speak to points of order, in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

13. On questions of order, adjournment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, no member shall speak more than once. Nor on any question shall a member speak more than twice, without leave of the Association.

14. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question; viz. Shall the main question be now put. The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a Committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

15. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

16. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members to call him to order.

17. The discussions in the Association, and the whole deportment of the members shall be in accordance with decorum, with due respect to the chair, and with courtesy to each other.

18. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

19. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer by the Moderator, or such other member as he shall appoint.

20. Our principles of fraternal intercourse with all ecclesiastical bodies in correspondence with us, are that this Association, and each body connected with it, shall annually appoint Delegates to the other, which shall be admitted to the privilege of sitting, and deliberating upon all matters which may come under consideration.

21. The principle of the connection formed with the Massachusetts Missionary Society, is, that said Society may annually appoint two delegates to this body, who shall be admitted to equal privileges with the members from the District Associations.

22. Gentlemen, who are admitted as honorary members, shall be allowed full liberty to take part in all deliberations; though they are not considered as entitled to vote; and it is expected they will give notice to the body, if they find it necessary to withdraw previous to the close of the session. The approbation of the Committee of Arrangements shall be obtained, before a gentleman shall be proposed to sit as an honorary member.

23. The Delegates, who the preceding year attended the meetings of foreign bodies, shall, ex officio, have seats as honorary members of the General Association.

24. A Committee of three shall be annually appointed, to submit to the General Association at the next meeting, a Pastoral Address, to excite the attention of ministers and Christians, to faithful discipline in the churches, the instruction of the rising generation, the sanctification of the Sabbath, and other subjects relating to the general interests of religion. The address being approved by the General Association, shall be signed by the Moderator, and printed with the minutes. This Committee shall be chosen from the several Associations in rotation.

25. The several Associations shall have the offer of receiving, in rotation, the annual meeting of the General Association, and each one, in turn, shall appoint one of their number to preach the Associational Sermon, which shall be delivered at two o'clock, Thursday, P. M., after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper shall be administered. The narratives given by the Delegates of the several Associations concerning the state of religion and the churches, shall be given on Wednesday afternoon, and shall be presented in writing, with a view to obtain an accurate account of the principal facts, not however to prevent any more particular details which the Delegates may think expedient to add, or the Association to request. The returns, with respect to the number in the churches, etc., shall be made out according to a printed schedule of this body, and according to the numbers on the first of January past.

26. A Committee shall be appointed to receive the narratives and statements, and shall condense them into one narrative, to be submitted to the General Association and published. The written narratives shall be deposited with the Secretary.

27. A Committee shall be appointed to nominate Delegates to foreign bodies, which delegates shall, as far as practicable, be selected from the District Associations in rotation. The brethren chosen substitutes in the delegations to the several bodies in our connection, shall, at our next session be considered as Delegates to the respective bodies, if they shall not previously have taken their seats there, through the failure of their principals.

28. The Secretary shall be chosen for three years, from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made. He shall, ex officio, be the Treasurer of the General Association; and shall be allowed his own travelling expenses in attending the meetings of this Association.

A Committee shall be appointed annually, to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the members of the several Associations connected with this body. The Secretary shall be authorized to pay such expenses as are allowed by this Association.

29. It shall be the duty of the Delegates of the District Associations, to pay the amount of the Assessments due from their respective Associations for the past year, whether collected by them or not.

30. A Publishing Committee shall be annually appointed, to make such extracts from the minutes of the meeting, as in their judgment it will be proper to publish; procure to be printed such number of copies with the Pastoral Address and Narrative of the State of Religion, as will give one copy to each minister of the Associations represented in this body; and such a number of copies for other bodies connected with this Association, as shall be mutually agreed upon. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to receive the publications from foreign bodies, and distribute them among the several Associations, in proportion to the tax paid by them respectively. One copy of each publication, received by the General Association, or printed by its order, shall be kept in the archives.

31. An Agent shall be appointed in Boston to transmit the Extracts of the Minutes of this General Association to other ecclesiastical bodies, and to receive their Extracts or other publications, and transmit them to the several District Associations represented in this body. And notice of his appointment and place of business, shall be inserted in the printed Extracts. He shall be entitled to a suitable compensation.

32. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to communicate proper information to the Agent in Boston, and to the Publishing Committee, for their direction.

33. Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and request some District Association to appoint a preacher to deliver the Associational Sermon, And the church of the place of meeting is desired to make preparations to celebrate the Lord's Supper during the session.

34. A Vote or Resolve to establish, alter, or annul a standing rule of this body, shall be read twice on different days, and may be debated at each reading. At the first reading the question shall be, Shall it be read the second time?

BY - L A W S .

1. An annual sermon shall be preached before the Association, on the subject of Home Missions, and a collection taken. The preacher shall be appointed by this body.

2. No report of the state of religion shall be read in public, unless it be approved by the Association from which it comes, or by the Committee of Arrangements of the General Association.

3. It is recommended to the several District Associations, to have their narratives on the state of religion, condensed, so as not to exceed five minutes in the time of reading.

4. The printed Minutes of this Association, shall be sufficient testimonials of the appointment of Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

5. It shall be the duty of those Delegates who attend the meetings of Foreign Bodies, whether they be Primaries or Substitutes, to certify the Secretary in writing, on or before the opening of the annual meeting next after his appointment.

6. The Minutes of this Association shall be sent to the individual members of the Associations connected with this body by mail, and the Chairman of the Committee of Publication, shall furnish a list of the names required to the Agents of the Association.

7. The Minutes of this body, forwarded to the General Association of Connecticut, shall be, according to their request, sent by mail, under the direction of the Publishing Committee.

8. The names of all the members of the Associations belonging to this body, whether with or without charge, shall be inserted in the published returns.

9. Every church without a pastor, by paying twenty-five cents, annually, to the Treasurer of the General Association, through the Treasurer of the local Association, with which said church is connected, shall be entitled to receive the Minutes of the General Association, to be forwarded in the same way as minutes are forwarded to members of the Association.

Letter from the Third Presbytery of New York.

NEW YORK, April 6, 1848.

REV. AND DEAR SIR,—In view of the fact that several licentiates, under the care of the Third Presbytery of New York, have, without proper testimonies, been received and ordained by ecclesiastical bodies with which we are in correspondence, I have been directed to correspond with the General Association of Massachusetts, and remind them of the Rule mutually adopted by the Association and the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, in the years 1828 and 1829. The Rule is as follows :

“It shall be deemed irregular and unfriendly for any Presbytery or Association within the bounds of the corresponding churches, to receive any candidate for licensure, licentiate, or ordained minister, into connection with either, without regular testimonials, and a regular dismissal from the Presbytery or Association from which the said candidate, licentiate, or minister, may come.”

Be so good, dear Sir, as to call the attention of the next General Association to this mutual regulation, and oblige the Presbytery.

Yours very truly,

EDWIN F. HATFIELD,
Stated Clerk of 3d Pres., N. Y.

DR. WORCESTER'S EDITION OF WATTS' PSALMS, HYMNS, AND SPIRITUAL SONGS, with Four Hundred and Seventy-Four SELECT HYMNS from other Authors, and Thirty OCCASIONAL PIECES. This edition was enlarged, the Key of Musical Expression revised, and the Index of Subjects and Scriptures, and Table of First Lines, greatly improved, by SAMUEL M. WORCESTER, A. M. It is stereotyped in the 32mo., Pocket size,—18mo., Common Size,—and 12mo., Large size. This last size is on large type, and particularly desirable for the Pulpit and aged people. The several editions can be had in extra bindings.

☞ Those who are thinking of a new book of Psalmody, may be interested to know, that hundreds of clergymen and laymen have expressed their decided preference of "Watts and Select Hymns," as now published, to any other work of the kind;—as combining, on the whole, the most of what is desirable, with the least of what is doubtful or objectionable.—The following are examples of such expressions of opinion, and the names of many of our most distinguished clergymen and others, who cordially concur in them, might be added.

☞ The selection in Worcester is sufficiently ample and various, in subjects and metres, to meet the wants of a worshipping assembly; is replete with evangelical sentiments; is in accordance with the objects of benevolence pursued in this age; and is fitted to the various states of mind in which the christian desires to pour forth his feelings to God.—Rev. Dr. Barnes, Philadelphia.

☞ I have no hesitation in declaring, that I decidedly prefer "Watts and Select Hymns" to any other book that I have ever seen. I sincerely wish that Watts and Select Hymns were used in all the churches of our country.—Rev. Dr. Spencer, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Wednesday morning, 8 o'clock. Met agreeable to adjournment. Moderator led in prayer. The roll was called, and the minutes of the preceding day were read.

Rev. Messrs. J. Perkins, E. M. Allen, and Lewis Sabin, were appointed a Committee to nominate delegates to Foreign Bodies.

Oregon Association.

A communication from the Oregon Association of Congregational and Presbyterian ministers, requesting a Christian and friendly correspondence with this Association, was read; and a Committee, consisting of Messrs. J. S. Clark and E. Maltby, was appointed to prepare a suitable reply.

Communication from Berkshire Association.

A communication from the Berkshire Association, relating to a different mode of delegation from the District Associations to the General Association, was read: and the subject referred to a Committee composed of Rev. Messrs. D. Phelps, Eber Carpenter, and J. Perkins.

Memorial from Worcester North Association.

A memorial was presented from the Worcester North Association, respecting the correspondence of this Association with such Ecclesiastical Bodies as are connected with the system of slavery: which was referred to Rev. Messrs. J. L. Taylor, J. Haven, and L. F. Clark.

Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

Committee on Berkshire Memorial.

The Committee on the Berkshire memorial reported: and the subject was referred to Rev. Messrs. D. Phelps, E. Carpenter, J. Perkins, John Todd, and T. Snell,—to report to the next meeting of the General Association in 1850.

Report relative to Slavery.

The Committee on the memorial of the Worcester North Association reported the following resolution, which was adopted, viz :

Resolved, That in maintaining correspondence and connection with the two General Assemblies of the Presbyterian Church, we look with deep and fraternal solicitude upon the position of those bodies with respect to the sin of slavery;—that our strong sympathies are with such brethren, in those Assemblies, as are laboring, in an earnest and Christian spirit, to put an end to this evil;—and that we desire our delegates to those Assemblies, in a decided but courteous manner, to express our deep conviction, that the rights of the enslaved, the cause of true religion, and the honor of the great Head of the Church, require those Ecclesiastical Bodies to use all their legitimate power and influence, for the speedy removal of slavery from the churches under their supervision.

Report on Common Schools.

The Committee appointed by the last General Association, “to investigate the whole subject of the connection between common-school education and religion,” and report to this body, made the following report, which was accepted and adopted, and ordered to be printed in the Minutes:—

The Committee appointed by the General Association, to investigate the relations of common-school education to religion, respectfully report,—

That they have met and carefully considered the subject referred to them, and have come to the following result:—

That there are conceivable elements of perfection which cannot in practice be combined in the same system of common-school education, in consequence of the present state of religious division in this nation;—and that consequently the course of true wisdom is to strike a balance between them, and to approximate as near to them as possible.

In order that a system of common-school education may be theoretically perfect, in addition to well-directed mental culture, there ought to be such instruction in the fundamental doctrines of Christianity as shall tend to regenerate the soul, and fit it for heaven. A wise and regenerated Christian teacher can create by these doctrines a religious atmosphere in which the scholars shall constantly live. He can cause a sun to rise, the light of which shall disclose the true moral aspects and relations of all things. This he can do by prayers, by hymns and music, and by the proper use of analogies in science, as well as by direct admonition and instruction. No system of education is perfect, in which this is not done.

At the same time, it is essential to the perfection of such a system, that it be adapted to educate the whole community, so as not to leave large masses of mind to grow up in ignorance and vice. This element of a perfect system cannot be secured without the intervention of government, for many are too poor to educate their children if the state does not provide free schools; and sectarian divisions, especially in rural districts, would render parochial schools exceedingly feeble, and would so reduce the salary of teachers that few or none competent for the work would be willing to devote themselves to the employment.

But if the schools are sustained by government, in the present state of religious divisions, it is impossible to give such full instruction in all the fundamental doctrines of Christianity as has been supposed, without incurring the charge and the odium of sectarianism.

Nor can it be otherwise, until the existing divisions on the subject of religion shall cease.

In this state of things, the course adopted by the government of this State, is to introduce into the schools the reading of the Bible, and such instruction in morals and the practical duties and virtues of Christianity, as can be communicated without incurring the charge of sectarianism; leaving to the family, the pulpit, and the Sabbath school, that more full doctrinal instruction which parents may desire.

The benefits of this system, in offering instruction to all, are so many and so great, that its religious deficiencies, especially since they can be otherwise supplied, do not seem to be a sufficient reason for abandoning it, and adopting in place of it a system of denominational and parochial schools.

If, however, we were to recommend any system to take its place, it would be that of private schools formed by the union of evangelical Christians of different denominations, in which all the fundamental doctrines of Christianity could be taught.

It is, however, a great evil to withdraw from the established system of common schools the interest and influence of the religious part of the community.

On the whole, it seems to be the wisest course, at least for the present, to do all in our power to perfect the existing system of common schools, by a deep and watchful interest in it, and by endeavoring to elevate and perfect, so far as it can be done, not only its intellectual, but also its moral and religious, character.

If, after a full and faithful experiment, it should at last be seen that fidelity to the religious interests of our children forbids a further patronage of the system, we can unite with other evangelical Christians in the establishment of private schools, in which more full doctrinal religious instruction shall be possible.

But until we are forced to this result, it seems to us desirable that the religious community do all in their power to give an opportunity for a full and fair experiment of the existing system, including not only the common schools, but also the normal schools, and the Board of Education.

In conclusion, we beg leave to report the following resolutions, as expressive of the views of the Association.

1. Resolved, That we regard the universal education of the community as essential to the permanent success of our great experiment of self-government, and the maintenance of a pure and spiritual Christianity; and that we highly appreciate the enlarged and benevolent views of our Puritan ancestors, in establishing our present system of free schools with reference to these ends.

2. That, notwithstanding its inevitable religious deficiency, we have as yet seen no sufficient reasons why the present system should be abandoned for any other that has been proposed.

3. That we recommend to ministers and churches to take a deep interest in this system, and to do all that can properly be done to infuse into it that truly religious spirit which is essential to its permanent success.

4. That in the Massachusetts Board of Education, as constituted by the Legislature, we recognize the elements of a power that may impart great efficiency to the system, in working out the results which its founders contemplated.

5. That this, like all other power committed to human hands, is liable to abuse ; and that the Board therefore, like every other similar organization, should attract the constant and friendly vigilance of all whose interests are thus entrusted.

Rev. Dr. Baird, Secretary of the American and Foreign Christian Union, made a statement of the doings and wants of that Society.

Adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock, P. M.

Wednesday, 2 o'clock, P. M. Met according to adjournment ; engaged in devotional services ; and listened to narratives of the state of Religion in Massachusetts, and in other parts of the country represented by foreign delegates.

Adjourned, after prayer by Rev. Dr. Bullard, to meet at 7 $\frac{3}{4}$  o'clock, this evening.

Wednesday evening, 7 $\frac{3}{4}$  o'clock. Met according to adjournment, and heard the Annual Sermon on Home Missions, which was preached by Rev. S. Sweetser of Worcester, assisted in the devotional exercises by Rev. J. Burt, of Connecticut. Text, —“ And Paul, as his manner was, went in unto them, and three Sabbath days reasoned with them out of the Scriptures.” Acts xvii : 2. A collection of \$35 04 was taken up at the close.

Adjourned to meet to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

THE General Association of Massachusetts, in the review of the gracious dealings of God, with the ministers and churches of their connection during the year now closing, would renewedly record their grateful testimony to his covenant, faithfulness, and mercy. The noble vine which his Providence brought out and planted upon these shores, amid so many signs of a new and more glorious demonstration of his saving power, and which, with the same view, he has never failed to nourish and defend through the perilous vicissitudes of many generations, we behold under his continued favor, extending its branches to our remotest borders, and abounding in the fruits which are for the healing of the nations. When error has come in like a flood, the Spirit of the Lord has lifted up a standard against it; and, although some of the ancient churches have slidden from their foundations, yet the great body of them have been only strengthened and enlarged, while many have been added to their number; so that the evangelical influence of the churches of Massachusetts, at home and abroad, was never so great as at this day. Their efficiency in the work of disseminating the Gospel has been evinced, even the past year, by a steady increase in almost all the forms of benevolent action, notwithstanding the period has been one of great depression in the pecuniary prosperity of the people.

In respect to all the outward signs of strength and visible means of edification, the churches of the State may be regarded, at the present time, as enjoying much of the favor of Christ. No causes of general agitation and distraction are, at present, rife among them; and, with very few exceptions, they are exempt from private disturbances of their harmony and peace. Serious difficulties, of long standing, have, in some instances been happily composed. Four new churches have been organized during the year; and a number of new meeting-houses for these and others have been erected. It is believed that there is a tendency towards greater stability in the pastoral relation, although much improvement in this particular remains to be desired. One Association, which is so fortunate as to have two pastors in their body who have celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their settlement with the people whom they continue to serve, is able to make out an average of seventeen years for the extent of the pastoral relation among them. This, however, is an extraordinary example.

It is gratifying to learn from all parts of the State that an unabating zeal is manifested in improving the important advantages of Sabbath School instruction. Most of the schools have connected with them Bible classes for young persons; and, in many instances, for adults. The Association are pleased to notice that in an increasing number, from year to year, the children and youth are taught the Assembly's Shorter Catechism.

It is also gratifying to know, that, as an antidote to the specious and disorganizing doctrines which are so industriously disseminated through various channels at this day, some of our churches have been led to give more scrupulous attention to the duties of household instruction and discipline,—to family government and religion. From others, however, it is sad to hear the complaint reiterated, that these important duties are much neglected.

The reports from the different Associations, with regard to revivals of religion the present year, are generally meagre. Much the largest number report no revival within their bounds; and others but one or two. It is worthy of grateful notice, however, that individual instances of conversion, making in the aggregate a goodly number, have been reported from places where no special revival has been enjoyed. Many churches have been gently and silently refreshed by the presence of the Holy Spirit, and have rejoiced over some sinners brought to repentance, where the impression of the work has not become general upon the congregation. Such has been the case with several churches in Boston; in connection with which it is hoped that about one hundred conversions in all have taken place. From eight Associations in the State, a few revivals of more special interest and power have been reported. Within the bounds of Hampden East, the number has been greater than in any other section ; and as many as one hundred conversions have there been enumerated.

In regard to attendance on public worship, the keeping of the Sabbath, the cause of temperance, and public morals generally, in the State, there is little to distinguish the past year from that which preceded it ; or the churches of Massachusetts from those around them in New England at the present time. The connection of all these virtues with the interests of religion and the salvation of the soul is deeply felt by the ministers and members of our churches ; and it is believed that they are generally disposed to meet their own proper responsibilities in regard to them.

The sins and evils which are more generally complained of among us, are a prevailing spirit of worldliness on the part of the professing followers of Christ, and a passion for gay pleasures and exciting amusements on the part of the unconverted members of our congregations, which often seem to render the ministrations of the sanctuary in a great measure unfruitful. Into connection with some of the more disguised and equivocal forms of the latter evil, many professors of religion likewise allow themselves to be drawn, to the injury of their own spiritual life, and of their own distinctive Christian influence. For these things, so far as they exist in the churches, the Spirit of God, if not finally grieved away, will ultimately bring upon us open rebuke and deep humiliation.

The colleges in the State have continued in the enjoyment of their wonted prosperity. Williams and Amherst Colleges have been visited during the year with the special effusions of the Spirit. The Theological Seminary at Andover shares in an increasing measure the confidence and patronage of the churches ; and sends out a goodly number from year to year, who are ready to go into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. Yet it is matter of deep concern that the number of young men preparing for the ministry, in this and other seminaries of the land, is so greatly inadequate to supply the rapidly increasing want of educated, evangelical ministers for our country and the world.

Six of our beloved fathers and brethren in the ministry have been removed by death during the year, viz. :—Rev. Benjamin Wood of Upton, Rev. Samuel Gay of Hubbardston, Rev. Pomeroy Belden of Amherst, East Parish, Rev. Malachi Bulard of Winchendon, Rev. Oliver Cobb of South Rochester, and Rev. David Palmer of Townshend.

The General Association have been much gratified with the intelligence received from most of the other ministerial and ecclesiastical bodies, with whom they are in correspondence, by their delegates in attendance at this meeting, showing how remarkably God is carrying on his work, providentially and by his Holy Spirit, in every part of our widely extended country.

The infant churches in the far West particularly seem to have been the most favored, during the year, of any in the whole land, with powerful revivals of religion. Thrice happy in the reception of such cheering communications, is that peculiar intimacy of kindred and communion subsisting between us and these distant regions of our American Zion, which opens the way even now to that mighty tide of sympathy and joy which is destined soon to roll its rapturous hosanna round the earth.

PASTORAL ADDRESS.

DEAR BRETHREN,—

The General Association, in this their annual address to the churches under their care, desire, not as a matter of form, but with all sincerity and earnestness, to exhort you in relation to some things of vital importance to your spiritual welfare. We would “stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance,” not in a complaining spirit but with Christian fidelity and love; and we pray you brethren to give heed to our exhortation. It is a mournful truth that through sin our Zion is shorn of much of her strength; that there are evils existing among us which mar her beauty, and waste her life. And while we call attention to some of these, we would not forget to render thanks to the Great Head of the Church, that he has not wholly forsaken his people, but that portions of his heritage have been refreshed with the dews of heavenly grace the past year. Some parts of our Zion have been as a watered garden; and yet there is great occasion to mourn the hidings of God’s face, and the absence of his Spirit from most of the churches in our connection. Great spiritual barrenness prevails, and multitudes of individual professors are like the heath in the desert. They do not see when good cometh.

We would, in this address, lay the axe at the root of these evils; or at least suggest that course which, if faithfully pursued, will restore vital energy to the waning piety of Christians, and lead them to imitate the ardor and devotion of the apostle to the gentiles, who, “forgetting the things that are behind, and reaching forth unto the things that are before, pressed towards the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.”

We are persuaded that a more diligent and prayerful study of the word of God, both by Pastors and private Christians, would tend in an eminent degree to produce this result.

This will be the subject of our exhortation.

We are convinced, from careful observation, that among both pastors and churches, there is a neglect, and we fear a growing neglect of the Scriptures. We do not mean to assert the universal, but the extensive, neglect of the Word of God as a matter of devotional study. By a devotional study of the Scriptures, we mean such a contemplation of their instructions, united with fervent prayer to God for the teachings of his Spirit, as will improve the heart. Such study brings the heart into communion with truth. It is directly adapted to excite holy emotion, and lead the Christian to rejoice at the Word of God as those that find great spoil.

There are various causes that have conspired to produce this neglect of the Bible.

The active, bustling spirit of the age is at war with a calm, patient, prayerful, and daily study of the Scriptures. The devotional reading and contemplation of God's word can be pursued to advantage only in retirement, but retirement has few attractions for the multitude in this day. The piety of the Church, in gaining activity, has lost too much of the contemplative character, and by this has suffered.

The multiplicity of books, good and bad, and their extensive circulation, contribute not a little to this neglect. Even Sabbath-school libraries, composed mostly of useful and good books, have a tendency to draw away attention from the Word of God, especially upon the Sabbath, when few books save the Bible should engage the thoughts of Christians.

The almost countless-number of newspapers and magazines, religious, political, and miscellaneous, representing every shade of opinion in the world, and furnishing a daily, weekly, or monthly report of entertainment or instruction, some of it of a most deleterious character, operates to exclude the Word of God from the place which it should hold. It is not unfrequently the case that the religious newspaper with all its secular news, its agricultural instruction, and its price current, forms the chief reading on the Sabbath of some, if not of many, who are members of the Church. We by no means intend by these remarks to undervalue the religious newspaper. It has done, and is doing, a great and good work; but it must not usurp the place of God's Word. There are instances in which it has done this, and hence our remark.

This neglect of the Scriptures is detrimental to all the interests of the soul. "For this cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep." The spiritual part of man needs sustenance in order to thrive, as much as the animal. And it must have that which is suited to its condition. The Scriptures furnish that aliment for the soul which its nature and circumstances demand. "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

It is true that communion with the thoughts of those who have communed most with the Word of God is profitable to Christians. And in calling attention to the Bible as a neglected book, we would not disparage the writings of such men as Baxter, Doddridge, Owen, Leighton, and others of like spirit. Their works are of great worth and may be studied to spiritual advantage. But the chief excellence of their writings consists in their conformity to the spirit and instructions of the Scriptures. But no books, however excellent, can take the place of the Bible. All of human origin partake of human imperfection; but the Word of God is pure, unmixed truth, and he who communes frequently and deeply with revealed truth will be a man of spiritual understanding and strength.

The diligent and prayerful study of the Scriptures is necessary to the growth and strength of spiritual life. "As newborn babes, desire the sincere milk of the word that ye may grow thereby." There is more than an intimation in this counsel of Peter, that the word must be read or heard, and inwardly digested, in order that it may be the means of nourishing the spiritual life. The growth and strength of spiritual life consists in an increase of knowledge, wisdom and goodness. These are the elements of sanctification. But no soul can grow in knowledge, wisdom and goodness without an intimate and frequent communion with the Word of God. "Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth," is the prayer of Christ for his disciples and for all who through them should believe on him. And as an explanation of the method by which the process of sanctification is carried on, the apostle Peter, in writing to his brethren, says,—“Ye have purified your souls, in obeying the truth, through the Spirit.” “Thy word,” says the Psalmist, “have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against thee.” “By the word of thy lips I have kept me from the paths of the destroyer.” As sanctification is a progressive work, there is a necessity for frequent communion with that Word which feeds the soul with knowledge, makes men wise unto salvation, and transforms them into the likeness of Him who is good and doeth good.

Such a study of the Word of God as we urge would beget a love of truth, and correct that morbid craving for excitement which prevails to a great extent. It is this diseased state of mind which renders the Word of God insipid to so many. They are not edified and interested unless excited. And as the Word of God tends rather to produce an humble, calm, though elevated state of mind, to kindle a steady flame of devotion, and not a conflagration of passion; as it is like the light of the sun and not the flash of a meteor, it has few attractions for them. A return to the frequent and prayerful study of the Scriptures will produce a healthy action of the mind and heart. It will cure this fever of the soul.

Again:—Such study would check a worldly spirit. The prevalence of this spirit is, at the present time, a prominent evil among Christians. In some of its forms, the spirit of the world has great power over the Church. Professed Christians conform themselves to the customs of the world, engage earnestly in its pursuits, and seek with great zeal its rewards. Nothing is more detrimental to the growth or even to the existence of spiritual life than conformity to the world. It chills the heart of piety, brings a blight upon the plants of righteousness, poisons every principle of goodness, and places the soul in direct opposition to God. “The friendship of the world is enmity with God; whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God.” The study of the Scriptures, in the manner recommended, by bringing the heart into communion with objects elevated and pure, would so raise the soul above the vanities of earth, as in a great measure to save the heart from being deluded by its promises or mocked by its hopes. He who meditates daily in the Word of God, has bread to eat that the world knows not of. The mind and heart are fed and satisfied, and do not hunger for the delights of earth. And because “his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night, he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.”

In short, there is no evil existing in the hearts or lives of Christians which a daily, prayerful, and earnest study of God’s Word will not tend to correct; there is not a spiritual joy of which the heart is capable, that such study will not inspire.

It is the only sovereign antidote to error. A prayerful acquaintance and communion with God's word is the best preparation for meeting the deadly influence of the sceptical, philosophical speculations of the times. The diligent student of the Bible is armed at all points; for the Scriptures furnish every weapon needed both for offence and defence.

The Church needs in this day, as a pre-requisite to the part she is called to take in the conquest of the world, a well-proportioned, living, consolidated piety. Such a piety must be deeply rooted in the Word of God, and must draw its life and nourishment from that Word. It is not the sickly sentimentalism, that passes for piety with many, that will convert the world. Such a piety is the religion of passion and not of principle,—of the imagination and not of the heart. The piety needed must have symmetry and strength, and these must come from the Word of God, and not from dreams and philosophical speculations.

We might warn you against the influence of certain popular notions of the present time, but it is not needed. The prayerful study of the Scriptures will prove an effectual antidote to all that is delusive and destructive. The Word of God is a light shining in a dark place; and you need but to give heed to this Word to be guided through all the labyrinths of sin and error into the clear and perfect day.

While we thus exhort and warn you, dear brethren, with regard to your own spiritual welfare, suffer us to remind you of the duty you owe your children in relation to the word of God. You must teach them by example and by precept to reverence the Scriptures. You cannot, without neglecting an imperative duty, leave their religious instruction to the Sabbath school. You must "bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." See that they read the Scriptures and understand them. Watch strictly the books that they gain access to, and banish from your dwellings every thing of evil tendency. Be like the father of the faithful of whom God declared, "I know him, that he will command his children and household after him;" and as a consequence he added, "and they shall keep the way of the Lord to do justice and judgment."

"And now brethren we commend you to God and the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified.

"Unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our Saviour be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen."

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

Arranged in the Alphabetical order of the several District Associations.

N. B. The columns denoting Parishes, Ministers, and date of Settlement, correspond with the facts as they were supposed to exist when the last meeting of the General Association was held, June, 1849. The number of Communicants is reported for 1st January preceding. The Admissions, Removals, and Baptisms, are designed to cover the year 1848. The Sabbath Schools and Bible Classes embrace both teachers and pupils who usually attend these exercises. In a few instances the number of church members has been supplied from the returns of the previous year,—though not till all reasonable efforts have failed to secure the present number.

REMARKS ON THE PRECEDING TABLES.

The Publishing Committee are able to report only an approximation toward an accurate statistical return of our Churches. While some few of the tables sent in from the local Associations were full and complete, even to the footing up of the totals at the bottom of the columns, more were very defective; and some of them ridiculously meagre. After some delay, occasioned by sending out seventy-four circulars to churches which were unreported, to only thirty of which replies were obtained, the Committee were obliged to proceed with what information could be procured from other quarters. Some thirty churches are reported, in respect to the number of members, as they stood in the tables last year. A few, from whom no returns had been received for two years, are left in blank. It is much to be lamented, that there should be so much remissness in this matter. Every minister, having the care of a church, ought to have the items required in the tables, were it only for his own knowledge and satisfaction. And having those items, without which he cannot know the actual state of his flock, it is but little trouble to send them in to the General Association. No minister who neglects to do this, ought to regard himself as a workman needing not to be ashamed. He is certainly no business man.

This year reports two churches more than the last. There is quite a number of churches in the Commonwealth, some of them among the largest, as at Nantucket, South Woburn, and others, which are not enrolled in any of the tables. If the members of these, and the other unreported churches, could be ascertained, they would swell the totals on the general summary. The whole number of our church-members must exceed sixty-seven thousand.

The statistical returns this year contain, for the first time, a column for non-resident members. By another year, it is to be hoped that this column will not be left so meagrely supplied with numerals as it is in most of the returns, provided there are any such members to report.

The average length of the pastoral office is eleven years. The average number of members to a church is one hundred and fifty.

A list of the Scribes of the several district Associations is this year added to the Minutes for the first time. If the times of all the stated meetings of these bodies could be given, it would be a great convenience to persons having business to transact with them. It is to be hoped that this may be accomplished by another year.

RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

1. The Association, by which the General Association of Massachusetts was originally organized, agreed to admit, and this Association continue to admit, as articles of faith, the doctrines of Christianity, as they are generally expressed in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism; and the above-mentioned doctrines, understood by us to be distinctly those, which from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel, are considered as the basis of our union.

2. This General Association is founded on the principles of Congregationalism, and wholly disclaims ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the churches, or the opinions of individuals. Its object is to promote brotherly harmony and intercourse among the ministers of Christ;—to obtain religious information relative to the state of their churches, and of the christian church in this country, and throughout the world;—and to co-operate with one another, and with other ecclesiastical bodies, in the most eligible measures for advancing the cause of truth and holiness.

3. Each District Association in Massachusetts, consenting to the principles of this Union, as stated in the first article, may appoint two delegates annually, to compose this General Association: and it is recommended, that one be appointed, who attended the preceding year.

4. The time of the annual meeting of this Association, shall be on the fourth Tuesday of June, at five o'clock, P. M., at such place, as shall have been duly notified.

5. Seven members, delegated from the particular Associations of Massachusetts, shall be requisite to form a quorum for transacting any business; but for opening and adjourning the meeting, a less number shall be competent.

6. The secretary, and the minister of the church where the Association meet, shall have seats, and act as members; the Associations to which they belong retaining the right to elect their number of Delegates in addition.

7. The minister of the church in the place where the Association meets, or the secretary, may call the Association to order, and preside in the meeting until the Association shall be properly organized.

8. The certificates of the delegates present shall be read by the Secretary, or by a temporary Scribe; and the Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator, a Scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant Scribe, by ballot. The Rules of the Association shall also be read, and the Moderator shall open the business with prayer.

9. At the opening of the session on each subsequent day, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order; direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

10. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, shall be appointed by nomination, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

11. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing, and no motion shall be open to discussion, until it be seconded.

12. The Moderator may speak to points of order, in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

13. On questions of order, adjournment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, no member shall speak more than once. Nor on any question shall a member speak more than twice, without leave of the Association.

14. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question; viz. Shall the main question be now put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate, and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a Committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

15. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

16. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members to call him to order.

17. The discussions in the Association, and the whole deportment of the members, shall be in accordance with decorum, with due respect to the chair, and with courtesy to each other.

18. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

19. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer by the Moderator, or such other member as he shall appoint.

20. Our principles of fraternal intercourse with all ecclesiastical bodies in correspondence with us are, that this Association, and each body connected with it, shall annually appoint Delegates to the other, which shall be admitted to the privilege of sitting, and deliberating upon all matters which may come under consideration.

21. The principle of the connection formed with the Massachusetts Missionary Society is, that said Society may annually appoint two delegates to this body, who shall be admitted to equal privileges with the members from the District Associations.

22. Gentlemen, who are admitted as honorary members, shall be allowed full liberty to take part in all deliberations; though they are not considered as entitled to vote; and it is expected they will give notice to the body, if they find it necessary to withdraw previous to the close of the session. The approbation of the Committee of Arrangements shall be obtained, before a gentleman shall be proposed to sit as an honorary member.

23. The Delegates, who the preceding year attended the meetings of foreign bodies, shall, ex officio, have seats as honorary members of the General Association.

24. A Committee of three shall be annually appointed, to submit to the General Association at the next meeting, a Pastoral Address, to excite the attention of ministers and Christians to faithful discipline in the churches, the instruction of the rising generation, the sanctification of the Sabbath, and other subjects relating to the general interests of religion. The address being approved by the General Association, shall be signed by the Moderator, and printed with the minutes. This Committee shall be chosen from the several Associations in rotation.

25. The several Associations shall have the offer of receiving, in rotation, the annual meeting of the General Association, and each one, in turn, shall appoint one of their number to preach the Associational Sermon, which shall be delivered at two o'clock, Thursday, P. M., after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper shall be administered. The narratives given by the Delegates of the several Associations concerning the state of religion and the churches, shall be given on Wednesday afternoon, and shall be presented in writing, with a view to obtain an accurate account of the principal facts, not however to prevent any more particular details which the Delegates may think expedient to add, or the Association to request. The returns, with respect to the number in the churches, etc., shall be made out according to a printed schedule of this body, and according to the numbers on the first of January past.

26. A Committee shall be appointed to receive the narratives and statements, and shall condense them into one narrative, to be submitted to the General Association and published. The written narratives shall be deposited with the Secretary.

27. A Committee shall be appointed to nominate Delegates to foreign bodies, which delegates shall, as far as practicable, be selected from the District Associations in rotation. The brethren chosen substitutes in the delegations to the several bodies in our connection, shall, at our next session be considered as Delegates to the respective bodies, if they shall not previously have taken their seats there, through the failure of their principals.

28. The Secretary shall be chosen for three years, from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made. He shall, ex officio, be the Treasurer of the General Association; and shall be allowed his own travelling expenses in attending the meetings of this Association.

A Committee shall be appointed annually, to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the members of the several Associations connected with this body. The Secretary shall be authorized to pay such expenses as are allowed by this Association.

29. It shall be the duty of the Delegates of the District Associations, to pay the amount of the Assessments due from their respective Associations for the past year, whether collected by them or not.

30. A Publishing Committee shall be annually appointed, to make such extracts from the minutes of the meeting, as in their judgment it will be proper to publish; procure to be printed such number of copies, with the Pastoral Address and Narrative of the State of Religion, as will give one copy to each minister of the Associations represented in this body; and such a number of copies for other bodies connected with this Association, as shall be mutually agreed upon. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to receive the publications from foreign bodies, and distribute them among the several Associations, in proportion to the tax paid by them respectively. One copy of each publication, received by the General Association, or printed by its order, shall be kept in the archives.

31. An Agent shall be appointed in Boston to transmit the Extracts of the Minutes of this General Association to other ecclesiastical bodies, and to receive their Extracts or other publications, and transmit them to the several District Associations represented in this body. And notice of his appointment and place of business, shall be inserted in the printed Extracts. He shall be entitled to a suitable compensation.

32. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to communicate proper information to the Agent in Boston, and to the Publishing Committee, for their direction.

33. Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and request some District Association to appoint a preacher to deliver the Associational Sermon. And the church of the place of meeting is desired to make preparations to celebrate the Lord's Supper during the session.

34. A Vote or Resolve to establish, alter, or annul a standing rule of this body, shall be read twice on different days, and may be debated at each reading. At the first reading the question shall be, Shall it be read the second time?

B Y - L A W S .

1. An annual sermon shall be preached before the Association, on the subject of Home Missions, and a collection taken. The preacher shall be appointed by this body.

2. No report of the state of religion shall be read in public, unless it be approved by the Association from which it comes, or by the Committee of Arrangements of the General Association.

3. It is recommended to the several District Associations, to have their narratives on the state of religion, condensed, so as not to exceed five minutes in the time of reading.

4. The printed Minutes of this Association, shall be sufficient testimonials of the appointment of Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

5. It shall be the duty of those Delegates who attend the meetings of Foreign Bodies, whether they be Primaries or Substitutes, to certify the Secretary in writing, on or before the opening of the annual meeting next after his appointment.

6. The Minutes of this Association shall be sent to the individual members of the Associations connected with this body by mail, and the Chairman of the Committee of Publication, shall furnish a list of the names required to the Agents of the Association.

7. The Minutes of this body, forwarded to the General Association of Connecticut, shall be, according to their request, sent by mail, under the direction of the Publishing Committee.

8. The names of all the members of the Associations belonging to this body, whether with or without charge, shall be inserted in the published returns.

9. Every church without a pastor, by paying twenty-five cents, annually, to the Treasurer of the General Association, through the Treasurer of the local Association, with which said church is connected, shall be entitled to receive the Minutes of the General Association, to be forwarded in the same way as minutes are forwarded to members of the Association.

NEANDER'S CHURCH HISTORY.

A GENERAL HISTORY OF THE CHRISTIAN RELIGION AND CHURCH from the German of Dr. AUGUSTUS NEANDER. Translated from the second and improved Edition by JOSEPH TORREY, Professor, &c. in the University of Vermont. To be comprised in three vols. 8vo., of about 750 pages each. Vols. 1 and 2, containing the two first great divisions of the History, are already published. The other volume will soon be ready.

Neander's Church History is one of the most profound, carefully considered, deeply philosophised, candid, truly liberal and independent historical works that has ever been written.—Prof. Calvin E. Stone of Cincinnati.

There is no other work in any language to be compared with this, in its most prominent and best characteristics.—Vermont Chronicle.

Worcester's Watts and Select Hymns—New Edition.

DR. WORCESTER'S EDITION OF WATTS' PSALMS, HYMNS, AND SPIRITUAL SONGS, with Four Hundred and Seventy-Four SELECT HYMNS from other Authors, and Thirty OCCASIONAL PIECES. This edition was enlarged, the Key of Musical Expression revised, and the Index of Subjects and Scriptures, and Table of First Lines, greatly improved, by SAMUEL M. WORCESTER, A. M. It is stereotyped in the 32mo. Pocket size,—18mo., Common Size,—and 12mo., Large size. This last size is on large type and particularly desirable for the Pulpit and aged people. The several editions can be had in extra bindings.

Those who are thinking of a new book of Psalmody, may be interested to know, that hundreds of clergymen and laymen have expressed their decided preference of "Watts and Select Hymns," as now published, to any other work of the kind;—as combining, on the whole, the most of what is desirable, with the least of what is doubtful or objectionable.—The following are examples of such expressions of opinion, and the names of many of our most distinguished clergymen and others, who cordially concur in them, might be added.

The selection in Worcester is sufficiently ample and various, in subjects and metres, to meet the wants of a worshipping assembly; is replete with evangelical sentiments; is in accordance with the objects of benevolence pursued in this age; and is fitted to the various states of mind in which the christian desires to pour forth his feelings to God.—Rev. Dr. Barnes, Philadelphia.

I have no hesitation in declaring, that I decidedly prefer "Watts and Select Hymns" to any other book that I have ever seen. I sincerely wish that Watts and Select Hymns were used in all the churches of our country.—Rev. Dr. Spencer, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Honorary Members.

Late delegate to the Congregational Union of Canada East, Rev. David Dyer.

Late delegate to the General Assembly. O. S., Rev. A. W. McClure.

Organization.

The Rev. Emerson Davis, D. D., was chosen Moderator ; Rev. Paul Couch, Scribe ; and Rev. J. Jay Dana, Assistant Scribe.

Prayer was offered by the Moderator, and the Rules of the Association were read.

Committees.

The following Committees were chosen, viz :—

On Elections,—Rev. Messrs. Bisbee, Cobb and Austin.

Of Arrangements,—Rev. Messrs. Wells, Snell and Taylor.

On Nominations,—Rev. Messrs. Maltby, Temple and Eastman.

On Accounts,—Rev. Messrs. Harding and Harris.

Of Publication,—Rev. Messrs. J. S. Clark, Couch and Dyer.

To prepare a Narrative of the State of Religion,—Rev. Messrs. Waterbury, Bisbee, Shepard, S. W. Eaton, and S. S. Hyde.

Voted, That the morning sessions of this Body commence at 8 o'clock, the afternoon sessions at 2½ o'clock, and the evening sessions at 7¾ o'clock.

After uniting in prayer with the Rev. Mr. Taylor, the Association adjourned till 8 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

The Association listened in the evening to a sermon by Rev. Dr. Hewit, from Psalm c : 3.

Wednesday morning, 8 o'clock. The Association came to order. The roll was called, and the minutes read. Prayer was offered by the Moderator.

The Committee of Arrangements reported in part.

The Association had a season of devotional exercises.

A special Committee, consisting of the Rev. Messrs. Durfee, Austin, Bradford, Cobb and Entler, was appointed to nominate the delegates to Foreign Bodies.

Voted, That the election of Secretary be the special order of the day for tomorrow, at 9 A. M.

Agency for distributing the Minutes.

Voted, That Messrs. Crocker and Brewster, Boston, be our Agents, to print and distribute the Minutes of this Body for 1850.

Place of next Meeting.

Voted, That our next meeting be held at Wrentham, in the Mendon Association.

Preacher for next Year.

Voted, That the Vineyard Sound Association appoint the preacher for the next Association.

Pastoral Address.

Voted, That Rev. Messrs. Smith, Neill and Turner, of Berkshire Association, be appointed to prepare the Pastoral Letter for 1851.

Reports of Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

The Rev. David Dyer reported, that he attended the last meeting of the Congregational Union of Canada East.

The Rev. J. S. Clark reported, that he wrote to the Oregon Association of Congregational and Presbyterian brethren, and read an answer from that Body.

The Rev. E. Smalley, D. D., reported by letter, that he attended the General Association of Michigan.

The Rev. A. W. McClure reported, that he attended the last General Assembly of Presbyterian Church, O. S., and stated that he presented to that Body the action of this Association in relation to the subject of Slavery. He also communicated the following resolution from that Assembly, viz :

Resolved, That our delegate to the next General Association of Massachusetts, be directed to inform that venerable Body, that this General Assembly must consider itself the best judge of the action which it is necessary to take as to all the objects within its jurisdiction, and that any interference on the part of that General Association with its action upon any subject upon which this General Assembly has taken order, is offensive, and must lead to an interruption of the correspondence which subsists between that Association and this Assembly."

This resolution was committed to the Rev. Messrs. Stearns, Perkins, Carpenter, Buckingham and Noble, with instructions to report tomorrow.

The Rev. E. W. Tucker, of Chatham, read the Pastoral Address, which was approved and ordered to be printed.

The Rev. Robert McEwen, of Enfield, was appointed the next preacher on Home Missions, and the Rev. Charles S. Porter, of Plymouth, his substitute.

The following preamble and resolution were passed :—

Whereas the Rev. Hope Brown has appeared on this floor as a delegate from the General Congregational Association of Illinois, with a request that a correspondence be opened with that Body, therefore,

Resolved, That the request be complied with, and that delegates be appointed to that Body.

Voted, That hereafter the Statistical returns from the several Associations include the date of the organization of each church.

The Committee appointed last year to consider the Memorial from Berkshire Association reported against the same, and their report was accepted, and the subject was indefinitely postponed.

Adjourned till 2½ o'clock.

At 2½ o'clock, the Association re-assembled, and, after uniting in prayer with the Rev. Mr. Bisbee, listened to reports on the state of Religion in this Commonwealth and those portions of our land embraced within the ecclesiastical bodies represented in this Body.

The following preamble and resolutions were passed:—

Whereas it has pleased the great Head of the Church to pour out his Holy Spirit on a large number of the churches of this Commonwealth, therefore,

Resolved, That it becomes us to acknowledge with lively emotious of gratitude these signal displays of divine grace, and to render hearty thanks to the Most High for these exhibitions of his power.

Resolved, That we see abundant reasons for encouragement in the prosecution of our labors, as ministers of Jesus, and for renewed confidence that God will pour out his Spirit in connection with the ordinary means of grace.

After uniting in prayer with the Rev. Mr. Maltby, the Association adjourned till 7¾ o'clock.

7¾ o'clock. The Association listened to a Sermon on Home Missions, by the Rev. Samuel Harris of Conway, from 2 Cor. x : 4; after which a collection was taken up, amounting to $17 50.

Adjourned till Thursday, 8 A. M.

Thursday, 8 o'clock, A. M. The Association met. After prayer by the Moderator, the roll was called, and the minutes were read. Half an hour was spent in devotional exercises.

Choice of Secretary.

The Rev. E. Davis, D. D., was elected Secretary.

The Association then passed the following preamble and resolution:—

Whereas the Rev. Thomas Snell, D. D., who has for twenty-five years served this Body as Secretary, declines a re-election, therefore,

Resolved, That the thanks of this Body be given to Dr. Snell, for the faithful manner in which he has so long discharged the duties of his office.

The Rev. Eber Carpenter was appointed to transfer the books, papers, etc., of this Association, from Dr. Snell to Dr. Davis.

Report on the O. S. General Assembly.

The Committee appointed to consider the Resolution of the O. S. General Assembly, made a report, which, after a full discussion and a recommitment for amendment, was adopted, and is as follows, viz:—

The Committee to whom was referred the resolution of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, (O. S.) in session at Cincinnati, May 27th, 1850, and also the resolutions of Rev. Mr. McClure respecting the same, have carefully considered the subject submitted to them, and ask leave to report.

The subject submitted seems to your Committee to be a subject of great delicacy, and one which involves the most important consequences. The leading facts connected with it are these. The General Assembly of Massachusetts, at its annual meeting in 1849, adopted a resolution, touching the subject of slavery within the bounds of the General Assemblies in these words:

Resolved, That in maintaining correspondence and connection with the two General Assemblies of the Presbyterian Church, we look with deep and fraternal solicitude upon the position of those bodies with respect to the sin of slavery; that our strong sympathies are with such brethren, in those Assemblies, as are laboring, in an earnest and Christian spirit, to put an end to this evil; and that we desire our delegates to those Assemblies, in a decided but courteous manner, to express our deep conviction, that the rights of the enslaved, the cause of true religion, and the honor of the great Head of the Church, require those Ecclesiastical Bodies to use all their legitimate power and influence, for the speedy removal of slavery from the churches under their supervision.

This resolution was presented by our delegate to the General Assembly, at its meeting in May last, with such remarks as he considered pertinent to the subject entrusted to him. Near the close of the meeting, the General Assembly passed a resolution in the following words:

“That our delegate to the next General Association of Massachusetts, be directed to inform that venerable body, that this General Assembly must consider itself the best judge of the action which it is necessary for it to take as to all subjects within its jurisdiction ; and that any interference on the part of that General Association with its action upon any subject upon which this General Assembly has taken action, is offensive, and must lead to an interruption of the correspondence which subsists between that Association and the General Assembly.”

The delegate appointed by the Assembly having declined his appointment, a motion to elect a person in his stead was laid on the table, and thus no delegate was commissioned from that body to this.

Should this body put an extreme construction on the action of the General Assembly, and respond to them on the principle of worldly resentment, it might perhaps be justified in retaliatory measures of suspended intercourse. But in the exercise of that charity which hopeth all things, your Committee are unwilling to believe that a summary disruption of the fraternal relations which have long existed between these two Christian bodies was intended or desired by the Assembly. Saying, as they do, that a certain “contingency must lead” to an interruption of the correspondence,—implying that the resolution itself was not considered by them as a disruptive act—the instruction given to their delegate to present the resolution to this body, certainly indicates an expectation that the accustomed relations were to be continued. It is true that the delegate to this body, after receiving these instructions, declined his appointment, and that a motion to fill the vacancy was laid on the table. But this act of the delegate was not an act of the Assembly, nor was the motion to lay on the table made, as we understand in the hurry of affairs, just at the close of the session, necessarily an adverse motion. While, therefore, your Committee cannot but feel surprised and grieved at this resolution, thinking it uncalled for, and not in full accordance with those kind reciprocities, which are usually allowed between friendly Christian bodies, they are not prepared to recommend any measures, which shall by any possible misconstruction throw the responsibility of interrupted intercourse in any degree upon us. And while we cannot confess to their imputation of unjustifiable interference, we think it would be honorable in this body, to act rather in remembrance of past friendship, and in accordance with Christian conciliation, than from any momentary dissatisfaction with our brethren, on account of what might possibly be considered an adverse act.

Your Committee recommend the adoption of the following resolutions :

Resolved, 1. That we should deeply deplore at any time, and especially in the present distracted state of our public affairs, any interruption of that mutual correspondence and Christian sympathy, which has long subsisted between the General Association of Massachusetts, and the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

Resolved, 2. That while we desire to treat our brethren with the utmost kindness, and could not feel it our duty to press any subject upon them with undue pertinacity, we cannot doubt that in the instructions, relating to the subject of Slavery, given at our last session at Roxbury to our delegates to the General Assembly, this body exercised a plain and undoubted right of all bodies in friendly correspondence—the mutual right, kindly and respectfully to call the attention of such bodies to any evil which may be thought seriously to affect their character and influence—a right, the denial of which must reduce all correspondence to an unmeaning and worthless formality.

Resolved, 3. That while we receive this resolution with surprise and regret, being unwilling to suspend the friendly correspondence that has so long existed between us, and being in doubt, whether the action of the General Assembly was designed to do this, we wait to be informed of their meaning, and when the usual delegation is sent to us it shall be kindly received and cheerfully reciprocated.

Resolved, 4. That this action of our body be communicated by our Secretary to the Moderator of the General Assembly, to meet at St. Louis, in 1851.

Messrs. Crocker and Brewster presented an account against the Association for $128 50, which was ordered to be paid.

The Committee appointed to nominate Delegates to Foreign Bodies, asked leave to nominate two Delegates to the Congregational Union of Canada East, and leave was granted.

Rev. Dr. Waterbury, in behalf of the Committee on the Narrative of the State of Religion, made a report, which was adopted, and ordered to be printed.

Addresses in behalf of Benevolent Societies.

The Rev. Baxter Dickinson, D. D., addressed the Association on the subject of American and Foreign Christian Union ;

Rev. F. H. Marling, spoke in behalf of the French Canadian Missionary Society ;

H. Hoyt, Esq., in behalf of the American Sunday School Union ;

Rev. J. B. Waterbury, D. D., in behalf of the American Education Society ;

Rev. S. Harding, in behalf of the Doctrinal Tract and Book Society ;

Rev. W. A. Stearns, in behalf of the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society.

Treasurer's Account.

The Committee on the Treasurer's Accounts, reported that they had examined the same and found them correct, and that there is a balance of $9 20 in the Treasury. They recommended that the tax for the coming year be fifty cents for each member of the District Associations. This report was adopted.

Delegates to Foreign Bodies.

---

To give a satisfactory account of the state of religion within the bounds of the General Association, would require a fulness of detail inconsistent with the circumstances under which this narrative is prepared or heard.

Aiming then at brevity and condensation, we begin by saying, that the churches of our denomination in the Commonwealth, are generally in a state of outward prosperity. By this we mean, that the attendance is good; the ministry respected; houses of worship re-fitted or superceded by new ones; and even where no evidences exist of unusual awakenings, there is nevertheless a serious attention to the preached word. For this we are bound to thank God and take courage.

We may state, moreover, that a growing conviction is felt of the importance of permanency and constancy in the relation of pastor and people; it being now generally conceded, that a greater calamity could scarcely befall the churches than the frequent rupture of this sacred tie.

We have to record, and we do it with sorrow yet with resignation, that within the past year God has removed by death, from the sphere of their labors, several highly distinguished ministers and members of our Association. The language of this providence is, "By ye also ready."

We are happy to observe that attention to the religious culture of the young, is regarded as an object of great importance by the pastors; that Sabbath-school instruction is faithfully imparted and gratefully received; and that by these means the seed is being sown, which will be followed by "first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear." One of the most interesting revivals reported to the Association, seemed to have an immediate connection with faithful exhortations on the part of Sabbath-school teachers. It is more and more evident, that

Sabbath schools cannot be over-estimated in their influence as spheres of usefulness to private Christians, as auxiliaries to family government, and as nurseries to the Church of God. We are able to state, that throughout our churches, they are sustained, and in general are in a flourishing condition.

The cause of benevolence—embracing all the societies having for their object the extension of Christ's kingdom—seems to have received a cordial, and in some instances a liberal support; though it is to be feared that few give in proportion as God has blessed them.

It is a gratifying circumstance, ascertained through the reports of our delegates, that ministers have preached with plainness and fidelity the doctrines of grace as taught in the Bible, and as inculcated in our established creeds; repudiating the novelties which assume to be improvements on the ancient faith of our fathers. By such preaching, together with a simple dependence on the Spirit of God, revivals have taken place of a type similar to those which blessed the churches in former ages.

In regard to the vices of intemperance, Sabbath desecration, and licentiousness, whilst we would indulge the hope, that there is no perceptible augmentation of them, they are nevertheless still fearfully prevalent. A scrupulous regard to the virtues of temperance, chastity, and the sanctification of the Sabbath should characterize professing Christians; that example may combine with precept in recommending those virtues to others.

The most auspicious and delightful feature of the past year's experience, however, is the prevalence, after a long season of declension, of revivals of religion; reminding us of the contrast between those dreary years, under the reign of Ahab, when all nature languished for lack of moisture; and that cloud which the prophet descried from Carmel, and which poured its gladdening influences on the thirsty soil. God has indeed remembered Zion. The time to favor her seems to have come. The precious seed, sown so long in tears, has at length been reaped in joy. Many have come even bending under their sheaves. This is the Lord's doings, and it is marvellous in our eyes. From all parts of the State nearly, the reports of revivals of religion are most animating. Had we time and space for the record of these wonderful works of God, as described by our delegates, it would draw forth tears of gratitude from many an eye which has looked longingly for the renewed visitations of the Spirit. They seem to have come under circumstances which leave no room for doubt that they are truly and emphatically the work of God's Spirit. They bear the pentecostal stamp.

The agency employed was no other than the regular ministrations of the sanctuary, accompanied in many instances by fervent prayer on the part of the church. Silent and deep have been the emotions of the convicted; and the sense of sin in many if not most instances has been apparently deep and pungent. Heads of families, together with the young of both sexes, have been included in these merciful visitations. These revivals, we are happy to learn, are to a considerable extent still in progress; and we trust that the cloud of mercy, hovering over our churches, will spread, until every portion of Zion shall be as a well-watered garden.

To mention all the towns where the grace of God has been thus signally displayed, would be inexpedient; but we cannot refrain from allusion to some of the most favored regions. Within the bounds of the Berkshire Association, great has been the power of God's Spirit in the conversion of souls. In the town of Adams alone, it is supposed that three hundred have been brought into the kingdom of Christ. In Essex North the work has not been less powerful; the population of whole towns being simultaneously affected. The churches within the bounds of the Taunton Association have likewise been sharers to a large extent in this blessed work of the Spirit, and many young men are reported to have consecrated themselves to the service of God, who, we hope, may become heralds of salvation to a lost world. In short, it has been a year of the right hand of the Most High. "Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness and for his wonderful works to the children of men!" The sovereignty of God, as usual, has been signally displayed in these revivals. He has had mercy on whom He will have mercy. Some churches, with equal fidelity in the application of the means of grace, have had to mourn an apparent dereliction of the Spirit; whilst, by their side, others have been greatly refreshed. Let not these distinctions cause self-complacency in the one, nor despondency in the other. Let all lie at the footstool, and say, "Thou only art worthy." Let not even the most discouraging prospects make us weary in well-doing; for the promise is, "In due season ye shall reap, if ye faint not;" and the command, accompanied by a still more glorious promise, is, "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee the crown of life."

PASTORAL ADDRESS.

BELOVED BRETHREN,—

In this our accustomed way we address you again on the great interests of the kingdom of Christ. We do so because of the deep concern we feel for his cause, as connected with both your usefulness on earth, and everlasting welfare in heaven. The people of God are called not only to seek a personal inheritance in heaven, but the advancement of the Redeemer's cause in the world. This latter, is their great work, after their conversion to God—perhaps, we may say, the only work for which he permits them to tarry on his footstool. He desires to employ them to advance the truth, to promote the spirit of Christianity, and so, to be the means, at length, of bringing all the world under subjection to Christ.

For each Christian to accomplish that part of the work assigned to him, requires all his heart, intellect, time and strength. This is to be his main work. Every thing he does should be subordinate to this.

The particular point to which we wish now to ask your attention, is that of your commending the truth to every man's conscience in the sight of God. This is what the apostle Paul said, he and some others did; and it is what every Christian should do, as that which is immeasurably important to the cause of Christ. By conscience, we mean, that in man which responds to moral rectitude, and thus distinguishes between right and wrong. With this arbiter in the soul, every man is judging of the actions of every other man, so far as they fall under his observation. It is in the recognition of this fact, that we are required to “hold forth the word of life;” to “walk in wisdom toward them who are without;” and to “Let our light so shine before men, that they may see our good works, and glorify our Father who is in heaven.”

Let us then notice, in a familiar manner, some of those ways in which we, as the disciples of Jesus, may commend the truth to every man's conscience in the sight of God.

1. We may do this by carefulness to fulfil our engagements. We often make promises one to another, and so excite expectations. Indeed we cannot do business of any kind without these being either expressed or implied. Now when such promises are broken by any individual, it is wrong; but when a professing Christian does this, the Holy Spirit is grieved, and the truth is dishonored. Does a man agree to meet you at a given time and place, and then disappoint you only because it was not convenient for him to keep his word? How greatly is your confidence in him weakened! And should he repeat the same thing, how will you know when to trust him! What reliance can you place on his profession of regard to the truth?

We know that there sometimes are, and will be, casualties which will make it impossible for a man to fulfil his engagements, however much he may desire. But this every man knows, and for it will make allowance. But, excepting such casualties, there is such a thing as a man's being known a man of his word. Some men, when they have made promises, will keep them, though it costs them ten-fold more than was anticipated. They will keep their word for truth's sake, for religion's sake, whatever inconvenience it may involve. There are others who make promises and mean to keep them; but when that is found more inconvenient than was anticipated, they sacrifice their word, and disappoint the expectations they raised. What injury is done to religion, when it is justly said of any professing Christian, “He is not a man of his word; you cannot depend on what he says.” The psalmist inquired, “Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in thy holy hill?” The answer in part is, “He that sweareth to his own heart, and changeth not;” that is, he who meets the obligations he assumed, though personal suffering be the consequence. Let it not be said of the professed disciples of Jesus, that their word is no better than other men's. It ought to be better, and if it is not, religion is brought into disrepute.

2. We may commend the truth to every man's conscience by carefulness in the contracting of debts. Religion has often been wounded in the house of its friends by the contraction of debts which could not be cancelled. This may be thought by some a trifling matter, but it is not. Nothing is of small account that is injurious to religion. When a professing Christian recklessly incurs debts which he cannot pay, many will call him a dishonest man. And is he not dishonest? For a man to assume obligations of this kind, without apparent certainty that he can meet them, what is it but dishonesty? When an individual contracts a debt with property in his possession sufficient for security, or when from other causes it is his decided opinion he shall be able to meet the demand, the case is different. But when a man, for the sake of extending his business, or for any other consideration, augments his obligations, in doubt whether he shall be able to fulfil them, or without good expectation of doing so, is it not a species of dishonesty? Does he not run a risk of doing that which will result in as much harm to his neighbor as a theft? He may not mean to do this wrong; but he does it, and others suffer.

The cause of God often suffers in this way. Many a professing Christian has failed to pay what he honestly owed, and suffering has been the result. Others have felt that it was greediness after the world which led him to incur such debts; or that he was criminally careless; or perhaps that he was purposely dishonest. And such conduct in a Christian, is more observed, more thought of, and more talked of, than in other men.

We believe that men who are temperate and industrious, can, in this land of plenty, obtain a comfortable living without contracting debts in the risk of not being able to pay them. But when they do this, it looks as if more than a comfortable living was sought. "And they that will be rich, fall into temptation, and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition."

3. We may commend the truth to every man's conscience, by strict honesty and candor in business.

A man's wish to get the best of a bargain is very often seen; and when discovered in a Christian, it wars against religion. For a man to speak only of the excellencies of that he wishes to sell, and to say nothing of its defects, is certainly a kind of deception closely allied to falsehood. Yet how commonly is this done! Solomon saw it in his days, and wrote: "It is naught, it is naught, saith the buyer; but when he has gone his way, then he boasteth." Let Christians be careful always to speak of the defects as well as the excellencies of that they wish to sell, and the cause of God will be saved much reproach.

When you hear a man say: "Such a professing Christian deceived me; the article he sold me was not what he said it was ;” how religion suffers ! Yet the disciples of Jesus are sometimes liable to do this, even when they do not mean to do wrong, or when they think they do not. They feel that custom in trade will justify them in doing so ; that it belongs not to them to point out defects in their own goods ; that their business is to mention excellencies ; while the buyer may, if he can, find out faults. But this is not the way to be strictly honest. It is not the way in which two individuals, loving each other as they love themselves, would do. It is not according to the golden rule. And when a professing Christian does so, the gospel is hindered.

4. We may commend the truth to every man’s conscience, by a becoming generosity in business.

By this we mean a spirit and practice opposed to that which many nurture, and which leads them to grasp after every mill they can get ; to stand for the smallest pittance that is due. We may indeed have a right to do this, and no one may have just cause to complain. But it does not look well. It exhibits a sordid, niggardly disposition. It looks as if religion had not opened our hearts ; had not broken our hold on the things of this world ; had not yet rent mammon from our affections. The fact that a man has a right to all that is due to him, does not always alter the appearance of the thing in the view of the world. All know that the heirs of heaven should not be so grasping after the things of earth ; and when any one is so, he does not, as he should, commend the truth. He thereby injures the cause of God.

To hear it said of a professing Christian, that he will stand for half a cent as long as any other man, makes a most unfavorable impression. The world takes advantage of it. A man had better suffer the inconvenience of losing a little than give occasion for such reproach. Let the lovers of this world show this spirit if they please, but let the heirs of heaven maintain the mind of Christ.

5. We may commend the truth to every man’s conscience, by always cherishing and showing a spirit of accommodation.

Some men are far more willing to accommodate a neighbor than others. Some wish neither to borrow nor lend ; or if they lend, it is with a reluctance which shows the favor was grudgingly bestowed. When this is discovered in a professing Christian, it is unfavorable to religion. To hear an individual say, “I had rather ask a favor of any one, than of such a professor,” is painful to the friends of Zion.

A kind and obliging spirit in a Christian always commends religion. We should always be careful to cherish it. It is a duty we owe to the truth and to Jesus. Its maintenance is a part of religion. To love, to oblige, to accommodate, is among the fruits of the Spirit. The world know this, and they look for its exhibition. And if they do not behold it, they will cast contempt on religion.

6. We may commend the truth to every man's conscience, by always maintaining a control of our feelings.

The good man, in his intercourse with the world, often has his spirit tried. Some are naturally of an excitable temperament, and it is with great difficulty they sometimes restrain their feelings. Some professing Christians are known to be sometimes passionate, and when in an excited state, to say and do things wholly contrary to the Spirit of Christ. In such cases the truth is not commended to the consciences of others; very far from it. Religion has been greatly harmed by a momentary yielding to passion. However much the world may be at fault, they know this is not Christ-like. They will reproach the man who professes godliness, and does not in patience possess his soul. And that reproach falls on religion.

We ought then, as those who love the Lord, to be careful on this point; remembering that every man's conscience is sufficiently alive to detect what, in this particular, is right and wrong; what religion requires, and what it forbids.

7. We may commend the truth to every man's conscience, by wholly avoiding the practice of tattling and backbiting.

A tattler is always, and perhaps almost of necessity, a back-biter. Probably you cannot spend in company one hour devoted to conversation about absent ones, without saying some things which you would not have said had they been present. Should you make the experiment, and succeed in saying nothing you would not wish all who are absent to hear, you would probably find your conversation dull and dry. Now, it is far better, to sacrifice a lively conversation, than a neighbor's reputation.

The tattler is always known; and though his conversation may excite interest and draw forth smiles, it does not commend his course. All men know it to be dishonest and mean. The professing Christian who does it, dishonors himself and his religion. The child of God should have something better to feast on than the faults of others. And if his religion furnishes him with nothing better, it is lean, and will not promote, but hinder the gospel.

These things, Christian brethren, are important. We ought carefully to attend to them. A great trust is committed to us ; a trust for which the Saviour died ; a trust connected with the glory of the Most High, and the salvation of men. Jesus suffered that true piety might prevail among men. His disposition must be ours, or we are none of his. His example is before us. He left it for our imitation. We must deny ourselves, take up our cross, and follow him. Who can estimate the responsibility laid upon us ! That God may be glorified, and that souls may be saved, let us ever be careful so to live and act, as to commend the truth to every man's conscience in the sight of God.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

Arranged in the Alphabetical order of the several District Associations.

N. B. The columns denoting Churches, Ministers, and date of Settlement, correspond with the facts as they were supposed to exist when the last meeting of the General Association was held, June, 1850. The number of Communicants is reported for 1st January preceding. The Admissions, Removals, and Baptisms, are designed to cover the year 1849. The Sabbath Schools and Bible Classes embrace both teachers and pupils who usually attend these exercises. In a few instances the number of church members has been supplied from the returns of the previous year,—though not till all reasonable efforts have failed to secure the present number.

* This is a newly organized body, composed chiefly of members from the Old Colony and Taunton Associations. Through mere inadvertency it was not admitted, in form, to the General Association of Massachusetts at the last meeting.

REMARKS ON THE PRECEDING TABLES.

It will be seen that a new column has been added to the tables, according to a vote of the last General Association, (see Minutes, p. 7,) for the date of the organization of each church. The value of this column must appear, to all reflecting minds, sufficiently obvious to justify a special effort in filling it up as accurately as possible, and as soon as it can be done. The work well accomplished once, is accomplished once for all, so far as relates to the churches now existing; while those hereafter gathered will bring the date of their organization with them when they come to be enrolled with the rest. As requested by the General Association, the Publishing Committee have supplied such dates as they had in their possession, with the understanding that each one is to be revised, and either confirmed or corrected in the next statistical returns. Besides the embarrassment occasioned by the loss of early records, the history of many of our churches involves a secession (sometimes in an organized, and sometimes in a disorganized state) from the parishes with which they were originally connected, which enhances the difficulty of fixing their dates. In all such cases the Committee have been governed by the following simple rule, viz:—when the majority of a church secedes, retaining still their organization, they carry with them the original date; but when they depart as so many individual members to be organized a-new, the date of that new organization attaches to the church. And so, in regard to another small class of churches which for other reasons have effected a re-organization,—the present organization is the one whose date is inserted. In a number of instances, where the year is given without month or day, the amount of the Committee's information would have been better expressed by saying "about" such a time.

There is still occasion to deplore the want of completeness in the statistical returns; though by much effort and some expense the Committee have succeeded in filling up many a yawning chasm, which the pastors might have filled with less effort and no expense at the appropriate time.

The present year's report, as compared with the last, shows an increase of one district Association, 12 churches, and 573 members; while the number of ministers in charge of churches remains just the same.

Several typographical errors, which escaped detection while the tables were going through the press, have been corrected in the "Summary,"—hence the slight discrepancy between the two.

RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

1. The Association, by which the General Association of Massachusetts was originally organized, agreed to admit, and this Association continue to admit, as articles of faith, the doctrines of Christianity, as they are generally expressed in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism; and the above-mentioned doctrines, understood by us to be distinctly those, which from the beginning, have been embraced by the churches of New England as the doctrines of the Gospel, are considered as the basis of our union.

2. This General Association is founded on the principles of Congregationalism, and wholly disclaims ecclesiastical jurisdiction over the churches, or the opinions of individuals. Its object is to promote brotherly harmony and intercourse among the ministers of Christ;—to obtain religious information relative to the state of their churches, and of the christian church in this country, and throughout the world;—and to co-operate with one another, and with other ecclesiastical bodies, in the most eligible measures for advancing the cause of truth and holiness.

3. Each District Association in Massachusetts, consenting to the principles of this Union, as stated in the first article, may appoint two delegates annually, to compose this General Association: and it is recommended, that one be appointed, who attended the preceding year.

4. The time of the annual meeting of this Association, shall be on the fourth Tuesday of June, at five o'clock, P. M., at such place, as shall have been duly notified.

5. Seven members, delegated from the particular Associations of Massachusetts, shall be requisite to form a quorum for transacting any business; but for opening and adjourning the meeting, a less number shall be competent.

6. The secretary, and the minister of the church where the Association meet, shall have seats, and act as members; the Associations to which they belong retaining the right to elect their number of Delegates in addition.

7. The minister of the church in the place where the Association meets, or the secretary, may call the Association to order, and preside in the meeting until the Association shall be properly organized.

8. The certificates of the delegates present shall be read by the Secretary, or by a temporary Scribe; and the Association shall then be organized by the choice of a Moderator, a Scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant Scribe, by ballot. The Rules of the Association shall also be read, and the Moderator shall open the business with prayer.

9. At the opening of the session on each subsequent day, the Moderator shall take the chair at the hour to which the Association stands adjourned; shall immediately call the members to order; direct the roll to be called; shall open the meeting with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read; and the session of each day shall be closed with prayer.

10. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, shall be appointed by nomination, to prepare the business of the session; and no business shall be introduced during the session, but through the hands, and with the approbation of the Committee. But if said Committee decline presenting any item of business proposed by any member, he shall have the privilege of appeal to the Association.

11. Every motion, on being seconded, shall, if requested by the Moderator, or any two members, be reduced to writing, and no motion shall be open to discussion, until it be seconded.

12. The Moderator may speak to points of order, in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he may not speak to the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and placing some other member in it, to preside while he speaks.

13. On questions of order, adjournment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, no member shall speak more than once. Nor on any question shall a member speak more than twice, without leave of the Association.

14. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question; viz. Shall the main question be now put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate, and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a Committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

15. If a question under debate contain several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

16. Every member, when speaking, shall address himself to the chair; and shall be subject to no needless interruption; if he act disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of other members to call him to order.

17. The discussions in the Association, and the whole deportment of the members, shall be in accordance with decorum, with due respect to the chair, and with courtesy to each other.

18. No member shall leave the Association before the session is closed, except with the consent of the body; nor shall any one leave the house during a sitting, without the consent of the Moderator.

19. Each annual meeting shall be closed with a psalm or hymn, and prayer by the Moderator, or such other member as he shall appoint.

20. Our principles of fraternal intercourse with all ecclesiastical bodies in correspondence with us are, that this Association, and each body connected with it, shall annually appoint Delegates to the other, which shall be admitted to the privilege of sitting, and deliberating upon all matters which may come under consideration.

21. The principle of the connection formed with the Massachusetts Missionary Society is, that said Society may annually appoint two delegates to this body, who shall be admitted to equal privileges with the members from the District Associations.

22. Gentlemen, who are admitted as honorary members, shall be allowed full liberty to take part in all deliberations; though they are not considered as entitled to vote; and it is expected they will give notice to the body, if they find it necessary to withdraw previous to the close of the session. The approbation of the Committee of Arrangements shall be obtained, before a gentleman shall be proposed to sit as an honorary member.

23. The Delegates, who the preceding year attended the meetings of foreign bodies, shall, ex officio, have seats as honorary members of the General Association.

24. A Committee of three shall be annually appointed, to submit to the General Association at the next meeting, a Pastoral Address, to excite the attention of ministers and Christians to faithful discipline in the churches, the instruction of the rising generation, the sanctification of the Sabbath, and other subjects relating to the general interests of religion. The address being approved by the General Association, shall be signed by the Moderator, and printed with the minutes. This Committee shall be chosen from the several Associations in rotation.

25. The several Associations shall have the offer of receiving, in rotation, the annual meeting of the General Association, and each one, in turn, shall appoint one of their number to preach the Associational Sermon, which shall be delivered at two o'clock, Thursday, P. M., after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper shall be administered. The narratives given by the Delegates of the several Associations concerning the state of religion and the churches, shall be given on Wednesday afternoon, and shall be presented in writing, with a view to obtain an accurate account of the principal facts, not however to prevent any more particular details which the Delegates may think expedient to add, or the Association to request. The returns, with respect to the number in the churches, etc., shall be made out according to a printed schedule of this body, and according to the numbers on the first of January past.

26. A Committee shall be appointed to receive the narratives and statements, and shall condense them into one narrative, to be submitted to the General Association and published. The written narratives shall be deposited with the Secretary.

27. A Committee shall be appointed to nominate Delegates to foreign bodies, which delegates shall, as far as practicable, be selected from the District Associations in rotation. The brethren chosen substitutes in the delegations to the several bodies in our connection, shall, at our next session be considered as Delegates to the respective bodies, if they shall not previously have taken their seats there, through the failure of their principals.

28. The Secretary shall be chosen for three years, from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made. He shall, ex officio, be the Treasurer of the General Association; and shall be allowed his own travelling expenses in attending the meetings of this Association.

A Committee shall be appointed annually, to audit the accounts, who shall report the state of the treasury, and the sum in their opinion necessary to be paid the next year by the members of the several Associations connected with this body. The Secretary shall be authorized to pay such expenses as are allowed by this Association.

29. It shall be the duty of the Delegates of the District Associations, to pay the amount of the Assessments due from their respective Associations for the past year, whether collected by them or not.

30. A Publishing Committee shall be annually appointed, to make such extracts from the minutes of the meeting, as in their judgment it will be proper to publish; procure to be printed such number of copies, with the Pastoral Address and Narrative of the State of Religion, as will give one copy to each minister of the Associations represented in this body; and such a number of copies for other bodies connected with this Association, as shall be mutually agreed upon. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to receive the publications from foreign bodies, and distribute them among the several Associations, in proportion to the tax paid by them respectively. One copy of each publication, received by the General Association, or printed by its order, shall be kept in the archives.

31. An Agent shall be appointed in Boston to transmit the Extracts of the Minutes of this General Association to other ecclesiastical bodies, and to receive their Extracts or other publications, and transmit them to the several District Associations represented in this body. And notice of his appointment and place of business, shall be inserted in the printed Extracts. He shall be entitled to a suitable compensation.

32. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to communicate proper information to the Agent in Boston, and to the Publishing Committee, for their direction.

33. Previously to the close of each meeting, the General Association shall specify a place for meeting the next year, and request some District Association to appoint a preacher to deliver the Associational Sermon. And the church of the place of meeting is desired to make preparations to celebrate the Lord's Supper during the session.

34. A Vote or Resolve to establish, alter, or annul a standing rule of this body, shall be read twice on different days, and may be debated at each reading. At the first reading the question shall be, Shall it be read the second time?

B Y - L A W S .

1. An annual sermon shall be preached before the Association, on the subject of Home Missions, and a collection taken. The preacher shall be appointed by this body.
2. No report of the state of religion shall be read in public, unless it be approved by the Association from which it comes, or by the Committee of Arrangements of the General Association.
3. It is recommended to the several District Associations, to have their narratives on the state of religion, condensed, so as not to exceed five minutes in the time of reading.
4. The printed Minutes of this Association, shall be sufficient testimonials of the appointment of Delegates to Foreign Bodies.
5. It shall be the duty of those Delegates who attend the meetings of Foreign Bodies, whether they be Primaries or Substitutes, to certify the Secretary in writing, on or before the opening of the annual meeting next after his appointment.
6. The Minutes of this Association shall be sent to the individual members of the Associations connected with this body by mail, and the Chairman of the Committee of Publication, shall furnish a list of the names required to the Agents of the Association.
7. The Minutes of this body, forwarded to the General Association of Connecticut, shall be, according to their request, sent by mail, under the direction of the Publishing Committee.
8. The names of all the members of the Associations belonging to this body, whether with or without charge, shall be inserted in the published returns.
9. Every church without a pastor, by paying twenty-five cents, annually, to the Treasurer of the General Association, through the Treasurer of the local Association, with which said church is connected, shall be entitled to receive the Minutes of the General Association, to be forwarded in the same way as minutes are forwarded to members of the Association.
